SPAIN'S THOUSAND-DAY CIVIL WAR HAS ENDED.

A "United Press" message states that an official announcement was broadcast from Burgos at 2.20 p.m. (10.20 p.m. H.K.T.) yesterday, proclaiming the surrender of the Republican areas and the termination of the Civil War.

General Franco is expected to stage a triumphant entry into Valencia to-day.

996 DAYS OF FIGHTING

Thus the war ends 996 days after its commencement, the longest and most bitter conflict the world has known in a quarter of a century.

996th
DAY

The Spanish Civil War started on July 18, 1936—996 days ago.
The revolt broke out in military garrisons in Spanish Morocco and spread rapidly throughout Spain, with serious fighting between Government and rebel troops.

The revolt was of an openly Monarchist nature, the insurgent leader being General Franco, formerly Governor of the Canary Islands, from which office he was dismissed by the Azana Government.

The struggle, in its latter phases, threatened to engulf some of the European Powers, those of a Nazi-Fascist tendency lending open aid to General Franco, while those of the Democratic view for a while supported the Government.

When democratic support seemed like embroiling Europe in war it was officially withdrawn.
It is estimated that over 4,000,000 lives have been lost during the war. Millions of people are homeless and Spain is virtually bankrupt.

EUROPEAN TENSION Latest Moves In Cauldron Pot

BRATISLAVA, Mar. 29.
GERMANY IS building a line of fortifications in Slovakia running approximately 50 miles north and south across the Carpathian mountains.

The line could be regarded as a protection for the former Austria in the event of an attack from the East. Poland is also reported to be actively constructing a line of trenches on the Slovak frontier.—Reuter.

TROOPS ON MOVE

Danzig, Mar. 29.
Continued movement of Polish troops to the northern end of the Corridor was reported here to-day. However, fears of German invasion have perceptibly waned.

Officials believed that if Hitler had immediate designs regarding the Corridor, he would have carried them out last week in connection with the entry into Memel.—United Press.

NO ULTIMATUM

Warsaw, Mar. 29.
Official quarters here deny that there has been a German ultimatum to Poland, or pressure brought to bear by Germany about the status of the free city of Danzig.—Reuter.

POLAND DEFIANT

Danzig, Mar. 29.
A Polish official to-day told the United Press that Poland will never surrender Danzig to Germany without a fight.

The loss of the Free State would mean the forfeiture of a great measure of political independence, together with their entire economic independence.—United Press.

GERMANY AND YUGO-SLAVIA
Berlin, Mar. 29.
It is reliably reported that a Yugo-Slav trade delegation will leave for Berlin this week to discuss methods of stimulating trade between Germany and Yugo-Slavia.

It is reported that Prince Paul, 1st Regent of Yugo-Slavia, intends going to Munich next week on a private visit.—United Press.

BRITAIN & FRANCE Co-ordination Of Forces

PARIS, Mar. 29.
OSTENSIBLY the British Supreme War Council, headed by General Viscount Gort, is visiting France to inspect the Maginot line.

However, authoritative sources state that the real purpose is to study on the spot how best to co-ordinate French and British forces in the event of war.

The visit shows that, whatever the outcome of the efforts to bring Poland, the Soviet and Rumania into the line-up of States pledged to fight Hitler's expansion, France and Britain are determinedly continuing to lay the most solid foundations possible for military co-operation, not only in the west but throughout Europe.

During the three day talks the War Council will discuss the strategic aspects of attack and defence and the most suitable bases and sections of the Maginot line.—(Continued on Page 4)

At many stages, the struggle threatened to embroil the whole of Europe. Republican Spain crumbled as the Nationalists took over every large city and the war was officially proclaimed as having ended.

Valencia fell 24 hours after Madrid. In rapid succession, the Nationalist Falangists took over the key towns of Ciudadreal, Cuenca, Murcia, Almeria, Guadalajara, Jaen, Alicante, the Albacete naval base and Cartagena.

MADRID NOW CAPITAL

The Burgos official radio stated that the Spanish capital will now be moved to Madrid. It is believed that thousands of popular front leaders, including General Miaja may be trapped in Gandia.

Valencia and the other cities were taken without resistance. General Besteiro and several other Republican leaders are at present confined in the Ministry of Finance but are not "arrested."

Peaceful Surrender

Madrid, Mar. 29.
The town and province of Albacete surrendered to General Franco's forces to-day according to reports received this afternoon. The administration was provisionally taken over by local Falangists.

The surrender of the Republican southern army to General Franco, says a Burgos message, which means the termination of the civil war, was announced by radio to-day.

Nationalist troops are now systematically occupying towns in the southern Spanish provinces without encountering resistance.

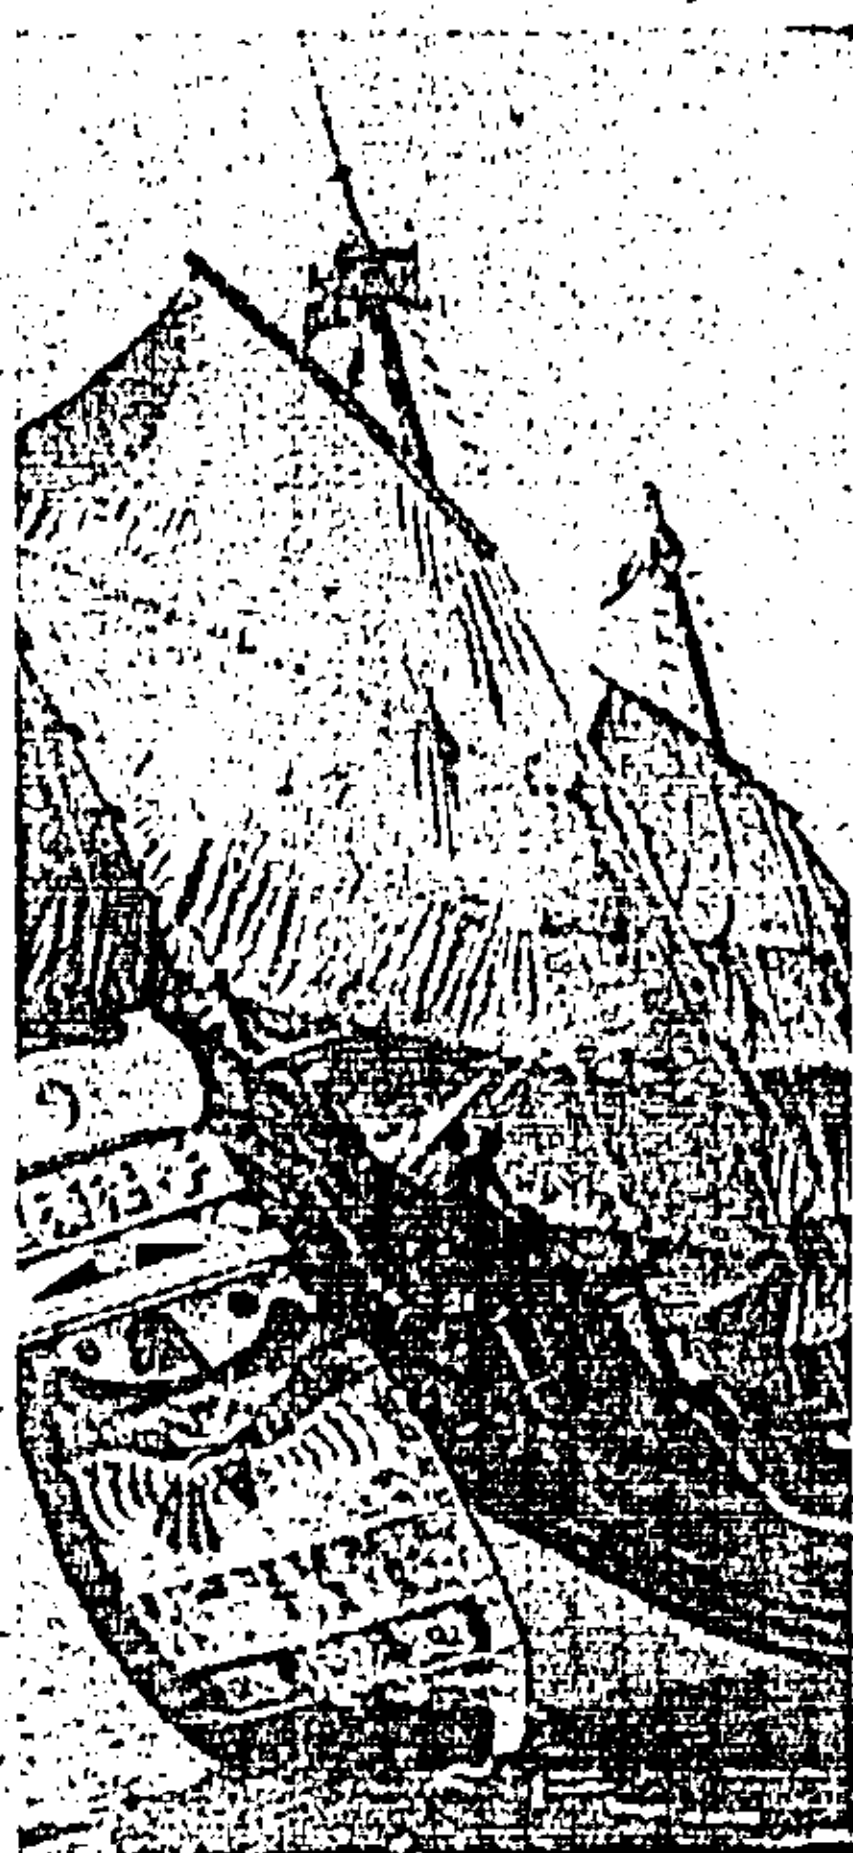

The majority of the Republican soldiers have gone over to General Franco's side, while the rest are in flight.

Another Madrid report says that following the surrender of Valencia, Colonel Casado, until recently a member of the Madrid Defence Council, deposed the Mayor of Valencia, Senor Molina Conjero, and the military commander, General Aranguren.

They were replaced by the former Under-Secretary of State in the Madrid Defence Council, Senor Sanchez Erquena, and Senor Carrero.

FRANCE CHEERED

THE SEA DRAGON

Fears For Sea Dragon

Trans-Pacific Junk
Radio Silent

Fears are entertained for the safety of the crew of twelve in the Hongkong trans-Pacific junk Sea Dragon.

A "United Press" message from San Francisco states that all radio communication with the junk has ceased since 3 p.m. last Friday.

Previously, the junk communicated three daily with the San Francisco radio station of the Mackay Radio Corporation.

On Friday last Captain John Welch reported that the vessel was midway between Hongkong and San Francisco.

France To Elect New President

Versailles, Mar. 29.
Preparations are being completed here for the election of France's 15th President by the Senate and Chamber of Deputies, which is sitting together in the Palace of Versailles on April 5.

The list of possible candidates has been reduced to five by the refusal of many prominent men, including M. Lebrun, M. Daladier, and M. Herriot to stand.

Of the five candidates, there are three Senators, M. Henry Roy, M. Queuille, and M. Justin Godart, and two Deputies, M. Fernand Boulson and M. Brancion Pielri.—Reuter.

AUSTRALIA MAN-POWER

CANBERRA, Mar. 29.
THE PRIME MINISTER has announced that the Australian Cabinet has decided to introduce a compulsory national register of man-power in the defence programme.—United Press.

Japan Pays $20,000 To H.K. Government

LONDON, MAR. 29.—IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS TO-DAY, MR. R. A. BUTLER INFORMED A QUESTIONER THAT THE JAPANESE HAD PAID THE GOVERNMENT OF HONGKONG $20,000 TO COVER ALL CLAIMS IN CONNECTION WITH THE AIR RAID NEAR SHUMCHUN. INVITED TO STATE THE PRESENT POSITION IN INNER MONGOLIA, MR. BUTLER DESCRIBED THE MON-COLIAN FRONTIER JOINT COMMISSION AND THE SMALLER AUTONOMOUS GOVERNMENTS OF CHAHAR AND NORTH SHANSI, AND ADDED THAT JAPANESE TROOPS WERE REPORTED TO BE STATIONED AT VARIOUS POINTS ALONG THE PEIPING-SUIYAN RAILWAY, BUT THAT THE GOVERNMENT HAD NO ACCURATE INFORMATION REGARDING THEIR ACTUAL NUMBERS.—REUTER.

TERRITORIAL ARMY STRENGTH TO BE DOUBLED

LONDON, Mar. 29.
GREAT BRITAIN has ordered the Territorial Army to be increased to the war-time basis of 340,000 men as military precautions have replaced diplomatic gestures against the dictators.

In the House of Commons to-day the Prime Minister announced that the territorial would be almost tripled by voluntary enlistment campaigns.

38 Divisions

The increase means that the number of divisions available for service overseas will be doubled, apparently meaning that henceforth Britain will have 38 divisions totaling 600,000 available as expeditionary forces in France in the event of war, as compared with the 10 divisions which the Secretary for War recently announced.

Mr. Chamberlain said it is intended to utilise the services of retired officers, non-commissioned officers and veterans for training recruits. He made it clear that the Cabinet believes in voluntary service instead of conscription to meet present needs.

The Premier, answering Mr. Boothby, the Conservative member for Aberdeen, said that the British Government is making contact with the Soviet Union in connection with negotiations on the international situation.—United Press.

Government Impressed

LONDON, Mar. 29.
The Prime Minister said: "The House will remember that in a recent statement I announced that every national defence programme would be examined anew."

"In the course of this review, the Government has been impressed with the need of availing itself still further of the spirit of voluntary service which is manifest throughout the country."

"In particular, it feels that it cannot allow would-be recruits for the territorial army to be refused because the units to which they apply are already over strength."

"Accordingly the Government has given consideration to the position and has come to the following conclusions:
1.—That the territorial field army, which is now on peace establishment of 140,000 men be raised forthwith to an establishment involving the addition of about 60,000 men.
2.—The territorial army, when finally doubled, will be allotted an establishment of 340,000."

Important Decisions
"You will appreciate that these important decisions involve a number of consequential decisions in order to provide for the necessary increases in accommodation, the number of competent instructors, in equipment and reserves, and in war material necessary to maintain the increased forces."
"Plans for all these matters are being worked out, and further information about them will be given from time to time."

"I realise that further and much more augmented efforts will be required to bring home to the nation the necessity for obtaining the numbers aimed at in the shortest possible time, and I trust that all members of the House will be willing, in one form or another, to give their aid to such an effort."

Sir Archibald Sinclair welcomed the Prime Minister's statement.
"Mr. F. J. Bellenger (Labour) asked what effect Mr. Chamberlain's announcement would have on Mr. Hore-Bellish's recent statement regarding the number of divisions available for overseas."
"Mr. Chamberlain replied that the effect would be, in time, to double the effective—Reuter.

Aggressors Condemned

LONDON, Mar. 29.
THE FOLLOWING resolution was adopted in the House of Commons to-day:

"This House is of the opinion that the successive acts of aggression in Europe and the increasing pressure on small States can only be successfully met by the vigorous prosecution of the foreign policy recently outlined by the Foreign Secretary."

"It is further of the opinion that for this task the National Government should be entrusted with full powers over the nation's industry, wealth, and power to enable this country to put forward its maximum military efforts in the shortest possible time.—United Press.

BIG SHIPS COLLIDE NEAR H.K.

Canton And French
Liner In Fog

IN DENSE FOG, the 15,000-ton P. & O. liner Canton and the 13,000-ton M.M. liner Marchal Joffre collided at sea this morning, at a point about a hundred miles north of Hongkong.

The "Telegraph" understands that the new P. & O. liner, which made its maiden trip to the Far East last November, is making water slightly amidships.

The collision occurred in Latitude 22.41 north, longitude 115.18 east. Only meagre reports have been received in Hongkong, but it is understood that neither ship requires assistance.

A message was despatched to the Commander of the Canton, Capt. H. M. Jack, asking if the services of a tug was required, but no reply has been received.

The collision occurred shortly after 9 a.m., as the Canton was en route to Hongkong from Shanghai. She was due to arrive at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The Marchal Joffre left Hongkong at 11 o'clock last night for Shanghai. Both ships were proceeding at half-speed when the collision occurred, due to the heavy fog. There are no casualties on either vessel.

France Rejects Italy's Claim

Inspiring Broadcast
By Daladier

PARIS, Mar. 29.

"EACH ONE of us is asking whether our country is not threatened, and whether our neighbours can be trusted", declared M. Edouard Daladier in opening his important broadcast to the nation to-day.

"Uncertainty on these points forces governments to take precautionary measures."

"Treaties are signed, but even before they come into force they no longer exist."

Fever Of Armaments

"Everywhere the fever of armaments destroys all other activity. It is in such situations, anxiety begetting anxiety, and armaments calling for super-armaments, that war is often unleashed."

LONDON, Mar. 29.
THE SUGGESTION that the arrest and expulsion of unemployed under the Emergency Regulations in Hongkong was capable of committing injustices, which would be no good advertisement for the Hongkong Government, was put forward by the Rev. R. W. Sorensen, Labour M.P., for West Leyton in the House of Commons to-day, according to a "Reuter" report.

During question time in the House, while the emergency conditions the Rev. Mr. Sorensen, who is one of the founders of the Socialist Christian League, drew attention to the Emergency Regulations in Hongkong empowering the arrest and expulsion of people, apparently without regular employment.

Mr. Sorensen suggested that such cases should be submitted to a court of law in order to avoid injustices. "REGULATIONS JUSTIFIED"
Sir Thomas Inskip, Secretary of State for the Dominions, replied that Mr. Sorensen persisted with his point, and declared that any arbitrary and unjust action was not a good advertisement for our Government in Hongkong.

Sir Thomas Inskip replied: "They are dealing with thousands of refugees in extraordinary conditions, and extraordinary action is required."—Reuter.

EAT WHAT YOU PLEASE

Without Painful After-effects

How glorious to be able to set-to with a will to your favourite delicacies, meal after meal, day after day—with no fear of after-effects!

To many stomach sufferers, such pleasure will seem an impossible dream. But you can make it come true—easily, inexpensively, safely, as the writers of these letters have done:

"Now I can eat what I like," says one. "My appetite normal again," cries another. "Able to eat anything," claims a third. "First good meal for months," announces yet another victim. And these are only a few of thousands of stomach sufferers—all so grateful for this relief, that they simply have to write.

What about you? Are you always ready for a meal at meal time? If not, wait no longer. Take Maclean Brand Stomach Powder. See how your appetite comes back in full force as this scientific stomach remedy cleanses the system of poison, neutralises excess acid, and soothes the inflamed stomach walls. And remember Maclean Brand Stomach Powder, taken in time, stops your stomach trouble getting serious—for, as you know, a neglected stomach may even bring you eventually to the operating table.

So start on MACLEAN BRAND Stomach Powder right away. Always look for the signature "ALEX. C. MACLEAN" on the bottle and carton. Powder or tablets: If you have any difficulty in obtaining it from your local chemist or store, write to BAKER & CO., P. O. Box 755, Hong Kong. KS460

No Woman ever liked a man to be BALD!

SCIENCE DEFEATS FALLING HAIR — READ AMAZING DISCOVERY!

Dr. Weidner, brilliant scientific worker, has isolated the fourteen elements which feed the hair and combined them in a stable solution called Silvkrin, the natural Hair Food. Above all, he has discovered a new way of preparing Tryptophane, that precious vital substance indispensable for life and growth of the hair.

The Amazing Result

Natural, because it supplies the roots of the hair with all the life-giving elements they formerly obtained from the blood-stream itself. Nine times out of ten, these roots are not dead but merely "stiffed" by dry scalp and dandruff. Silvkrin brings them the food they need.

Why Hair Falls Out

Hair needs feeding. If the scalp is healthy and the hair roots function normally, the food is obtained from the blood-stream. But when the system ceased or decreases the supply of this nourishment to the hair-forming tissue, then the hair is starved and falls out. Dandruff is the first sign of this approaching disaster.

No 'ifs' or 'buts' — a certainty!

The scourge of dandruff is banished and dull brittle hair is replaced by a fresh growth of rich, healthy hair! Your bald patches WILL be covered, your appearance WILL be transformed into one of youthful fitness and energy. Doctors prove it—thousands write to say they have done it — why shouldn't YOU?

The black hair roots come right out—the real test of growth under stress. It is this that Silvkrin feeds.

WHAT YOU NEED!

For dandruff—hair beginning to fall. To keep the scalp healthy, strengthen the hair and bring out its natural beauty. Ask for Silvkrin Lotion.

For severe dandruff, serious falling hair, bald patches. To restore new hair-growth use the concentrated natural organic Hair Food. Ask for Pure Silvkrin.

ENGLISH EDITION OF 'MEIN KAMPF'

"MEIN KAMPF," exactly as Hitler wrote it, without any "cuts," will be published in Britain shortly.

Hitherto the only edition available in English has been a specially prepared edition from which many crucial passages are omitted.

Mr. Walter Hutchinson, chairman of Messrs. Hurst and Blackett, publishers, said:

"We hold the copyright of 'Mein Kampf' in this country and the Dominions.

"This new translation will include every sentence written by Hitler in the full German version and also a detailed guide and explanation of events described in the book.

"All royalties on 'Mein Kampf' are paid to the German Propaganda Department which handles the book for Hitler, and these will be paid by us in the usual way.

NO AUTHORISATION GIVEN

"Many responsible people in Germany are in favour of the original 'Mein Kampf,' being published here. Publishers in various parts of the world holding the copyright of Hitler's book are unable to issue translations of the complete work as 'authorised versions,' because no authorisation can be obtained from German sources.

It is considered unlikely that any attempt will be made to interfere with publication in Britain.

In terms of sales of his book Hitler is the most successful author living. By the end of this year sales of 'Mein Kampf' will have exceeded 5,000,000 copies in Germany alone, giving Hitler an income of about £75,000 a year. Translations of the book have been made in almost every foreign language. Russian and Lithuanian are the only nations to ban its sale.

The first volume of the book was written by Hitler while in gaol and was published in 1925. The second volume appeared a year later. Since 1930 the two have been sold in one volume. Specially bound copies of the book are now presented by 20,000 German municipalities to every newly married couple.]

POLE FINALLY GETS FLAG

LORAIN, O.
Police have found finally an expert flagpole-climber to place a flag at the top of their 2-year-old, 92-foot 'flagless flagpole.' Edgar Ellis, who repairs the school board's flagpoles, agreed to equip the pole with pulley and rope, paint it and attach a flag to its top.

EMPIRE NEWS

SOUTHERN RHODESIA ELECTION

SALISBURY.
A General Election will be held in Southern Rhodesia mid-April, the earliest date that weather conditions permit. The life of the present Parliament has almost expired.

The Prime Minister, Mr. Huggins, feels that in view of possible developments in the international situation the Government may need the widest emergency powers. It would be desirable that these should be given by a freshly-elected Parliament.

He considers also that the Government should not risk being distracted by electoral considerations during a period of crisis.

EAST AFRICA

CAMPAIGN AGAINST CATTLE DISEASE

NAIROBI.
The belief that cattle rinderpest can be exterminated in East Africa if adequate funds are available was expressed at a conference of delegates representing British, Belgian and Portuguese territories south of the Equator.

An application to the Colonial Development Fund is recommended to establish field units to carry on the successful emergency protective measures undertaken last year.

CANADA

OTTAWA.
According to Mr. MacInnis, member for Vancouver East, the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation party is prepared to support any scheme of relaxing immigration barriers to admit refugees from Central Europe.

Canada should be prepared to make some sacrifice for humanity, he said, and could make its most valuable contribution by providing asylum for persecuted European peoples. It is expected that refugees who are able to support themselves or who have relatives here will be admitted. Preference will be shown to agriculturists.

Skiers Deny Charges.—Recent charges by a Roman Catholic archbishop that skiers train "bred iniquity and immorality" are loudly denied by skiing enthusiasts who take advantage of reduced railway fares for week-end skiing excursions to northern districts.

Slander Suit Against Actress Fails

DESCRIBED by the judge as "a lamentable piece of litigation," a slander action brought by Mr. Thomas Ferguson (A. C. Astor, the ventriloquist), director and part owner of Her Majesty's Theatre, Carlisle, was dismissed at Carlisle Assizes recently.

He sued Miss Hannah Watt, the actress, and her mother, Mrs. Dorothy Ruth Watt, of Stanwix, Carlisle.

Judgment was given for the defendants with costs, the judge saying he considered the action ought never to have been brought.

He said he believed both parties were honest. Miss Watt was probably a little more temperamental than she imagined.

Mr. L. H. Gluckstein, for Mr. Astor, said that Miss Watt was now Mrs. Pugh. In August, 1937, she approached Mr. Astor about obtaining an engagement at Her Majesty's Theatre. He was an old friend of the family and was quite anxious to help her.

She had very little experience as a variety artist, although two years before she had appeared at a Carlisle cinema.

£50 SALARY DEMAND
Miss Watt suggested that her salary should be £50. Mr. Astor said he would guarantee her £25 and that then they would split 50 per cent. of the touring company's profits after deducting expenses. Miss Watt agreed to this.

On the Saturday Miss Watt was given an account which showed the house drawing for the week to be £457. The company's share was half of that, £228, and after deducting artists' salaries of £153 and other expenses there was a profit balance of £64 3s. 7d.

Of that, Miss Watt's share was set at £32 1s. 10d. with the £25 guarantee, that made a total of £57 1s. 10d., and after deducting bar bill, telephone account and other items, there was a balance of £53 10s. 7d. which she was to receive.

When that amount was tendered to her Miss Watt was alleged to have said, "Is this all I get? It is a twist. I should receive 50 per cent. of the gross takings of the week, less the artists' salaries."

On the following day Miss Watt again declared to Mr. Williams, the theatre accountant, that she had been twisted. Her mother said, "We cannot expect to receive any other treatment than we have done from Astor, knowing what he is."

CARBO BURLESQUE
Thomas Ferguson, the plaintiff, said he was well known as a ventriloquist and had appeared at command performances.

Asked by the judge what was the act which Watt was going to put on, Mr. Astor said: "Excerpts from plays she had appeared in, a burlesque of Greta Garbo, and songs from her pantomime engagements."

Miss Watt, giving evidence, said that her name was now Mrs. Hannah Mary Ruth Pugh, and she was living in Laurier Road, N.W. She was a legitimate actress and appeared in pantomime at Christmas.

Mr. Wingate-Saul (for Miss Watt): Did you use the word "twis-

"DOOMSDAY BOOK" OF FITNESS

A "Doomsday Book" of Fitness—a survey of all the facilities for games and exercise in over 10,000 local government areas throughout the country—is being prepared.

The survey, which is part of the National Fitness Campaign, has already revealed some unexpected and significant facts, one of which is that in an agricultural country the number of people enrolling in physical education classes has multiplied over ten times in the past two years.

Local schemes costing nearly £7,000,000 have been submitted in the past 12 months, and grants amounting to £1,319,187 have already been promised for swimming baths, community centres, clubs, camps, playing fields and gymnastic equipment.

ter?"—Most definitely not. It is an abominable lie.

When Mr. Justice Croom-Johnson said he gathered that Miss Watt did not regard Mr. Astor as a twister and that she simply thought there had been a misunderstanding between them she replied, "I know I am going to lose this case, but I have come here to clear my name. In the light of what has since happened and what I have heard from people in the profession I know he is an evil man. I must say that, if I lose the case."

France. Ships in Valencia harbour have hoisted Nationalist flags. Alicante has surrendered to the Nationalists, according to a broadcast from the harbour town received in Burgos.

Advance guards of General Franco's army reached the outskirts of Valencia this afternoon and were joyously received, meeting with no resistance. The first columns entered Valencia with bands playing, and they were enthusiastically acclaimed. The strong air force garrisoned in the city has placed itself at the disposal of General Franco.

Germany Apologises For Broadcast

Brussels, Mar. 29. The German Ambassador called on the Belgian Foreign Minister to-day, and conveyed his Government's regrets at the recent broadcast from a German radio station of statements which were uncomplimentary to Belgium.

He added that the German Government would undertake that such broadcasts would not be made again. —Reuter.

forces were completing the ring around Madrid where orderliness is said to prevail, and where most of the public services have been restored.

Signor Mussolini wired his congratulations to General Franco to-day, and Herr Joachim von Ribbentrop, the German Foreign Minister, sent a congratulatory telegram to Count Jordana, the Nationalist Foreign Minister.

Mussolini later ordered flags to be hung from dawn to dusk in honour of the Nationalist victory, throughout Italy. —Reuter.

Daladier's Broadcast and moral unity in the face of danger. French unity has never been so deep and complete as to-day. She has never been more resolute; she has never been stronger.

DEFENCE OF LIBERTY
"She hopes that peace will be saved, but if war is offered as the only alternative between downfall or dishonour, she will rise with one bound for the defence of liberty."

"As a result of recent measures, and her national defence solidly assured. Her renaissance is continuing. Yesterday the franc appreciated, and to-day alone we received four tons of gold. The nation has responded to our appeal with virile resolution as in all grave hours of her history."

"We will never agree to international relations being regulated by force. Only when justice and right disappear does the recourse to force become an indispensable duty. Peace and powerful France can regard the future with confidence."

"France has never ceased to give Germany evidence of goodwill, but the conquest of Czechoslovakia has dealt a severe blow to her most persistent efforts."

M. Daladier invited the collaboration of all Powers, who, like herself, are ready to co-operate to maintain peace, but which would rise against aggression.

"We cannot accept Signor Mussolini's arguments, because every fresh conquest or concession would open new claims."

Having described the strength of France as greater than it ever was, M. Daladier proceeded to define what he meant by the strength of France.

"It is the entity of magnificent armies, whose leaders and men form a single bloc without losing anything of their individual virtue; it finds support in a rich, balanced country, whose soil is fertile and sheltered from the distress of famine; it is all over the world, in the remotest of possessions, where, as Minister for the Colonies 15 years ago, I felt the keenest loyalty vibrating; it is also in the immense Empire of which the untouchable African bloc forms the central garden, and of whose affectionate attention and devotion to the Mother country I recently was able to measure for myself."

SPIRITUAL POWER
"It is not only in our military power, but in spiritual values which France is as great to-day as in any century of our history. It is the spontaneous union of the whole people, seeking for truth and justice; it lies in friends who make agreements with her, and who spontaneously associate themselves with the free people and with those who suffer."

"Nowadays liberty is called servitude. Voluntary adhesion to a cause is called submission. The desire to live is called desperation. Progress represents the destruction of human values. People pretending to work for the safety of men, are really working for their ruin."

"France heard with complete calm the tumultuous demands raised from time to time around her, because she knows negotiations would only lead to her rights being made clear, and that all violence against her would be broken."

FRANCO-ITALIAN RELATIONS
M. Daladier spoke with the greatest frankness on Franco-Italian relations, and recalled that the Franco-Italian agreements were destined to "regulate definitely."

"Arrangements were reached whereby Italy obtained frontier rectifications and cessions of territory in Africa, economic advantages, and a progressive change in the status of Italians in Tunisia by stages in 1945, 1955, and 1965."

"These agreements were not questioned until December 17, 1938, when Count Ciano informed us that he did not consider the agreement valid."

"That letter does not contain details regarding Italian claims, and there is no question of the Suez, Djibouti and Tunisia being mentioned in it."

"The essential argument in the letter was that the conquest of Abyssinia created new rights in favour of Italy."

"We cannot accept this argument. It means that every new conquest and every new concession would open new rights, and each claim, once satisfied, would contain in itself future demands."

"France is ready to complete loyal execution of the 1935 agreements, and within the spirit of the agreement she has not refused to examine any proposal that may be advanced."

LIBERAL REGIME
Alluding to "tables" spread regarding the position of the 94,000 Italians living in Tunisia, with 108,000 French, and 2,600,000 Moslems, M. Daladier denied that the Italians were maltreated and persecuted. On the contrary, they enjoy a most liberal regime.

The Premier testified to the warm welcome the Moslem population gave him when he visited North Africa.

"I know my words will find a friendly echo in the bosom of France, across the Channel, and beyond the Atlantic. I can then hope that all reasonable men, such as exist in all countries, will listen to this language of reason, for it seeks nobody's humiliation."

Arrangements were made to retransmit the speech in English, German, Italian, Spanish and Arabic. —Reuter.

ITALY'S VIEW
Rome, Mar. 29. High Fascist party circles say that the French Premier's speech virtually refuted Mussolini's overtures which he made in his speech on Sunday for the settlement of the outstanding Italo-French questions.

The first reaction was that M. Daladier made a stronger reply to Mussolini's speech than was generally expected. —United Press.

for Hongkong. It is believed that the Canton may have to dock here.

BOTH RETURNING

The collision occurred about 110 miles from Hongkong. A message from the Marchal Joffre states that she is returning to Hongkong with the Canton.

At 10.30 a.m. the two liners were 110 miles from Hongkong and report that fog still prevails. They are expected to arrive late this afternoon.

An official of the Royal Observatory informed the "Telegraph" that coastal fog is prevalent along the entire coast.

It is doubtful whether the two ships will be able to enter Lympson Pass even when they arrive here, as the fog is apparently densest at the entrance to Hongkong harbour.

Four vessels, including the round-the-world tourist liner Franconia, have been held up at Lympson since daylight, unable to enter the harbour because of the conditions prevailing.

Aboard the Franconia are 250 tourists. Also held up are the E. & A. liner Nanking, en route from Meji and Shanghai, the Iris Bank, en route from New York and the Yangtze, en route from Shanghai.

SALVATION ARMY

Chief Justice Appeals For Funds

Speaking over Z.B.W. last night, Sir Atholl Macgregor, the Chief Justice, appealed for funds to the extent of $7,000 so that the Salvation Army would be able to carry on their work in Hongkong.

Though times were difficult for many people in the Colony, he pointed out, anything would help towards the assistance of refugees. He revealed that nearly 300,000 bowls of rice had been given away last year at the Salvation Army relief kitchen in Wanchoi. It was intended that the kitchen be closed in March, 1939, but owing to the desperate conditions existing among certain sections of the population it has been necessary to maintain the relief service.

He appealed for funds so that the humanitarian work in Canton, where 3,000 people were being maintained in a camp, could be carried on.

I ASKED MUSSOLINI

'Vagueness is a stranger to all my policies'

Last article of a series in which questions are put to the Duce by an interpreter — and answered from Mussolini's "My Autobiography."

Q. Is the reputation you have for bluffing and gambling justified?

A. "I have controlled my impatience. I have avoided leaps into the darkness."

Q. "I do not sleep my way to conclusions." (p. 245.)

Q. What has been the key to your success in foreign policy till now?

A. "I believe that there can be counted among my qualities one of being able to act in good season, and to strike at the right moment without false sentimentality where the shadow of a weakness or a trap is hidden." (p. 243.)

Q. HOW would you describe that policy, much criticised by others?

A. "Loyal policy is the one which scores the greatest success. Ambiguities and vagueness are not of my temperament, and consequently they are strangers to any policy of mine.

Q. Have you a world mission, as Hitler believes he has?

A. "I am desperately Italian... I believe in the function of Latinity." (p. 32.)

Q. Hitler says he is an idealist. Do you?

A. "I founded my labour on facts and the real conditions of the Italian people; from such realistic activity I drew valuable lessons. I have been able to give useful, immediate results, looking towards a new future of our country." (p. 230.)

Q. What are your immediate aims, then?

A. "I am tireless in my wish to see newly born and newly reborn Italians. With all my strength, with all my energies, without pause, without interruptions, I want to bring to them their fullest opportunities...

Q. You have made a profound study of the interests, the aspirations and the tendencies of our masses. I push on towards better forces of life and progress. I value them, I launch them, I guide them.

A. "I desire our nation to conquer again, with Fascist vigour, some decades or perhaps a decade of lost history." (p. 251.)

Q. Are you personally ambitious for power or money?

A. "In politics I have never gained a penny. I detest those who live like parasites sucking away at the edges of social struggles. I hate men who grow rich in politics." (p. 24.)

Q. "I ask nothing for myself or mine; no material goods, no honours, no testimonials," no resolutions of approval which presume to consecrate me to history." (p. 250.)

A. "I want to be a simple servant of the State; chief of a party, but, first, worthy head of a strong Government." (p. 70.)

Q. Are dictators like yourself personally responsible for all their actions?

A. "My life identifies itself almost exclusively with thousands of acts of government. Individuality disappears. Instead, the person expresses. I sometimes feel only measures and acts of concrete character; these do not concern a single person; they concern the multitudes, they concern and permeate an entire people.

Q. You have the reputation of soft-peddling possible rivals, when they become too popular. Is this true?

A. "I am strict with my most faithful followers. I always intervene where excesses and intemperances are revealed." (p. 251.)

Q. You and Hitler are always saying you represent the Italian and German peoples. How do you know this?

A. "I am near to the heart of the masses and listen to its beats, I read its aspirations and interest. I know the virtue of the race. I probe at its purity and soundness." (p. 251.)

Q. Hitler says a leader must be master of the masses, not their suppliant. Do you agree?

A. "I have never flattered any one. I spoke always of the costs of victories—sacrifice and sweat and blood." (p. 28.)

Q. "I didn't want to ingratiate myself with the masses. I have always spoken with naked candour and even with brutality to the multitudes. That is a distinct contrast to the contemptible courtship made for their favour by the political parties of every time and every land." (p. 143.)

Q. Most people say that dictators must always be on the go, never letting their followers pause. Is this true?

A. "I was then a restless being. I am still. I could not understand why it is necessary to take time in order to act. Rest for restfulness meant nothing to me then any more than now. "I believe in those youthful years, just as now, my day began and ended with an act of will—by will put into action." (p. 18.)

Q. Do you take the advice of others ever?

A. "I do not reject advice, even from opponents, whenever they are honest." (p. 251.)

Q. "During my life, I believe, neither my school friends, my war friends, nor my political friends have ever had the slightest influence on me. I have listened always with intense interest to their words, their suggestions and sometimes to their advice, but I am sure that whenever I took an extreme decision I have obeyed only the firm commandment of will and conscience which came from within."

Q. "I do not believe in the supposed influence of books. I do not believe in the influence which comes from perusing the books about the lives and characters of men. For myself, I have used only one big book. For myself, I have had only one great teacher. The book is life lived. The teacher is day-by-day experience." (p. 30.)

Q. You and Hitler are fond of theatrical orations. What is your real opinion of political speeches?

A. "I have seen the fallacy of those who speak endlessly streams of words. These words are like armies enlisted for ever to go away into the night, never to return from a campaign where the enemies are compromise with principle, cowardice, inaction, and idealism without realism." (p. 201.)

Q. Do dictators have any private life? Hitler is an ascetic whose hobbies are walking and architecture.

A. "I abandoned without regret all the superfluous comforts of life. I made only an exception for sports which, while making my body alert and ready, succeeded in creating in my complex life of work healthy and happy intervals. I have almost entirely abandoned also the theatre, which once took away from me useful hours of evening work. "I love all sports; I drive with

QUESTIONS — No. 3

Sir Benito

Sir Benito Mussolini, G.C.B. (to give him his honorary title — he was made a Knight Grand Cross of the Bath in 1923), is fifty-four, six years older than Hitler.

He is married, has five children, of whom the best known are his son, film expert Vittorio, and daughter Edda, wife of Count Ciano. When Italy was in political turmoil after the war, Mussolini and his Fascist Party took over the Government; have ruled Italy since.

Son of a blacksmith, he was teacher, journalist, soldier, before finally entering politics. Works in a palace in Rome, likes living in his two country villas. Trophies: Abyssinia, Formed Axis partnership with Hitler in 1937.

confidence a motor-car, I have done tours at great speed, amazing not only to my friends, but also to old and experienced drivers.

Q. "I love the airplane; I have flown numberless times. "Motors give me a new and great sensation of strength. A horseback ride on a magnificent sorrel is also for me a joyous interruption, and fencing, to which I devote myself, often with remarkable physical advantages, gives me the greatest satisfaction. I ask of my violin nothing more than serene hours of music."

Q. "To the great poets, as Dante, to the supreme philosophers, as Plato, I ask of them often hours of poetry, hours of meditation."

Q. "No other amusement interests me. I do not drink; I do not smoke and I am not interested in cards or games."

Q. "As for the love of the table I don't appreciate it. I do not feel it... my meals are as sober as those of a pauper." (p. 170.)

Q. Don't you ever wonder if you are not on the wrong track?

A. "I never had any parenthesis of uncertainty; fortunately, I never knew those discouragements or those exaltations which often are harmful to the effectiveness of a statesman."

Q. "From hateful and useless debates and snarling talk we finally climbed up to a solidified nation, to a powerful harmony—dominated, inspired and spiritualised by Fascism."

Q. What made you decide to be a dictator? Do you believe in Hitler's Fuehrer-principle?

A. "I wanted with all my desire to strip from our party the personal character which the Fascist movement had assumed because of the stamp of my will. But the more I wished to give the party an autonomous organisation, and the more I tried, the more I received the conviction from the evidence of the facts—that the party could not have existed and lived, and could not be triumphant, except under my command, my guidance, my support, and my spur." (p. 122.)

QUESTION: In what city are no air-raid precautions being taken?

ANSWER: Jerusalem. It is felt by the British Government that no enemy would dare bomb the Holy City.

Q: What does "Jerusalem" mean?

A: The City of Peace.

Q: Has Jerusalem's history justified its name?

A: No. In the city's 33 centuries of existence it has frequently suffered at the hands of man and of Nature.

UGLY FAT GOES QUICK

New Scientific Remedy endorsed by Doctors, Nurses and Public

In 95% of cases FATNESS is caused by disordered condition of the body whereby toxic poisons are absorbed into the blood, thus setting up torpid and morbid conditions which result in the body being weighed down with adipose tissue (fat). Ordinary "fat cures" cannot effect a complete elimination of these toxic acids, therefore they can never restore the overburdened body to natural bulk and weight.

How Long?

A DISTRACTED Chinese
mother found guilty of killing her eighteen-months-old daughter, has been pardoned
after being sentenced to imprisonment for the term of her natural life with all the horrid
paraphernalia of the law.

The Chief Justice was as kind
as he could be. But, as was pointed out by the Crown Counsel, it was mandatory under the law to sentence the mother to life imprisonment if
not to death.

"There is only one sentence
which I can pass upon you
according to the law which I have to administer, and that is that you be confined to prison
with such labour as you are fit
to perform (the girl-mother is about to give birth to another child) for the term of your natural life.

"I think you may rest assured that the sentence which you will eventually have to undergo will
be considerably less than the one which I have formally passed upon you."

But though he expressed himself in the terms of the greatest sympathy, and the Jury added
to its verdict a strong recommendation for mercy, the Chief Justice had to go through with a sentence which no one expected to be carried out.

Why should this cruel procedure continue? In such cases
the judge could, and should, be empowered to suspend sentence
until after consultation with His Excellency the Governor or
the Colonial Secretary. Meanwhile, give thanks for a merciful and humane Governor.

Tolerance

WE need tolerance to-day. Tolerance means understanding the point of view of your neighbour.

If you can do this, you will not persecute Jews. You will not attack the Church of England or criticise Methodists. You will learn to respect another man's opinion
while still believing in your own.

And be sure that in training
yourself to be tolerant you do not sacrifice your own beliefs. Don't be so open-minded that you never make up your mind about anything.
That kind of mind is so broad that it is only shallow.

HE STANDS among his geraniums, gazing
steadily through the rain-obscured panes of the old bay-window of the cottage
parlour.

Elderly, grizzled and stoutly built. Already he has donned oilskins and sou'wester; his great knee-
boots wait upon the hearth.
"There she goes, Mother!"
A blazing rocket rears its fiery appeal across the darkness of the raging bay.

"Mother"
helps him on
with his boots,
nor does she misunderstand
the hasty, perfunctory kiss of
his leave-taking.

Again a gleaming rocket snakes aloft as Bunton clumps
along the cobbled garden path
and hurries down the cliff walk
to the beach below.

The remainder of the lifeboat's crew is already assembled, including Bunton's married son
and, in raging storm and smashing waves, the little band cheerfully and almost silently, risk
life to save life.

George Bunton had no love for
the sea, despite his forebears,
and he could not remember his grandfather.

But the sea, with the calm
aloofness of disinterested nature
safely bore him some thousands of miles in comfort.

One dark, foreboding, tempestuous September afternoon
the typhoon struck the island.

In a lofty, palm-besprinkled,
well-upholstered lounge, far
of watchers.

Two naval men fix keen, grey,
understanding eyes upon the wicked seascape.

Not one word do they speak
as, hands in pockets, they stand
immobile. George, too, is there.
His eye is cheerful and his tongue is flippant as he looks upon the torment of four sweating, all-but-naked men who,
upon a madly drifting junk
exert every ounce of waning
strength in furious but vain
endeavour to best the smashing
force of elemental malignity.

MIRIAM SAT, silent, wondering and patient, eyes fixed
upon the beauties of the island
which she is approaching, and in which she will be accorded but a cold and grudging welcome, even for the few hours she will be permitted to remain.

A lovely Jewish girl of about fifteen years. The perfect oval
of the olive-complexioned face,
the slightly curling dusky hair,
the air of shy enquiry, the slim
youth of her lithe and graceful
form, present a picture too
seldom seen in such latitudes.

She is surprisingly—and perhaps ominously—dressed in something suspiciously akin to the Teutonic student's uniform;
blue reefer and peaked cap; only
the knee-length skirt seems to be her own.

The cap, jauntily and askew
sitting atop her head, might have a distinctly ludicrous air
but for the fact that the whole ensemble presents so lovely a picture.

The stout, untidy parents—
they too, silent and anxious—give no hint of the beauty which they have somehow contrived to create.

BUS-CONDUCTORS, as engine-drivers, have their services taken for granted.
How many of his passengers
could recognise the face of the man who "conducts" them regularly every morning?

We blindly shove at him our
ten-cent piece, grab our ticket.

Only when the poor harassed
individual overshoots the mark
do we look into his face, and then in furious expostulation,
unmindful of the fact that it is humanly impossible to see
through the opaque bodies
which through the vehicle and obstruct his view.

He must watch the stops,
collect the money (carefully
avoiding "duds," or he will be molested, give change, punch
and deliver tickets, pull the bell-strap, fill in returns, assist the heavily-laden, and mentally note
the destination of each passenger—all simultaneously, so it seems.

How will he face the double-decker?

My New Year resolution was
to treat him as a human being.
He cannot possibly have any
such conception of us.

ALTHOUGH another New Year has long since passed away, a salvo of crackers rudely
splits the morning air, such
being, among other ceremonies,
a herald of the inauguration of
a new rice-shop.

Streaming scarlet banners
bearing, it is presumed, suitable encomiums of the wares to be supplied, gaily dress the premises.

Folkis, clansfolk, valued customers cheerily and noisily fall-

or undue modesty about the feast, which is visible to all who wish.

But in the bitter wind outside,
another party waits. Perhaps a dozen, mostly youngish
mothers, clad in thin black cotton, Canton-capped, figures
bent to the weight of baby.

Tiny children cling to mother's skirts or shelter from the cold

shining eyes they take their doles—rice, scraps of chicken
and of duck, vegetable.

The sleepy children rouse and
sniff and push towards the front,
sharing in the joy for the simple blessings of the night.

Nobody eats, but they hurry
off, now happily chattering, to share the feast with other members of the brood.

HE MUST have been extremely
hungry.

The prey upon which he pounced was far bulkier than he, always excepting his powerful spread of wing. And his exploit was in full view of several passers-
by and on a much frequented pathway.

No sign of his existence until
the frantic squawk of the terrified hen drew attention to the fray, she hugging the ground which she was naturally loth to leave, he beating his wings in an endeavour to compel her to do so.

The hen's astonished owner
scared the hawk away, and the intended victim, apparently uninjured, though partly bald and entirely bereft of dignity, crept
fearfully away.

Upon what does the local
hawk exist?

Countless times have I watched his easy graceful soar—only this once have I known him
swoop.

Strangely perhaps, small wild birds seem unconcerned, but cage-birds cower at his shadow.

"A MILLION DOLLARS REWARD, DEAD OR ALIVE"

WE WERE standing near the entrance to the Post Office.
I mopped my brow and Waffles
loosened his collar.

"I'm afraid we've lost it," I said.
The words were hardly out of my mouth when Waffles excitedly clutched my arm and pointed across the road.

"There it is again," he shouted.
"Come on!"

I was close at his heels as we leapt across the bows of a passing tram. Speeding up Pedder Street, opened-mouthed pedestrians automatically cleared a path for us. Someone blew a police whistle.

Other people joined us, but Waffles
and I were always a few yards ahead.
I am not so nimble on my feet as
I used to be, but the excitement of
the chase spurred me on.

"I'll bet . . . it's making for . . .
Ice House Street," shouted Waffles
as we ran. "I'm sure that's where it sleeps at night . . . in some kind of a lair."

"I believe you're right," I panted,
as we saw our quarry turning sharply to the left in Queen's Road
Central.

Conversation under the circumstances was rather difficult.
If only we had a gun!

"The traffic cop . . . at the corner
may get him," shouted Waffles.

PERSPIRATION trickling down my face rather blurred my vision,
and I'm not quite certain what did happen at the corner of Ice House Street.

I did, however, catch a glimpse of the constabulary and horror on the Chinese constable's face as he saw
what was approaching him and the crowd that followed in its wake. He made a wild swipe at it as it passed,
but, whether in self defence or whether he seriously thought he could stop it with his baton, I don't know.

GEOFFREY
SUCKLING

The "Thing" turned down Ice
House Street, as Waffles had predicted, and the crowd surged after
it.

One of the brokers threw his bowler hat at it, but missed. It hesitated for a few seconds, and we all thought it was going to attack the Stock Exchange Building. Then it must have changed its mind, for, like an express train, it rounded the corner into Des Voeux Road Central and made straight for the Hongkong Bank.

"It's taking cover," screamed Waffles, as it dived through the swing doors of the bank.

"I held my hand up to the crowd.
It was time to call a halt. We needed a few minutes respite in which to recover our breath.

Half of Hongkong seemed to be at our heels.
I spotted Ah Lum, and signalled
him to join us in the front line.

"Ah Lum," I said, "double pay
and six months' holiday if you capture it!"

"Very warm to-day," he replied.
"Bye and bye I think we have some rain."

THE BANK OFFICIALS were evacuating. I was not a bit surprised. The "Thing" had taken possession of the Overdraft Department,

and was barricading itself in with ledgers.

We threw a cordon around the building.
You know how the most inconsequential things often occur to you at the most dramatic moments of your life?

Well, looking at Waffles crouching
at the entrance to the bank, I could not help thinking how much he resembled one of the bronze lions on either side. His hair, loosened by the wind and the strenuous running,
was not unlike a lion's mane.

It did not surprise me, therefore,
when a man in the crowd, carrying a bucket of paste, stuck a bill on his back.

I read it.
Whereas, under the Powers granted me, etc. etc. $1,000,000 will be paid . . . Dead or Alive!

Things were certainly looking serious.

I found Mrs. FitzPillsbury at my elbow.

"Oh, I do 'ope they catch it!" she said to me. "It's been 'aunting us for years."

And she echoed the feelings of everyone. Married or single, male or female, Patricians or Plebs, we were all after the blood of Hongkong's Public Enemy No. 1.

MRS. FITZPILLSBURY gave a scream.
"Lor-luv-a-duck! They're 'aunting out the sojers!"

It was true enough. I could see
in the distance a regiment of men,
led by Colonel Pimpton Boomer,
making its way with rhythmic tread
towards us.

Police, with drawn revolvers, and
soldiers, with fixed bayonets, soon
formed a phalanx around the bank building, somewhere inside of which lurked the foulest of fiends.

"It's on an occasion like this," said Waffles, "that I feel at my best. I can picture my overdraft being devoured by this monster incarnate piece by piece . . . cent by cent . . . and I can picture myself
receiving a cheque for $1,000,000
I can see my photograph in the
"Hongkong Telegraph" . . . I can see . . .

I cut him short.
"I can see you being blown to atoms," I said, "if you don't come
away from that door."

"What do you mean?" he asked.
"I mean," I replied, pointing to the harbour, "that unless I can very much mistaken, one of His Majesty's cruisers is going to open fire."

Waffles gasped.

"Surely they are not going to shell
the bank!"

"That's precisely what they are going to do," I answered. "Can't you see them clearing the deck for action. What does it matter if they damage the bank, so long as 'it' is destroyed."

We beat a hasty retreat across the
road.

WITH THE DARK of the first gun, Waffles turned a corner, saw Ah Lum, and Ah Lum turned green. I heard the tinkle of breaking glass
as Mrs. FitzPillsbury's lorgnettes crashed to the ground.

As salvo after salvo screamed
over our heads, I melodramatically took my hat off twice. Once to the navy for their accurate shooting,
and once to the police for such perfect liaison work.

A traffic policeman was stationed
at the bank entrance, and each time

Military Chiefs Talk

EUROPE'S DEFENCE DISCUSSED

Real Reason For Gort's Visit To Paris

Paris, Mar. 29. — Overtly the visit of Viscount Gort to France is to inspect the Maginot Line, but authoritative circles say that the real purpose is to study on the spot how best to coordinate the French and British forces in the event of war.

The visit shows that, whatever the outcome of the efforts to bring Poland, Russia and Rumania into a line-up of States pledged to fight Hitler's expansion, France and Britain are determinedly continuing to lay the solidest possible foundations for military co-operation, not only in the west but also throughout Europe.

In the three days of the talks the French and British army chiefs will discuss the strategic aspects of attack and defence and select the most suitable bases and sections of the Maginot Line for British and Continental troops to hold under war conditions.—United Press.

NATIONAL REGISTER

Canberra, Mar. 29. — The Cabinet has decided to draw up a compulsory national register for man-power, reversing the previous decision in favour of a voluntary register, announced Mr. J. Lyons, Australian Premier to-day. Mr. Lyons also announced that the Government has also adopted the recommendations of the British air mission now in Australia to establish central control units at Sydney and Melbourne, at which complete military and general reconnaissance aircraft will be produced.—Reuter Bulletin.

SWEDEN'S DEFENCE

Stockholm, Mar. 29. — The Swedish Government has submitted to Parliament a proposal for reinforcement of national defence by which the duration of training in the navy is to be increased from 200 to 340 days, and in the army lengthened by 30 days.

For the acquisition of special war material, supplementary estimates of 59,000,000 crowns are proposed for the purchase among other things of 24 bombing planes and 15 pursuit planes.

The Government also proposes to place 11,000,000 crowns at the disposal of the aircraft industry. It is proposed to spend the sum of 5,400,000 crowns on army planes.

A census of foreigners living in Sweden has, according to an official statement, shown that at present altogether 23,722 foreigners are domiciled in Sweden including 5,973 of German nationality, 3,420 of whom are Jews who formerly lived in Germany, while 992 are political refugees.—Trans-Ocean.

United States

Plans For The Royal Visit

London, Mar. 29. — It was officially announced to-day that the King and Queen will begin their four-day visit to the United States in June. They will enter America from Canada at Niagara Falls where Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, will officially welcome them on behalf of the President. The Royal Party will then take train for Washington where President Roosevelt will be at the station. The King and Queen will be guests in the White House for two days.—United Press.

Met at Border

Mr. Cordell Hull, United States Secretary of State, and other American officials will meet the King and Queen at the border when their Majesties cross over from Canada at Niagara in June.

President Mrs. Roosevelt will meet their Majesties at the railway station at Washington, and the King and Queen will stay at the White House for two days.—Reuter Bulletin.

Archers Bag Wild Boar

OAKLAND, Cal. — H. C. McQuarrie and John Potter, archery enthusiasts, had a 400-pound wild boar looking something like a porcupine when they finally brought it down with steel-tipped arrows. They peppered the boar at a distance of 20 yards.

VALENCIA FALLS TO THE NATIONALISTS

After nearly three years of a "little Great War" which threatened to engulf Europe, the civil conflict in Spain seems to have ended with the entrance into Madrid on Tuesday of the insurgent troops commanded by Gen. Franco. They were greeted by nearly a million survivors of the most terrible siege of modern times.

Gen. Miaja, Commander-in-Chief of the defeated Loyalist troops, and other Government leaders have gone to Valencia, where negotiations are pending for the free entry of the insurgents into that city. Gen. Miaja, it is reported, will board a foreign warship at Valencia.

Madrid surrendered without a shot being fired and, according to a radio announcement, not a drop of blood was spilled in its occupation. Gen. Franco personally directed the triumphal entry into the capital of 200,000 troops, including Italian volunteers who were well in the van.

Former Prisoner in Charge

Burgos, Mar. 29. — General Franco has named Manuel Valdes Larranaga as chief of the national movement in the province of Madrid. Larranaga has been in prison in Madrid since July 1936.—United Press.

Purge of Anti-Fascists

Hendaye, Mar. 29. — General Franco is reported to have begun a sweeping purge of anti-Fascist elements immediately after the occupation of the famous Auditoria.

Police armed with Franco's famous "Black Book" containing cross-indexed lists and names of thousands of Republicans wanted for "crimes" carried out a thorough search for Communists and Republican army men and civil authorities accused of criminally prolonging bloodshed. Many of these people are believed to be hiding in cellars and attics as they are unable to escape owing to lack of transportation.—United Press.

Madrid Conditions

Madrid, Mar. 29. — There is little Republican resistance since the fall of Madrid, and Nationalist troops are advancing on the Toledo and Cordoba fronts. Towns behind the lines have either surrendered to General Franco's troops or control has been taken over by Nationalist supporters.

In Madrid the main streets are draped with Nationalist flags, while engineering units are repairing the highways in order to speed up communication. Trams and underground railways are running and there is a little electric power for lighting and cooking, but the gas supply is still unavailable.—Reuter Bulletin.

Arms Production

Madrid, Mar. 29. — The first measure taken by the newly appointed military Governor of Madrid, Colonel Delorbe, yesterday a few hours after the occupation of the Spanish capital by Nationalist troops was the issuing of an order to the Madrid armament industry to continue working at full speed.

General Franco is expected to enter Madrid to-morrow.—Trans-Ocean.

IN SOUTHERN SECTOR

Burgos, Mar. 29. — The Nationalist offensive is continuing on the other fronts.

In the Cordoba sector the Nationalist without meeting serious resistance occupied Adamuz. Other units entered Aranjuez and were enthusiastically welcomed by the population over 5,000 Loyalists were taken prisoners.—Trans-Ocean.

Resistance Collapses

Valencia, Mar. 29. — Loyalist troops in all sectors manning the Levant coast have been ordered to withdraw to avoid bloodshed.

Resistance has collapsed everywhere in the Loyalist provinces and it is expected that the insurgents will now start mopping up operations in the areas between Madrid and the coast.

A report from the radio at Ciudad Real says that a Nationalist column has taken over the city and that Falangist elements are in charge of radio stations and official centres. A similar state of affairs prevails in Cuenca.—United Press.

Many Prisoners

Salamanca, Mar. 29. — The capture of over 40,000 prisoners on the Toledo front was claimed in a communique issued by the insurgent headquarters, in addition to several thousand on other fronts.—Reuter.

Murela Taken

Lisbon, Mar. 29. — The radio Murela has announced that the Falangists have captured Murela early this morning. It is stated that the Falangists were welcomed by the populace, who acclaimed Franco.—United Press.

Towns Surrender

Burgos, Mar. 29. — The radio stations at Ciudad Real and Cuenca announced at 1 a.m. to-day that the Falangists in these two towns have risen and seized power.

The broadcast messages state that the towns are at the disposal of General Franco and enthusiastically awaiting the Nationalist troops. Ciudad Real and Cuenca are provincial capitals about 50 miles behind.

the present fighting front. Their going over to Franco means the final collapse of the Republican front.

Tarazona was occupied in the early hours of this morning by detachments of Nationalist troops which, after the fall of Cuenca, are advancing with great speed in the direction of Valencia.—Trans-Ocean.

Situation Studied

Paris, Mar. 29. — A report from Valencia says that all members of the Defence Council, with the exception of Senor Besteiro, met to-night to study the situation. It is generally expected that the Nationalists will enter the city during the week-end.

Over 10,000 residents, fearing reprisals, are demanding to be evacuated.—United Press.

Casado at Valencia

Valencia, Mar. 29. — Generals Miaja and Matallana are staying at the Residencia and General Casado at the Capitanía. All so far have not answered press or telephone calls or received newspaper men.—United Press.

Decision Announced

Madrid, Mar. 29. — The decision to surrender Valencia to Nationalist troops was announced to-day shortly after noon by Colonel Casado on behalf of the Defence Committee in a broadcast message sent from Valencia's radio station. This message was followed by playing of the Spanish National anthem. This morning Valencia broadcast a statement that the Republicans must be considered to have definitely and irrevocably lost the war.—Trans-Ocean.

Britain

More London Explosions

Hammersmith Bridge Rocked By Blasts

London, Mar. 29. — Two terrific explosions rocked Hammersmith Bridge at 1 a.m. to-day. Nobody was hurt and the damage was comparatively small.

Police found evidence of time-bombs and are considering the possibility of the explosions being the work of I.R.A. sympathisers. Intended as a gesture following the sentences imposed earlier in the day on the conspirators in the explosions in January.—Reuter.

United Press adds that the police kept the bridge closed until it had been surveyed to ascertain its safety. Several links in the supporting chain were damaged and a girder weighing several tons was weakened. Two men have been detained for questioning.

The explosions shook an area within a quarter of a mile radius and broke many windows, causing residents to rush out of doors. Summing up the Old Bailey trial, in which eight men appeared, Mr. Justice Humphreys said:

"When a person ceases to employ constitutional methods of altering the position of part of a British dominion, and employs methods of explosions, and incendiarism, causing explosions, and rendering the life of respectable law-abiding citizens impossible then it is that the Crown invites those who are responsible for administering the law to act firmly, in doing what they can to suppress such illegal and dangerous acts."

"These men regard themselves as patriots. Let them be patriots. Let every Irishman who thinks there ought to be an Irish Republic be patriots. They are perfectly entitled to be."

"But these men are charged with committing a criminal offence." The eight accused were all found guilty and sentenced. One was sent to penal servitude for 17 years, another for 15 years, a third for 14 years, another for 12 years, two for 10 years, one for seven years, and the eighth to 18 months hard labour.—Reuter.

TWO MEN HELD

London, Mar. 29. — Two men have been detained by the police for questioning. The police searched two houses in Hounslow Barnes. A car crossing the bridge just after the explosions was damaged by a fallen girder which ripped open part of the side of the car, but the man driver and woman passenger were uninjured.—Reuter.

French Presidency

Paris, Mar. 29. — In addition to seven candidates for the presidential election already listed another 40 applications for the candidacy were lodged with the general secretariat of the Senate yesterday.

All the applicants are unknown persons who have hitherto played no role in politics.—Trans-Ocean.

Alliance Plans

SCHEME BY BRITAIN, FRANCE

Rumania And Poland To Join

London, Mar. 29. — The diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Mail says that Britain and France are planning a military alliance, to include Rumania and Poland, to resist aggression. The alliance will also cover any attack on Holland and Switzerland. Russia is at present not sought as a partner but she and other countries may be invited to join later.

The Daily Mirror prints the same story and adds that London and Paris are at present pressing Poland and Rumania to guarantee each other's frontiers. If they agree they will be informed that Britain's assistance will take the form of a fast output of arms and ammunition, a powerful navy capable of completely blockading Germany by sea, a formidable air force wherever required and a small mobile mechanised expeditionary force.

When the new policy becomes known all parties will be staggered to discover that Russia is not included in the alliance. Already the Government is facing a mutiny, says the Mirror.—United Press.

Cabinet Meets

London, Mar. 29. — The Cabinet held the usual weekly meeting this morning at which, it is understood, the general political situation was discussed.

It is also stated that the Cabinet reviewed defence problems.—Reuter Bulletin.

NEW GOVERNMENT

London, Mar. 29. — Thirty-four members of Parliament have put forward a motion for early discussion by the House of Commons to the effect that after successive acts of aggression in Europe and the increasing pressure on small states, "this House is of the opinion that these menaces can only successfully be met by vigorous prosecution of the foreign policy outlined by the Foreign Secretary."

"The House is further of the opinion that for this there should be a National Government formed on the widest possible basis and such Government should be entrusted with full powers over the nation's industry, wealth and man-power, to enable this country to put forward its maximum military efforts in the shortest possible time."—United Press.

HUDSON IN HELSINKI

Helsinki, Mar. 29. — Mr. Hudson arrived at Helsinki to-day for conversations with the Finnish trade officials, after which he will leave for Stockholm.—Reuter Bulletin.

he saw a gun flash he opened the swing doors. The shell passed through with a whistle and burst with a dull roar in the overdraft department.

"Attabo!" shouted Waffles with glee. "That ought to liquidate my jolly old overdraft!"

The crowd caught up the cry. "ATTABOY!" it roared.

THE FIRING ceased.

Within the bank all was quiet. Was it dead or merely shamming? And then the incredible happened. With a mighty roar, it charged on us, literally moving its way through the solid ranks of soldiers, police and civilians who tried to bar its way.

A few drops of blood from a bayonet wound showed us that it had taken a westerly direction. But, despite the assistance from a squadron of aeroplanes, the trail was soon lost. However, a passion for hot dogs led to its subsequent downfall and capture.

Waffles came to me, aglow with excitement. "I have it from well-informed quarters," he told me, "that it is at present devouring a hot dog in an alleyway near Lane, Crawford."

He led the way, a handkerchief, dipped in chloroform, clutched in his right hand. His information was correct. We spotted it sitting on its haunches eating hot dogs.

We approached, and Waffles applied the handkerchief. It swooned and collapsed. The whole of Hongkong gave a mighty sigh of relief.

"WHAT IS your name?" asked the Chief Justice. "I am the SPIRIT OF DEPRESSION," the monster replied. "Address?"

KONGMOON TAKEN BY JAPANESE

Warships Assist In Fighting

Macao, Mar. 29. — Japanese planes dropped incendiary bombs yesterday on Shulum and Kongmoon, causing considerable damage, which was followed up to-day by an advance southward from Kowkong.

Employing gunboats and armed launches the Japanese have begun an attack on Kongmoon, where they are meeting Chinese resistance.—Our Own Correspondent.

Shlukwan Meeting

Shukki, Mar. 29. — Under instructions from the Central authorities, the high military leaders in Shlukwan have planned a counter-offensive against the Japanese in Kwantung to check their further drive southwards from Yungki and Kwanchow and to hinder their military movement in Kiangsi.

Full instructions were brought back by General Yu Hon-mou, Commander-in-Chief of the 12th Army Group, who has just returned from Chungking. The counter-attack was devised by General Pel Chung-hsi, Director of the Field Headquarters in Kwelling. The 12th Army Group Army will lead, as its divisions are nearest to Canton, Kwanchow and Yungki. Tension prevails here in Chungshan and in Kongmoon, as the Japanese south of Canton are pushing farther southward. General Yuan Tai, the well known guerilla leader, is now in Shukki to map out a campaign. It is said that many mercenary militarists have joined in the Japanese as vanguard.—Special.

Kongmoon Taken

Macao, Mar. 29. — Couriers arriving here this afternoon stated that Kongmoon has fallen into Japanese hands, but no official confirmation has yet been received.—Wah Kiu Yat Po.

Kongmoon Falls

Macao, Mar. 29. — Messages from Shukki report the fall of Kongmoon at 2 o'clock this afternoon after fighting lasting eight hours, during which 23 Japanese planes continuously bombed the city and artillery and gunboats supported 2,000 Japanese infantry against the Chinese volunteers.

The Japanese suffered losses and the Chinese fired the city before they retired.

Refugees entering Macao report the Chungshan district to be in a critical condition, especially following the appearance of crowded troops and destroyers near Tongka, 25 miles north of Macao.

Other reports say that heavy fighting is proceeding, but that Kongmoon is still in Chinese hands.—Our Own Correspondent.

Hollywood

Actress Is Waylaid By Assassin

Hollywood, Mar. 29. — The actress Amelia Bogart, aged 17, was waylaid and slugged with a two by four scuffling by an unidentified assailant early this morning. Physicians said that her skull was fractured and that she was in a critical condition.

Amelia Bogart played the title role of Tammy Taylor in the "Mickey Maguire" series, and is currently cast with Jackie Cooper.

She was walking home from late movies when she was "slugged." Her screams were heard by her sisters who found her sitting on the lawn with blood streaming from her head. The Police said that the assailant did not attempt a criminal attack.—United Press.

"No fixed abode." "You are charged," said the Chief Justice, "with being a 'suspected' person, with undermining Public Confidence, with loitering with intent to commit a felony, with hawking without a licence, and with the larceny of two dozen hot dogs."

"Do you plead guilty or not guilty?" "Guilty," said the prisoner, hanging its head. "You are sentenced to banishment for life, and a fine of fifty cents," said the Judge. "It will also make an order for the confiscation of any hot dogs not already consumed."

DEPRESSION was banished. Waffles got his million dollars. Ah Lum took another concubine. He bought a box of flor de cabbage cigars. And once again, "the voice of the turtle was heard in the land."

ABSENCE OF UMPIRE PUTS TSUI YUN-PUI OFF HIS GAME

T.J. Gould Plays Well In Tennis Tournament

(By "Abe")

Far from being as one-sided as most people had expected, the second round match in the Colony Tennis Singles Championship played yesterday between Tsui Yun-pui and T. J. Gould provided much that was interesting. Considering that he was up against a man who is generally regarded as almost a certainty to enter the final, Gould put up a surprisingly good fight, and with a bit of luck might have even taken the first set.

Revealing an unexpectedly strong drive on both hands, Gould held his own for the first nine games, often beating Tsui with cross-drives which were taken early in the bounce. He was also placing his shots well and time and again forced the Chinese into errors.

It is true to say that in the first nine games Tsui played about the worst game he has been seen to do in the Championships in the last two or three years; but credit must be given to Gould for forcing the pace and taking full advantage of his opponent's lapses.

The absence of an umpire seemed to unsettle Tsui, who was making frequent mistakes, over-hitting being his greatest fault. When Gould was leading 5-4, Tsui asked for an umpire and a change came over his game as soon as Mr. P. E. Baskett had taken the chair.

At once he jumped into his stride and took eight games in a row—which not only gave him the first set but also a lead of 6-0 in the second. He eventually went out in the seventh game.

Gould was at his best at the baseline, and though he scored with a few splendid volleys he was not so impressive at the net.

In the only other match played yesterday, Leo Wai-long defeated a club-mate, Leong Ping-chiu, in two love sets. The Chinese soccer idol seemed to be in a great hurry and won his match inside 25 minutes.

TO-DAY'S PROGRAMME

One of the best matches in the early rounds of the singles is promised for this afternoon when Lim Thiam-tet, the former Perak champion, will be given his first big test. He will be up against E.C. Fincher who, even if he is not as good as he used to be, is still steady enough to be a proposition for any local player. Certainly if he can produce the form he showed in beating Paul Keong, Fincher will have a good chance of winning.

The programme to-day is as follows: Open Singles—Lim Thiam-tet v. E. C. Fincher (stand court); I. M. A. Razack v. Luk Chun-cheung; Tsui Yun-pui v. Wong Shiu-wing. Open Doubles—Major F. C. Nottingham and Capt. R. B. Lecky v. Lt. Col. L. A. Newnham and Major F. T. Baines. Handicap Singles—N. L. Evans v. L. M. S. Lloyd; T. J. Price v. R. K. Vintline. Handicap Doubles—J. L. C. Pearce and T. E. Pearce v. E. Laidlaw and A. C. Beck. Handicap Mixed Doubles—E. J. R.

Results Of Matches Played Yesterday

The following were the results of matches played in the Colony Tennis Championships yesterday:

OPEN SINGLES

Tsui Yun-pui beat T. J. Gould 7-5, 6-1.
Lee Wai-long beat Leong Ping-chiu 6-0, 6-0.

STAGE ALL SET FOR INTERPORT

HONGKONG XI CAPABLE OF HOLDING THEIR OWN

The stage is now all set for the Interport with Shanghai, to be played on April 8. Hongkong has selected as strong a team as has been possible with the material at its disposal and will shortly sail for the north.

Miss Iris Woolley, the C.B.A. pivot, will captain the Hongkong Ladies' Interport team.

Cotton And Denny Lead Golf Tourney

London, Mar. 29. At Bournemouth to-day Henry Cotton and Cecil Denny, each with 69, led the first round of the Daily Mail Professional Golf Tournament.

A. J. Lacey and H. R. Manton, each with 70, follow closely behind.

Last year's winner, Wilfred Perry, and the Open Champion, Reginald Whitcombe, each had 81 after adventures among trees and going other poor rounds despite the perfect conditions.

After the second round, which will be played on Thursday, the leading 50 will enter Friday's 36-holes final. —Reuter.

RANDOM JOTTINGS BY "THE PILGRIM"

AT King's Park last Sunday in a practice match, the Ladies' Interport team defeated the C.B.S. girls by 7-0. The Colony forwards, well served by their halves, showed crispness in their quick, short passing, and swept down the field time and again, and led by 5-0 at the interval. Miss Greig (3), Mrs. Read and Mrs. Dalziel were the goal-scorers. In the second half further goals were scored by Miss H. Reid, who was seen at inside left, and Miss Greig. Little comment is necessary regarding the game itself; it was very one-sided.

TOO much reliance must not be placed on this runaway win owing to the unsatisfactory nature of the C.B.S. defence, the full backs being continually at fault in their "covering," which left the Colony forwards through so many times.

THOUGH the C.B.S. girls were badly trounced—this was expected—they put up an excellent show against their more experienced opponents. The school attack, with Miss M. Shand, Miss D. McNair and Miss J. Moss, showed up to better advantage in the second half, but they could not manage to find the net and on several occasions in the first half were only prevented from scoring by the experience and good play of Mrs. Lumsden in goal. Miss A. Smith at centre-half played a good game and gave the Interport inside trio quite a strenuous time. Miss D. Watson, at left half, also worked hard and it was really unfortunate she was hit on the nose by a rising ball which disoriented her leaving the field at the interval. Girls who were no match for the Interports, but they are to be commended on their plucky display.

MR. D. Smith, League Secretary of the H.K.H.A., who will be in Shanghai "on" vacation during the Ladies' Interport visit, has been approached by the H.K.H.A. to act as official umpire for the games up north. Mr. Smith, who is a well-qualified umpire, has accepted the invitation.

MISS M. Booker, the Interport representative, is still at the Kowloon Hospital and will not make the trip to Shanghai as previously announced. However, enthusiasts will be pleased to learn that her condition is much improved.

IN a friendly game at King's Park last Sunday, India, holding their International title, defeated Hecelo by 4-0. The International Tournament will commence in the second week of April.

THE new Scottish and English representatives for the International Tournament are Mr. R. Henderson and Mr. A.E.P. Guest respectively. Players anxious to represent their country are requested to communicate with the former, c/o Harbour View Hotel, Kowloon, and the latter, c/o The Observatory Wireless Station, Kowloon, immediately.

Mrs. Wilmot, of the Seaford Ladies, will play at left back for the Colony.

Budge Will Earn £50,000 In Three Years

Plans Retirement From Professional Tennis After Wembley Tourney

London, March 10. In all probability Donald Budge will be appearing for the last time as a professional tennis player when he competes in the Wembley tournament next May. Such is his power as a money-maker that, at 22, he is already talking of retiring!

Budge, brilliant craftsman of the courts, has had only six months of professional life. In that time he has passed the £15,000 guarantee given by F. T. Hunter's syndicate when they secured his signature.

On that basis Budge reckons to clear £50,000 in three years, and with £50,000 put away to earn interest, there will be little cause for him to continue playing tennis, except for pleasure.

No—Budge fancies that he will quit professional tennis and go to work.

Of course, this money has been earned in the United States, where professional tennis has become such an attraction that the amateur people are getting nervous. Whether it can pull as strongly here is another matter.

Hockey Interport Arrangements

Shanghai, Mar. 21. Sir Herbert Phillips, British Consul-General, has accepted invitation of Shanghai Ladies' Hockey Association to attend the Interport match against Hongkong on April 8, and to present the trophy to the winning team.

Shanghai has selected a good team. The nucleus of the forward line has been drawn from the Greens, local champions.

The Rest of Shanghai will play Hongkong on April 9, and the Greens meet the Colony side on April 10.

Several tiffin and tea parties have been arranged, but the main event will be the Interport dance at the Shanghai Race Club on April 11.

PRINTERS FINED

Published Magazine Without Permission

Summoned for printing a magazine called "Warime Japan" without the publication being passed by the authorities, and for printing a magazine without showing the name of the publisher or printer, the China Printing Company, of King's Road, were fined $20 on each charge by Mr. R. A. D. Forrest at the Central Magistracy yesterday.

The case was adjourned from last week for the Secretariat for Chinese Affairs to decide whether the publication was offensive, and yesterday a representative from the S.C.A. said that they did not object to the magazine being printed, but certain parts would have to be removed. It was also stated that the police were not pressing the case.

It's just as easy to fall in love with a millionaire, Loretta Young finds in "Three Blind Mice," showing to-day at the King's Theatre. Joel McCrea is her millionaire.

SOME COMMON FAULTS OF MANY PLAYERS

(By "The Pilgrim")

SELFISHNESS

NO one can play hockey by himself, but only as a member of a team; therefore play with your team and not by yourself. Hanging on to the ball no matter how expert a dribbler you may be—upsets the balance of your side and weakens its effectiveness. Hockey is a game of fleeting opportunities, which can only be turned to profit by frequent and quick passing.

ONE HANDED PLAY

A COMMON mistake with beginners, and one which it is difficult to cure, once it has been allowed to become a habit. There can be neither accuracy of hitting nor control of the ball in dribbling, unless both hands are kept on the stick.

PERHAPS the commonest mistake of all. The stick is so made that in its normal position it is held on the right-hand side of the body, consequently the ball is to the left, by swinging the stick slightly across the front of the body. Backs and halves are especially offenders in this respect, frequently clearing to the left even when there is ample time—by a little manoeuvre—to hit to the right. Unless this tendency is constantly corrected, it results in an unbalanced attack and in overworking the left wing and starving the right. It is all the more important to correct this fault, for the attack is more easily made from the right wing than from the left.

BLIND PASSING AND HITTING

THIS is due to a failure to see how the field is placed. It is not always possible to take one's eyes right off the ball, but a player will find it possible to cultivate the habit of forming a mental picture of the field, so that he may know more or less accurately where and when to direct his pass. The art of visualising the field can be easily acquired by a more upright position in the field. No one who plays with his body crouching over his stick can see beyond the radius of a few yards.

NEGLECT OF PROPER MARKING

MANY a side is beaten because the defence fails to mark the opposing forwards properly, and this fault can generally be traced to a lack of understanding between halves and backs. Of course, there are exceptions to every rule, but the main principle is this:—Wing halves should mark wing forwards, the centre-forwards, and opposing inside forwards should be left to run into the arms of the backs. A mistake frequently seen is when wing halves leave their opposing wing forwards to go in and tackle an inside forward. The moment a wing-half does this, the opposing inside at once passes to his outside who promptly goes away down the wing.

GERMANY SCRATCH TO IRELAND

The Ireland v. Germany international which was to have been played at Dublin last month, was cancelled by the German Hockey Bund owing to an epidemic of influenza and the difficulty of getting reserves to obtain leave of absence. The German Hockey Bund reports officially that it is now planned to play this international in October next, but the Irish Union may hold other views. Naturally, the Irish hockey authorities are furious with this scratching after they had gone to considerable expense in printing and selling tickets and making arrangements for the dinner.

Even if the whole eleven had gone down with influenza, we should have sent an Irish team over rather than break an international compact, said the Irish Union. The international team is picked down to three reserves for each position so no excuse could be made for not sending an eleven. This breaking of faith with the Union and the public generally is certainly a disgrace. It is practically impossible to arrange another match in October, as, if so, influenza might again break out and prevent a German side travelling!

A Look Through The "Telegraph"

March 30, 1889

We are desired to mention for the benefit of an illustrious subscriber that just July the Police petitioned for more pay, and that their petition has not even been acknowledged yet. A mass-meeting is threatened, and—well, we should not like to be the offending party.

The most amusing thing I ever saw at a dance? Well, I'll tell you two, and you can take your choice. No. 1 was at a small dance party given at a private house. It was late in the evening, and when the music died away a waltz and the dancers had seated themselves round the room, there, lying in open sight in the centre of the room, lay a beautiful blue silk garter. My first impulse was to step forward and pick it up and look for the owner, but I was afraid she would not thank me for my trouble: so the trinket lay where it was until a servant was actually sent with a dustpan and brush, and the offending article was swept from the floor while the guests tried vainly to see what was going on. At another part the oversight of one of the ladies who was dancing collapsed and hung limp and formless where it had previously swayed in triumphant pride. The cause of this sudden metamorphosis was the loss of a newspaper, which was found on the floor, and when it was picked up, a hasty glance showed that the particular journal that had been dedicated to this purpose was the Christian at Work.

March 30, 1914.

Reuter's correspondent at St. Petersburg (now Leningrad) says the programme of the new Air Fleet which is at present being worked out, provides for the construction of 236 ordinary aeroplanes, ten air-breathing, and three airships.

10 YEARS AGO

March 30, 1929.

Preparations for the transfer of the present telephone undertaking to the automatic system have already been commenced and at the present rate of progress it is hoped to have the new phones operating at the beginning of next year.

5 YEARS AGO

March 30, 1934.

Professor Einstein figures on a list of thirty-five names gazetted, of people who are declared to have forfeited their German citizenship for "harming German interests by disloyal behaviour."

All their property in Germany is declared to be confiscated by the Government under this ruling.

Church bells were rung and swastikas hoisted from hundreds of Nazi houses in the Saar to-day in connection with an appeal for the unification of all the German political parties of the Saar in a common Nazi-inspired "German Front." For the purposes of that persuasive propaganda of which the Nazis are masters the desired unification was taken as an accomplished fact in the appeal published in the Saar Nationalist Press.

Even the sophisticated newspaper readers of Berlin are asked to believe that from today on there is not a Socialist or a Communist left among the 250,000 Saarlanders.

SPRING CLEAN

and LIKE it

It isn't all wearisome routine. It isn't even wearisome if planned properly. There's adventure in it somewhere—this spring-cleaning.

HINT No. 1

Abolish for ever the cry of those who say there's never a good meal in spring cleaning time. Have plenty of food ready in advance.

Boil a piece of bacon with one teaspoonful of vinegar, two cloves and some nutmeg in the water. Peel and slice potatoes, cooking them in a casserole with milk and grated cheese. Make a large mixed fruit pie—pears, early rhubarb and a few South African plums. Sweeten with brown sugar and add some lemon and orange peel.

First day is outside day. Make the acquaintance of your roof. A loose slate or tile, defective lead-work or choked gutter may ruin all the cleaning you are about to do.

Look to outside pipes and gratings, flushing them all with strong disinfectant. Replace cracked and broken glass panes.

HINT No. 2

You can cut out defective glass panes yourself, without a glazier's knife, by rubbing the putty well with soft soap first.

Next day the rooms must be got ready. All hangings, etc., that cannot be dealt with at home, sent to the cleaners.

When taking up carpets look out for dry rot in the floor beneath. It is a disease and must be cut out.

Cover with a dust sheet all furniture that can't be moved.

Now begin on the cleaning. Ceilings first. Powdered whitening applied on a damp white cloth attached to a long brush freshens them.

Treat walls according to how they are painted. For washable paint, use a lather of curd soap and water on a clean flannel.

Wash painted woodwork, but

polish afterwards with a few drops solved. This helps keeps the bristles of paraffin. A handful of dough stiff.

A soaped loofah will bring out finger prints from paint. Where moth is suspected in a room, scrub round the skirting with water to which a little chloride of lime has been added.

HINT No. 3

If "peeling" walls cannot be redistempered, dissolve 1/2 oz. of alum in 1 pint of water and apply with a soft brush.

Day after is "contents" day. All carpets, etc., should be carefully examined before cleaning, as sometimes too vigorous treatment makes holes.

Carpets can be freshened with a solution of one teaspoonful of ammonia to one quart of water. Rugs with a tendency to curl are improved by a piece of corrugated rubber sewn under each corner.

Coffee stains can be entirely removed from fabric—even after months—by rubbing in pure glycerine and leaving for half an hour before washing.

Kitchen tables become like new if scrubbed with finely sifted sand. Don't forget the window blinds. Torn ones of linen or cotton can be renovated by smearing white of egg round the rent and pressing the edges in position.

Smear some more egg white over a piece of material similar to the blind, lay over the torn part and press with a hot iron.

Before polishing carved furniture dust it carefully.

HINT No. 4

A kneading pad for scrubbing is necessary for your health and efficient work. See it is well padded and DRY.

Last day is that for reassembling your home again. DON'T put back things just as they were.

Try one new splash of colour in each room, be it new cushion cover, vase or lampshade.

Odd bowls, saucerless cups and handleless jugs can play their part in spring flower arrangement.

Dark cupboard are brightened by lining with shiny pale coloured paper.

Give your brushes and brooms the care they deserve. Dip briskly in and put of hot soapy water till clean. Rinse in fresh water and then plunge into a bucket of cold water in which a handful of salt is dis-

HINT No. 5

Now it's YOU who need a real rest and beauty treatment. There's a new shampoo, the very thing for post-spring cleaning use. Its superfine foam removes every trace of dust.

Ever put a drop of peppermint essence in your bath water? It is refreshing and cleansing.

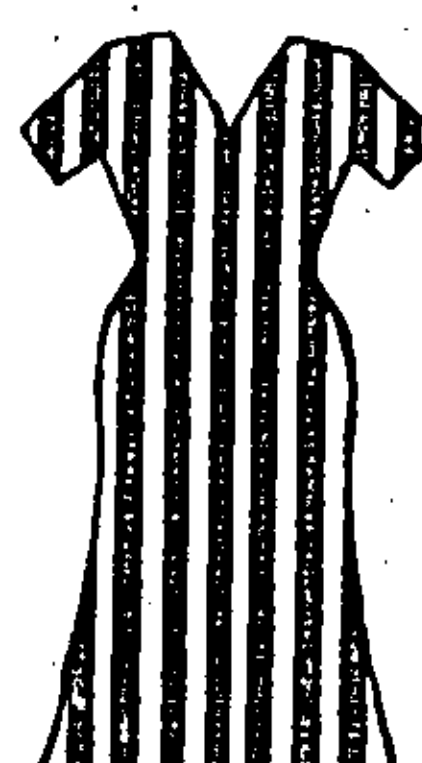

This demure swim suit of black fine whale pique, coyly trimmed with bands of bow-knots of shocking pink linen, illustrates the mid-Victorian influence which dominates beaches according to styles introduced at the annual Miami Biltmore fashion show recently in New York.

Get The Right Angle On

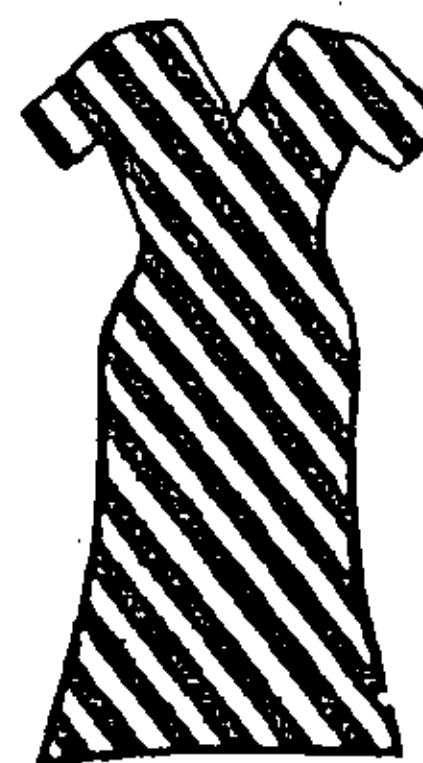

STRIPES

Horizontal stripes are smart, give breadth to a lanky figure. But don't think of them unless you're tall and thin.

Look what a difference vertical stripes make to the look of the same frock: nothing better for creating height and slenderness.

Diagonal stripes, "cut" your height; wear them if you want to give roundness and curves to a bony figure.

Tee-stripes—horizontal on the bodice, vertical on the skirt—make shoulders look wider, hips slimmer.

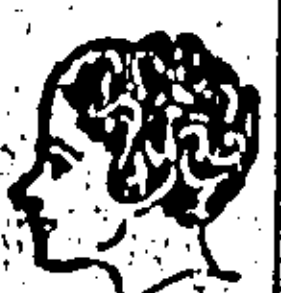

Circular stripes—that's to say stripes which slant slightly upwards from the centre of a dress—are another means of rounding a too-slim figure.

Chevron stripes, running from a plain vertical panel, down the centre, give grace and uplift to short, droopy figures.

IF you have any beauty problems, why not try Mrs. Baton's Beauty Salon which has a reputation of being the most reliable in the Colony.

BRITISH SHIPPING IN ORIENT NEEDS HELP

Far-reaching proposals to help British shipping in the Orient to meet the growing threat of foreign competition, particularly by Japan, are made in a report of the Imperial Shipping Committee. The inquiry was undertaken at the request of the Government, and the Committee began its survey two years ago.

Among the suggestions as to the form Government action might take are: Subsidies, reservation of carrying trades and the apportionment of carryings.

It is also proposed that there should be new ships, better operation of rival British shipping concerns, more devolution of management, more cargo consigned by British merchants in British ships and more even division of traffic between British and foreign ship-owners.

The importance of trade in the Orient is indicated by the fact that, in 1936, the gross earnings of the mercantile marine of the United Kingdom from carrying within the Orient and between the Orient and countries outside were approximately £23,000,000, or about a quarter of the total gross receipts from carriage of cargo and passengers all over the world.

SUBSIDISED LINES

In the trades with the Orient, both through Suez and round the Cape, British shipping maintains its long lead with between two-fifths and one-half of the tonnage of shipping and of the cargo and passengers carried. The remainder of the trade is mainly shared between half a dozen European countries.

Concerning the promotion of trade by the provision of shipping facilities, the Committee notes that increased competition of subsidized German and Italian lines in the Far Eastern and especially the China trade. By luxurious accommodation and superior speeds they attract much of the better-paying cargo and passenger traffic.

Reviewing the factors affecting competition, the report declares that Japanese shipping and most of the other principal competitors of British liner shipping in the Orient receive subsidies, whether for operating or building or both, on a fairly substantial scale and the German and Italian, and particularly the Japanese, subsidies have enabled their mercantile marines to be modernised with fast and efficient vessels. The German and Italian lines are State controlled. The tendency is for subsidies to grow. Apart from subsidies, the cumulative effect of currency depreciation and of the different standard of living makes it possible for Japanese vessels to be operated at a cost which in 1936 was perhaps of the order of 10 to 15 per cent. below the cost of operating comparable British vessels.

HOW JAPANESE COMPETE

The major part of Japanese ocean-going shipping and also of Japanese overseas trade is under the financial control of a few great houses which have interests in banking, merchanting and manufacturing, and in ship-building yards and other firms and industries ancillary to shipping. As a result it is possible to bring powerful financial and commercial support to the aid of the Japanese ship-owners in competition with the foreigners.

It is this which gives to her merchants the power of routing cargo, bought in foreign markets for import into Japan, by Japanese ships. It is this also, in its financial aspect, which places such strength behind the Japanese shipping companies that competitors have rarely ventured to challenge a rate war in defence either of freight rates or apportionment of sailings.

In contrast to such concentration of strength, there is on the British side an absence of concentration, evident not merely in the number of the Governments which rule the speed of their schedule, the rates charged and sometimes in the service forthcoming.

NEW SHIPS SUGGESTED

On devolution of management, it is stated, "Japanese shipping is managed in and from Japan and competing British shipping is managed directly or indirectly from the distant British Isles; and it would appear necessary for United Kingdom shipowners to establish a greater devolution than is at present the case."

"If the facts presented in this report lead the Governments to the conclusion that an effort should be made to support British shipping lines in the Orient," it says, "we believe that consideration should be given to the practicability of financial assistance to the shipping companies for the modernisation of their fleets as a part of the solution of their difficulties."

"But this might prove unavailing unless steps could simultaneously be taken, with the co-operation of the merchant and banking interests concerned, to ensure that a fair and reasonable share of the carrying trade between the various parts of the Empire and Japan is allotted to the mercantile marine of the Empire. "If the shipping of the British Commonwealth is to hold its own in competition with the Japanese it may be necessary to develop some new form of organisation appointed by the Governments concerned and specially charged to watch over British shipping in Middle and Far Eastern waters."

The Chairman of the Committee was Sir Halford J. Mackinder and other members signing the report are: Sir Frederick Leith-Ross (Chief Economic Adviser to the Government), Mr. W. L. Hitchens (ship-builder), Sir Kenneth Lee (Manufacturer), Dr. D. T. Lewis (merchant), Mr. Robertson F. Gibb (shipowner), Mr. T. Harrison Hughes (shipowner) and Lt.-Col. Sir Francis C. Sheldermine (civil aviation).

ENGLISH EDITION OF 'MEIN KAMPF'

"MEIN KAMPF," exactly as Hitler wrote it, without any "cuts," will be published in Britain shortly.

Hitherto the only edition available in English has been a specially prepared edition from which many crucial passages are omitted.

Mr. Walter Hutchinson, chairman of Messrs. Hurst and Blackett, publishers, said:

"We hold the copyright of 'Mein Kampf' in this country and the Dominions.

"This new translation will include every sentence written by Hitler in the full German version and also a detailed guide and explanation of events described in the book.

"All royalties on 'Mein Kampf' are paid to the German Propaganda Department which handles the book for Hitler, and these will be paid by us in the usual way.

NO AUTHORISATION GIVEN

"Many responsible people in Germany are in favour of the original 'Mein Kampf,' being published here. Publishers in various parts of the world holding the copyright of Hitler's book are unable to issue translations of the complete work as 'authorised versions,' because no authorisation can be obtained from German sources.

It is considered unlikely that any attempt will be made to interfere with publication in Britain.

[In terms of sales of his book Hitler is the most successful author living. By the end of this year sales of 'Mein Kampf' will have exceeded 5,000,000 copies in Germany alone, giving Hitler an income of about £75,000 a year. Translations of the book have been made in almost every foreign language. Russia and Lithuania are the only nations to ban its sale.

The first volume of the book was written by Hitler while in gaol and was published in 1925. The second volume appeared a year later. Since 1930 the two have been sold in one volume. Specially bound copies of the book are now presented by 20,000 German municipalities to every newly married couple.]

POLE FINALLY GETS FLAG

LORAIN, O. Police have found finally an expert flagpole-climber to place a flag at the top of their 2-year-old, 92-foot "flagless flagpole." Edgar Ellis, who repairs the school board's flagpoles, agreed to equip the pole with pulley and rope, paint it and attach a flag to its top.

SOUTHERN RHODESIA ELECTION

SALISBURY. A General Election will be held in Southern Rhodesia mid-April, the earliest date that weather conditions permit. The life of the present Parliament has almost expired.

The Prime Minister, Mr. Hoggins, feels that in view of possible developments in the international situation the Government may need the widest emergency powers. It would be desirable that these should be given by a freshly-elected Parliament.

He considers also that the Government should not risk being distracted by electoral considerations during a period of crisis.

EAST AFRICA CAMPAIGN AGAINST CATTLE DISEASE

NAIROBI. The belief that cattle rinderpest can be exterminated in East Africa if adequate funds are available was expressed at a conference of delegates representing British, Belgian and Portuguese territories south of the Equator.

An application to the Colonial Development Fund is recommended to establish field units to carry on the successful emergency protective measures undertaken last year.

CANADA

REFUGEE ADMISSION SUPPORTED

OTTAWA. According to Mr. MacInnis, member for Vancouver East, the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation party is prepared to support any scheme of relaxing immigration barriers to admit refugees from Central Europe.

Canada should be prepared to make some sacrifice for humanity, he said, and could make its most welcome contribution by providing asylum for persecuted European peoples.

It is expected that refugees who are able to support themselves or who have relatives here will be admitted. Preference will be shown to agriculturists.

Ski-ers Deny Charges.—Recent charges by a Roman Catholic archbishop that ski trains "bred iniquity and immorality" are loudly denied by ski-ing enthusiasts who take advantage of reduced railway fares for week-end ski-ing excursions to northern districts.

Slander Suit Against Actress Fails

DESCRIBED by the judge as "a lamentable piece of litigation," a slander action brought by Mr. Thomas Ferguson (A. C. Astor, the ventriloquist), director and part owner of Her Majesty's Theatre, Carlisle, was dismissed at Carlisle Assizes recently.

He sued Miss Hannah Watt, the actress, and her mother, Mrs. Dorothy Ruth Watt, of Stanwix, Carlisle.

Judgment was given for the defendants with costs, the judge saying he considered the action ought never to have been brought.

He said he believed both parties were honest. Miss Watt was probably a little more temperamental than she imagined.

Mr. L. H. Gluckstein, for Mr. Astor, said that Miss Watt was now Mrs. Pugh. In August, 1937, she approached Mr. Astor about obtaining an engagement at Her Majesty's Theatre. He was an old friend of the family and was quite anxious to help her.

She had very little experience as a variety artist, although two years before she had appeared at a Carlisle cinema.

Miss Watt suggested that her salary should be £50. Mr. Astor said he would guarantee her £25 and that then they would split 50 per cent. of the touring company's profits after deducting expenses. Miss Watt agreed to this.

On the Saturday Miss Watt was given an account which showed the house drawing for the week to be £457. The company's share was half of that, £228, and after deducting artists' salaries of £153 and other expenses there was a profit balance of £64 3s. 7d.

Of that, Miss Watt's share was set at £32 1s. 10d. with the £25 guarantee that made a total of £57 1s. 10d., and after deducting bar bill, telephone account and other items, there was a balance of £53 10s. 7d. which she was to receive.

When that amount was tendered to her Miss Watt was alleged to have said, "Is this all I get? It is a twist. I should receive 50 per cent. of the gross takings of the week, less the artists' salaries."

On the following day Miss Watt again declared to Mr. Williams, the theatre accountant, that she had been twisted. Her mother said "We cannot expect to receive any other treatment than we have done from Astor, knowing what he is."

CARBO BURLESQUE

Thomas Ferguson, the plaintiff, said he was well known as a ventriloquist and had appeared at command performances.

Asked by the judge what was the act which Watt was going to put on, Mr. Astor said: "Excerpts from plays she had appeared in, a burlesque of Greta Garbo, and songs from her pantomime engagements."

Miss Watt, giving evidence, said that her name was now Mrs. Hannah Mary Ruth Pugh, and she was living in Laurier Road, N.W. She was legitimate actress and appeared in pantomime at Christmas.

Mr. Wingate-Saul (for Miss Watt): Did you use the word "twis-

ter"?—Most definitely not. It is an abominable lie.

When Mr. Justice Croom-Johnson said he gathered that Miss Watt did not regard Mr. Astor as a twister and that she simply thought there had been a misunderstanding between them she replied, "I know I am going to lose this case, but I have come here to clear my name. In the light of what has since happened and what I have heard from people in the profession I know he is an evil man. I must say that, if I lose the case."

PORTLAND, Me. Arthur S. Jordan was justifiably proud of a 25-foot evergreen on his lawn. But that was before two enterprising 11-year-old boys sawed off its top.

How Long?

A DISTRACTED Chinese
mother found guilty of killing her eighteen-months-old daughter, has been pardoned
after being sentenced to imprisonment for the term of her
natural life with all the horrid
paraphernalia of the law.

The Chief Justice was as kind
as he could be. But, as was pointed out by the Crown
Counsel, it was mandatory under the law to sentence the
mother to life imprisonment if
not to death.

"There is only one sentence
which I can pass upon you
according to the law which I
have to administer, and that is
that you be confined to prison
with such labour as you are fit
to perform (the girl-mother is about to give birth to another
child) for the term of your natural life.

"I think you may rest assured
that the sentence which you will
be considerably less than the one which I have formally passed upon you."

But though he expressed himself in the terms of the greatest sympathy, and the Jury added
to its verdict a strong recommendation for mercy, the Chief Justice had to go through with
a sentence which no one expected to be carried out.

Why should this cruel procedure continue? In such cases
the judge could, and should, be empowered to suspend sentence
until after consultation with His Excellency the Governor or
the Colonial Secretary. Meanwhile, give thanks for a merciful and humane Governor.

Tolerance

WE need tolerance to-day. Tolerance means understanding the point of view of your neighbour.

If you can do this, you will not persecute Jews. You will not attack the Church of England or criticise Methodists. You will learn to respect another man's opinion
while still believing in your own.

And be sure that in training
yourself to be tolerant you do not sacrifice your own beliefs. Don't be so open-minded that you never
make up your mind about anything.
That kind of mind is so broad that
it is only shallow.

HE STANDS among his geraniums, gazing
steadily through the rain-
obscured panes of the old
bay-window of the cottage
parlour.

Elderly, grizzled and stoutly built. Already he has donned oilskins and sou'wester; his great knee-
boots wait upon the hearth.
"There she goes, Mother!"

A blazing rocket rears its
fiery appeal across the darkness of the raging bay.

"Mother"
helps him on
with his boots,
nor does she misunderstand
the hasty, perfunctory kiss of
his leave-taking.

Again a gleaming rocket
snakes aloft as Bunton clumps
along the cobbled garden path
and hurries down the cliff walk
to the beach below.

The remainder of the lifeboat's
crew is already assembled, including Bunton's married son
and, in raging storm and smash-
ing waves, the little band cheerfully and almost silently, risk
life to save life.

George Bunton had no love for the sea, despite his forbears,
and he could not remember his grandfather.

But the sea, with the calm
aloofness of disinterested nature
safely bore him some thousands
of miles in comfort.

One dark, foreboding, tem-
pestuous September afternoon
the typhoon struck the island.

In a lofty, palm-besprinkled,
of watchers.

Two naval men six keen, grey,
understanding eyes upon the
wicked seascape.

Not one word do they speak
as, hands in pockets, they stand
immobile. George, too, is there.
His eye is cheerful and his
tongue is flippant as he looks
upon the torment of four sweat-
ing, all-but-naked men who,
upon a madly drifting junk
exert every ounce of waning
strength in furious but vain
endeavour to best the smashing
force of elemental malignity.

MIRIAM SAT, silent, wondering and patient, eyes fixed
upon the beauties of the island
which she is approaching, and in which she will be accorded but a
cold and grudging welcome, even
for the few hours she will be permitted to remain.

A lovely Jewish girl of about fifteen years. The perfect oval
of the olive-complexioned face,
the slightly curling dusky hair,
the air of shy enquiry, the slim
youth of her lithe and graceful
form, present a picture too
seldom seen in such latitudes.

She is surprisingly—dressed in something suspiciously akin to the Teutonic student's uniform;
blue reefer and peaked cap; only
the knee-length skirt seems to
be her own.

The cap, jauntily and askew
sitting atop her head, might
have a distinctly ludicrous air
but for the fact that the whole
ensemble presents so lovely a picture.

The stout, untidy parents—
they too, silent and anxious—
give no hint of the beauty which they have somehow contrived to create.

BUS-CONDUCTORS, as engine-drivers, have their services taken for granted.

How many of his passengers
could recognise the face of the man who "conducts" them regularly every morning?

We blindly shove at him our
ten-cent piece, grab our ticket.

Only when the poor harassed
individual overshoots the mark
do we look into his face, and
then in furious expostulation,
unmindful of the fact that it is
humanly impossible to see
through the opaque bodies which throng the vehicle and obstruct his view.

He must watch the stops,
collect the money (carefully
avoiding "duds," or he will be molested, give change, punch
and deliver tickets, pull the bell-
strap, fill in returns, assist the
heavily-laden, and mentally note
the destination of each passenger—all simultaneously, so it seems.

How will he face the double-
decker?

My New Year resolution was
to treat him as a human being.
He cannot possibly have any
such conception of us.

ALTHOUGH another New Year has long since passed
away, a salvo of crackers rudely
splits the morning air, such
being, among other ceremonies,
a herald of the inauguration of
a new rice-shop.

Streaming scarlet banners
bearing, it is presumed, suitable encomiums of the wares to be supplied, gaily dress the premises.

Night falls and the master gives a dinner in honour of the now departure.

Fokis, clansfolk, valued customers cheerily and noisily fall-
to. Nor is there false shame
or undue modesty about the feast, which is visible to all who wish.

But in the bitter wind outside
another party waits. Perhaps
a dozen, mostly youngish
mothers, clad in thin black
cotton, Canton-capped, figures
bent to the weight of baby.

Tiny children cling to mother's skirts or shelter from the cold

shining eyes they take their doles—rice, scraps of chicken
and of duck, vegetable.

The sleepy children rouse and
sniff and push towards the front,
sharing in the joy for the simple
blessings of the night.

Nobody eats, but they hurry
off, now happily chattering, to share the feast with other members of the brood.

HE MUST have been extremely
hungry.

The prey upon which he pounced was far bulkier than
he, always excepting his powerful spread of wing. And his exploit was in full view of several passers-
by and on a much frequented pathway.

No sign of his existence until
the frantic squawk of the terrified hen drew attention to the
fray, she hugging the ground
which she was naturally loth to leave, he beating his wings in an endeavour to compel her to do so.

The hen's astonished owner
scared the hawk away, and the
intended victim, apparently uninjured, though partly bald and
entirely bereft of dignity, crept
fearfully away.

Upon what does the local
hawk exist?

Countless times have I watched his easy graceful soar—only
this once have I known him
swoop.

Strangely perhaps, small wild birds seem unconcerned, but
cage-birds cower at his shadow.

Fokis, in their best clean cottons, are eager to see the new adventure well upon its feet, and the master, rotund and self-contained, sits at the seat of the custom, apparently oblivious of the world, but in reality perfectly cognisant of the very smallest incident affecting his new venture.

In the dusky background
tower great stacks of bags
of rice, and in
the forefront great baskets are piled high with every variety of the nation's stand-by.

"A MILLION DOLLARS REWARD, DEAD OR ALIVE"

by GEOFFREY
SUCKLING

WE WERE standing near the entrance to the Post Office.

I mopped my brow and Waffles
loosened his collar.

"I'm afraid we've lost it," I said.
The words were hardly out of my mouth when Waffles excitedly clutched
my arm and pointed across the
road.

"There it is again," he shouted.
"Come on!"

I was close at his heels as we leapt across the bows of a passing
tram. Speeding up Pedder Street, opened-mouthed pedestrians automatically cleared a path for us. Someone blew a police whistle.

Other people joined us, but Waffles
and I were always a few yards ahead.
I am not so nimble on my feet as
I used to be, but the excitement of
the chase spurred me on.

"I'll bet . . . it's making for . . .
Ice House Street," shouted Waffles
as we ran. "I'm sure that's where it used to be, but the excitement of a fair."

"I believe you're right," I panted,
as we saw our quarry turning sharply to the left in Queen's Road
Central.

Conversation under the circumstances was rather difficult.

"If only we had a gun!"
"The traffic cop . . . at the corner
may get him," shouted Waffles.

PERSPIRATION trickling down my
face rather blurred my vision,
and I'm not quite certain what did happen at the corner of Ice House
Street.

I did, however, catch a glimpse of
the constabulary and horror on the Chinese constable's face as he saw
what was approaching him and the crowd that followed in its wake. He made a wild swipe at it as it passed,
but, whether in self defence or whether he seriously thought he could
stop it with his baton, I don't know.

THE BANK OFFICIALS were
evacuating. I was not a bit surprised. The "Thing" had taken possession of the Overdraft Department,

and was barricading itself in with ledgers.

We threw a garden around the building.

You know how the most inconsequential things often occur to you
at the most dramatic moments of
your life?

Well, looking at Waffles crouching
at the entrance to the bank, I could not help thinking how much he resembled one of the bronze lions on either side. His hair, loosened by the wind and the strenuous running,
was not unlike a lion's mane.

It did not surprise me, therefore,
when a man in the crowd, carrying a
back.

I read it.

"Whereas, under the Powers
granted me, etc. etc. . . a State of Emergency . . . $1,000,000 will be paid . . . Dead or Alive!"

Things were certainly looking
serious.

I found Mrs. FitzPillsbury at my
elbow.

"Oh, I do 'ope they catch it!" she said to me. "It's been haunting us
for years."

And she echoed the feelings of everyone. Married or single, male or female, Patricians or Plebs, we were all after the blood of Hongkong's Public Enemy No. 1.

MRS. FITZPILLSBURY gave a scream.

"Lor-luv-a-duck! They're a'calling
out the sojers!"

It was true enough. I could see
in the distance a regiment of men,
led by Colonel Plimpton Bomber,
making its way with rhythmic tread
towards us.

Police, with drawn revolvers, and
soldiers, with fixed bayonets, soon
formed a phalanx around the bank
building, somewhere inside of which lurked the foulest of fiends.

"It's on an occasion like this," said Waffles, "that I feel at my best. I can picture my overdraft being devoured by this monster incarnate piece by piece."

cent by cent . . . and I can picture myself
receiving a cheque for $1,000,000.
I can see my photograph in the
"Hongkong Telegraph" . . . I can see . . .

I cut him short.

"I can see you being blown to atoms," I said, "if you don't come
away from that door."

"What do you mean?" he asked.

"I mean," I replied, pointing to the harbour, "that, unless I am very much mistaken, one of His Majesty's cruisers is going to open fire."

Waffles gasped.

"Surely they are not going to shell
the bank!"

"That's precisely what they are going to do," I answered. "Can't you see them clearing the deck for action. What does it matter if they damage the bank, so long as 'it' is destroyed?"

We bent a hasty retreat across the road.

WITH THE BANK of the first gun, Waffles turned a somersault and Ah Lum turned green. I heard the tinkle of breaking glass
as Mrs. FitzPillsbury's spectacles crashed to the ground.

As saliva after salvo screamed
over our heads, I metaphorically
took my hat off twice. Once to the navy for their accurate shooting,
and once to the police for such perfect liaison work.

A traffic policeman was stationed
at the bank entrance, and each time

France Rejects Italy's Claim

Inspiring Broadcast
By Daladier

PARIS, Mar. 29. "EACH ONE of us is asking whether our country is not threatened, and whether our neighbours can be trusted", declared M. Edouard Daladier in opening his important broadcast to the nation to-day.

"Uncertainty on these points forces governments to take precautionary measures.

"Treaties are signed, but even before they come into force they no longer exist.

"For some, they are guarantees, for others, an obstacle. Those who do not act feel themselves to be the accomplices of force, and those who act, fear they may provoke force.

Fever Of Armaments

"Everywhere the fever of armaments destroys all other activity. It is in such situations, anxiously begotting anxiety, and armaments calling for super-armaments, that war is often unleashed.

"France wants the peace of free men. She again realises her material and moral unity in the face of danger. French unity has never been so deep and complete as to-day. She has never been more resolute; she has never been stronger.

DEFENCE OF LIBERTY

"She hopes that peace will be saved, but if war is offered as the only alternative between downfall or dishonour, she will rise with one bound for the defence of liberty.

"As a result of recent measures, her economic situation is improving and her national defence is assured. Her renaissance is continuing. Yesterday the franc appreciated, and to-day alone we received four tons of gold. The nation has responded to our appeal with virile resolution as in all grave hours of her history.

"We will never agree to international relations being regulated by force. Only when justice and right disappear does the recourse to force become an indispensable duty. France will not accept this. France will not accept this. France will not accept this.

"France has never ceased to give Germany evidence of goodwill, but the conquest of Czechoslovakia has dealt a severe blow to her most persistent efforts.

"M. Daladier invited the collaboration of all Powers, who, like herself, are ready to co-operate to maintain peace, but which would rise against aggression.

ITALY'S ARGUMENTS

"We cannot accept Signor Mussolini's arguments, because every fresh conquest or concession would open new claims. Having described the strength of France as greater than ever was, M. Daladier proceeded to define what he meant by the strength of France.

"It is the entity of magnificent armies, whose leaders and men form a single bloc without losing anything of their individual virtue; it finds support in a rich, balanced country, whose soil is fertile and sheltered from the distress of famine; it is all over the world, in the remotest of possessions, where, as Minister of the Colonies 15 years ago, I felt the intense loyalty vibrating; it is also the immense Empire of which the untouchable African bloc forms the central girder, and of whose affectionate attention and devotion to the Mother country I recently was able to measure for myself.

"It is not only in our military power, but in spiritual values which France is great to-day as in any century of our history. It is the spontaneous union of the whole people, seeking for truth and justice; it lies in friends who make agreements with her, and who spontaneously associate themselves with the free peoples, and with those who suffer. "Nowadays, liberty is called servitude. Voluntary adhesion to a cause is called submission. The desire to live is called desperation. Progress represents the destruction of human values. People pretending to work for the safety of men, are really working for their ruin. "France heard with complete calm the tumultuous demands raised from time to time around her, because she knows negotiations would only lead to her rights being made clear, and that all violence against her would be broken."

Japan Pays $20,000 To H.K. Government

LONDON, MAR. 29.—IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS TO-DAY, MR. R. A. BUTLER INFORMED A QUESTIONER THAT THE JAPANESE HAD PAID THE GOVERNMENT OF HONGKONG $20,000 TO COVER ALL CLAIMS IN CONNECTION WITH THE AIR RAID NEAR SHUMCHUN.

INVITED TO STATE THE PRESENT POSITION IN INNER MONGOLIA, MR. BUTLER DESCRIBED THE MONGOLIAN FRONTIER JOINT COMMISSION AND THE SMALLER AUTONOMOUS GOVERNMENTS OF CHAHAR AND NORTH SHANSI, AND ADDED THAT JAPANESE TROOPS WERE REPORTED TO BE STATIONED AT VARIOUS POINTS ALONG THE PEIPING-SUIYAN RAILWAY, BUT THAT THE GOVERNMENT HAD NO ACCURATE INFORMATION REGARDING THEIR ACTUAL NUMBERS.—REUTER.

NATIONAL SERVICE

London, Mar. 29. Conversations took place during the recent visit of President Lebrun between British Ministers and French representatives with regard to the inauguration of compulsory national service in Britain, said Mr. Neville Chamberlain during question time in the House of Commons to-day.

MANDATE RESIDENTS MAY BECOME BRITONS

London, Mar. 29. The Government is considering the introduction of legislation to enable residents in mandated territory to become eligible for naturalisation as Britons, said Sir Thomas Inskip, Secretary for the Dominions, during question time in the House of Commons to-day.—REUTER.

Franco-Italian agreements were destined to "regulate definitely" "Arrangements were reached whereby Italy obtained frontier rectifications and cessions of territory in Africa, economic advantages, and a progressive change in the status of Italians in Tunisia by stages in 1945, 1955, and 1965.

"These agreements were not questioned until December 17, 1938, when Count Ciano informed us that he did not consider the agreement valid.

"That letter does not contain details regarding Italian claims, and there is no question of the Suez, Djibouti and Tunisia being mentioned in it.

"The essential argument in the letter was that the conquest of Abyssinia created new rights in favour of Italy.

"We cannot accept this argument. It means that every new conquest and every new concession would open new rights, and each claim, once satisfied, would contain in itself future demands.

"France is ready to complete liquidation of the 1935 agreements, and within the spirit of the agreement she has not refused to examine any proposal that may be advanced."

LIBERAL REGIME

Alluding to "fables" spread regarding the position of the 94,000 Italians living in Tunisia, with 100,000 French, and 2,500,000 Moslems, M. Daladier denied that the Italians were maltreated and persecuted. On the contrary, they enjoy a most liberal regime.

The Premier testified to the warm welcome the Moslem population gave him when he visited North Africa.

"I know my words will find a fraternal echo in the bosom of friendly nations across Europe, across the Channel, and beyond the Atlantic. I can then hope that all reasonable men, such as exist in all countries, will listen to this language of reason, for it seeks nobody's humiliation."

Arrangements were made to retransmit the speech in English, German, Italian, Spanish and Arabic.—REUTER.

ITALY'S VIEW

Rome, Mar. 29. High Fascist party circles say that the French Premier's speech virtually rejected Mussolini's overtures which lay associate themselves with the free peoples, and with those who suffer. "Nowadays, liberty is called servitude. Voluntary adhesion to a cause is called submission. The desire to live is called desperation. Progress represents the destruction of human values. People pretending to work for the safety of men, are really working for their ruin. Plans For The Royal Visit

London, Mar. 29.

It was officially announced to-day that the King and Queen will begin their four-day visit to the United States in June. They will enter America from Canada at Niagara Falls where Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, will officially welcome them on behalf of the President.

The Royal Party will then take train for Washington where President Roosevelt will be at the station. The King and Queen will be guests in the White House for two days.—United Press.

Government Impressed

LONDON, MAR. 29. The Prime Minister said: "The House will remember that in a recent statement I announced that every aspect of our national life, including national defence programmes, would be examined anew.

"In the course of this review, the Government has been impressed with the need of availing itself still further of the spirit of voluntary service which is manifest throughout the country.

"In particular, it feels that it cannot allow would-be recruits for the territorial army to be refused because the units to which they apply are already over strength.

"Accordingly the Government has given consideration to the position and has come to the following conclusions.

1.—That the territorial field army, which is now on peace establishment of 140,000 men be raised forthwith to an establishment involving the addition of about 400,000 men.

2.—The territorial army, when finally doubled, will be allotted an establishment of 340,000.

Important Decisions

"You will appreciate that these important decisions involve a number of consequential decisions in order to provide for the necessary increases in accommodation, the number of competent instructors, equipment and reserves, and in war material necessary to maintain the increased forces.

"Plans for all these matters are being worked out, and further information about them will be given from time to time.

"I realise that further and much more augmented efforts will be required to bring home to the nation the necessity for obtaining the numbers aimed at in the shortest possible time, and I trust that all members of the House will be willing, in one form or another, to give their aid to such an effort."

Sir Archibald Sinclair welcomed the Prime Minister's statement.

Mr. F. J. Bellenger (Labour) asked what effect Mr. Chamberlain's announcement would have on Mr. Hore-Belisha's recent statement regarding the number of divisions available for overseas.

Mr. Chamberlain replied that the effect would be, in time, to double the effectiveness.—REUTER.

KONGMOON TAKEN BY JAPANESE Warships Assist In Fighting

Macao, Mar. 29.

Japanese planes dropped incendiary bombs yesterday on Sialum and Kongmoon, causing considerable damage, which was followed up to-day by an advance southward from Kowkong.

Employing gunboats and armed launches the Japanese have begun an attack on Kongmoon, where they are meeting Chinese resistance.—Our Own Correspondent.

Shiukwan Meeting

Shiukwan, Mar. 29. Under instructions from the Central authorities, the high military leaders in Shiukwan have planned a counter-offensive against the Japanese in Kwangtung to check their further drive southwards from Yungki and Kwangtung and to hinder their military movement in Kiangsi.

Full instructions were brought back by General Yu Hon-mou, Commander-in-Chief of the 12th Army Group, who has just returned from Chungking.

The counter-attack was divided by General Pei Chung-hsi, Director of the Field Headquarters in Kweichow. The 12th Army Group Army will lead, as its divisions are nearest to Canton, Kwachow and Yungki.

Tension prevails here in Chungshan and in Kwangtung, as the Japanese south of Canton are pushing further southward. General Yuan Tai, the well known guerrilla leader, is now in Shiukki to map out a campaign. It is said that many mercenary militarists have joined in the Japanese advance.—Special.

Kongmoon Taken

Macao, Mar. 29.

Couriers arriving here this afternoon stated that Kongmoon has fallen into Japanese hands, but no official confirmation has yet been received.—Wah Kiu Yat Po.

Kongmoon Falls

Macao, Mar. 29. Messages from Shiukki report the fall of Kongmoon at 2 o'clock this afternoon after fighting lasting eight hours, during which 23 Japanese planes continuously bombed the city and artillery and gunboats supported 2,000 Japanese infantry against the Chinese volunteers.

The Japanese suffered losses and the Chinese fired the city before they retired.

Refugees entering Macao report the Chungshan district to be in a critical condition, especially following the appearance of crowded troopships and destroyers near Tongka, 25 miles north of Macao.

Other reports say that heavy fighting is proceeding, but that Kongmoon is still in Chinese hands.—Our Own Correspondent.

"A MILLION DOLLARS REWARD"

he saw a gun flash he opened the swing doors. The shell passed through with a whistle and burst with a loud roar in the overdrift department.

"Attabo!" shouted Waffles with glee. "That ought to liquidate my jolly old overdraft!"

The crowd caught up the cry. "ATTABOY!" it roared.

THE FIRING ceased.

Within the bank all was quiet. "Was it dead or merely chumming? And then the incredible happened. With a mighty roar, it charged out on us, literally moving its way through the solid ranks of soldiers, police and civilians who tried to bar its way.

A few drops of blood from a bayonet wound showed us that it had taken a westerly direction. But, despite the assistance from a squadron of aeroplanes, the trail was soon lost. However, a passion for hot dogs led to its subsequent downfall and capture.

He led the way, a handkerchief, dipped in chloroform, clutched in his right hand.

"His information was correct. We spotted it sitting on its haunches eating hot dogs. We approached, and Waffles applied the handkerchief. It swooned and collapsed. The whole of Hongkong gave a mighty sigh of relief.

"WHAT IS YOUR NAME?" asked the Chief Justice.

"I am the SPIRIT OF DEPRESSION," the monster replied. "Address?"

"No fixed abode," said the Chief Justice, "with being a 'suspected' person, with undermining Public Confidence, with loitering with intent to commit a felony, with hawking without a licence, and with the larceny of two dozen hot dogs."

"Do you plead guilty or not guilty?" "Guilty," said the prisoner, hanging his head.

"You are sentenced to banishment for life, and a fine of fifty cents," said the Judge. "I will also make an order for the confiscation of any hot dogs not already consumed."

DEPRESSION was banished.

Waffles got his million dollars. Ah Lum got another concubine. I bought a box of for de cabbage ears. And once again, "the voice of the turtle was heard in the land."

France. Ships in Valencia harbour have hoisted Nationalist flags. Alicante has surrendered to the Nationalists, according to a broadcast from the harbour town received in Burgos.

Advance guards of General Franco's army reached the outskirts of Valencia this afternoon and were joyously received, meeting with no resistance. The first columns entered Valencia with bands playing, and they were enthusiastically acclaimed. The strong air force garrisoned in the city has placed itself at the disposal of General Franco.

SAGUNTO OCCUPIED

A Madrid message says that the city of Sagunto was occupied by Nationalists this afternoon. Reports were received in Madrid that the famous monastery Escorial had been plundered by the Republicans. Famous paintings, including those by Zurbaran and Velasquez had been removed from the main hall and partially destroyed, while several of the royal sepulchres were said to have been broken open.

The Republican Ambassador in Washington, says a Burgos message, has evacuated the Spanish Embassy and turned the keys over to the Department of State. Political circles regard this act as an indication that the Nationalist Government will be recognised in the near future by the United States Government.—Trans-Ocean.

JUNTA DETAINED

London, Mar. 29. The Spanish civil war ended to-day for all practical purposes, with the surrender to General Franco's supporters of all important towns remaining in Republican hands.

General Franco's forces entered Valencia this evening, several hours after General Casado, War Commissioner in the Republican Junta had himself announced the city's submission over the radio.

All members of the Junta, except General Mija and General Casado were detained in Valencia, according to "Reuters" Burgos correspondent.

General Mija was among the passengers in 23 Republican planes which arrived at Oran, but there was no news of General Casado.

The news of the submission of other Republican cities came in dramatic radio announcements every few minutes from stations at Cartagena, Alicante, Alcala, Avila, Jena, Ciudadreal and Murcia.

The announcers all told the same tale: the cities had gone over to General Franco and the Nationalists' famous "Fifth Column" were in control.

COMPLETELY OCCUPIED

"Reuters" correspondent at Burgos reports that the provincial capitals of Ciudadreal and Almeria were completely occupied by General Franco's troops, and that the occupation of Jena had begun.

In the meantime, the Nationalist forces were completing the ring around Madrid where orderliness is said to prevail, and where most of the public services have been restored.

Signor Mussolini wired his congratulations to General Franco to-day, and Herr Joachim von Ribbentrop, the German Foreign Minister sent a congratulatory telegram to Count Jordana, the Nationalist Foreign Minister.

Mussolini later ordered flags to be hung from dawn to dusk in honour of the Nationalist victory, throughout Italy.—REUTER.

Far from being as one-sided as most people had expected, the second round match in the Colony Tennis Championships played yesterday between Tsui Yun-pui and T. J. Gould provided much that was interesting. Considering that he was up against a man who is generally regarded as almost a certainty to enter the final, Gould put up a surprisingly good fight, and with a bit of luck might have even taken the first set.

Revealing an unexpectedly strong drive on both hands, Gould held his own for the first nine games, often beating Tsui with cross-drives which were taken early in the bounce. He was also placing his shots well and time and again forced the Chinese into errors.

It is true to say that in the first nine games Tsui played about the worst game he has been seen to do in the Championships in the last two or three years; but credit must be given to Gould for forcing the pace and taking full advantage of his opponent's lapses.

The absence of an umpire seemed to unsettle Tsui, who was making frequent mistakes, over-hitting being his greatest fault. When Gould was leading 5-4, Tsui asked for an umpire and a change came over his game as soon as Mr. P. E. Baskett had taken the chair.

At once he jumped into his stride and took eight games in a row—which not only gave him the first set but also a lead of 5-0 in the second. He eventually went out in the seventh game.

Gould was at his best at the beginning, and though he scored with a few splendid volleys he was not so impressive at the net. In the only other match played yesterday, Lee Wai-tong defeated a club-mate, Leong Ping-chiu, in two love sets. The Chinese soccer idol seemed to be in a great hurry and won his match inside 25 minutes.

TO-DAY'S PROGRAMME

One of the best matches in the early rounds of the singles is promised for this afternoon when Lim Thiam-tet, the former Perak champion, will be given his first big test. He will be up against E.C. Fincher who, even if he is not as good as he used to be, is still steady enough to be a proposition for any local player. Certainly if he can produce the form he showed in beating Paul Kong, Fincher will have a good chance of winning.

The programme to-day is as follows:
Open Singles.—Lim Thiam-tet v. E. C. Fincher (stand court); L. M. A. Hazack v. Lee Chun-chung; Tsui Yun-pui v. Wong Shu-wing.
Open Doubles.—Major F. C. Nottingham and Capt. R. B. Lecky v. Lt. Col. L. A. Nevins and Major F. T. Balnes.
Handicap Singles.—N. L. Evans v. M. S. Lloyd; T. J. Price v. R. K. Valentine.
Handicap Doubles.—J. L. C. Pearce and T. E. Pearce v. E. Laidlaw and A. C. Beck.
Handicap Mixed Doubles.—E. J. R.

Results Of Matches Played Yesterday

The following were the results of matches played in the Colony Tennis Championships yesterday:

Tsui Yun-pui beat T. J. Gould 7-5, 6-1.
Lee Wai-tong beat Leong Ping-chiu 6-0, 6-0.

EVERTON FORGING AHEAD

Wolves Beaten By Stoke

London, Mar. 29. Wolves lost valuable ground today in the English Football League when, visiting Stoke City, they were defeated by five goals to three. On the other hand, Everton, the League leaders, went further ahead by winning their away match against Manchester United by two goals to nil.

To-day's results have given Everton a lead of five points.

Portsmouth, the Wolves' opponents in the Cup Final, were soundly thrashed by Middlesbrough and lost by eight goals to two.

Birmingham, at the bottom of the League Table, could take only one point from their home match against Huddersfield.

HONGKONG XI CAPABLE OF HOLDING THEIR OWN

The stage is now all set for the Interport with Shanghai, to be played on April 8. Hongkong has selected as strong a team as has been possible with the material at its disposal and will shortly sail for the north.

Miss Iris Woolley, the C.B.S. Ladies' Interport team.

One may express the pious hope that on the day of the game our ladies will be at their best. Though half the Hongkong team will be new to our northern friends, their current form, suggests that they have high-class credentials. The selections seem to have given general satisfaction anyway.

The non-inclusion of that great stalwart, Miss A. Fowler, of Interport fame, is explained by the fact that she is not able to make the journey. Mrs. Wilmot, however, comes in as the automatic choice at left back, and Miss Moss as reserve back.

FOURTH MEETING

This is the fourth meeting of the two ports, the following being the results of the previous matches: 1935 H.K. won at Hongkong 1-0 1936 H.K. won at Shanghai 1-0 1937 H.K. and Shanghai drew 1-1 at Hongkong 1938 No Interport

A GOOD TEAM

The Hongkong attack can be really dangerous and a great deal will depend on our inside trio, composed of Miss Harker, Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Dalziel. Our wingers are fast and can quickly open up the attacks, if the halves behind will only follow them up closely and get back quickly on defence again. The real dominating personality among the intermediates will be Miss Iris Woolley, the skipper and pivot, who should make the Shanghai centre-forward "mind her step." Our wing-halves are about equal, except that, Mrs.

Stone at right half is in a higher category than Miss Reid, well though the latter plays.

Miss G. White and Mrs. Wilmot in the back division make a strong pair. The latter is a sure hitter and the former a capable and finished product of the art of defensive play. Mrs. Lunsford, a clever custodian, can always be depended upon to be in good form.

There is a confident feeling that Shanghai will have a team far superior to that of 1937 but nevertheless I think the teams will be level in playing merit. It should be the usual fast game with hard and vigorous tackling, hard hitting and up-and-down play.

There are always the "ifs" and "buts" in an Interport match. The old campaigner is never surprised to which side victory finally goes. But if Hongkong can keep their defence sound and their forwards show something of the speed, dash and passing abilities as revealed in their practice games, Shanghai may get a surprise.

WHEN THEY SAIL

Mrs. Wilmot will leave on March 31. Twelve others sail by the Yusang on Sunday, April 3, followed by Mrs. Dalziel and Miss Greig, who will be the last, on the Terukuni Maru, sailing on April 4.

Prior to their departure, the ladies will have their last practice game against the C.B.S. girls, on the school ground at 3 p.m. on Saturday. I wish the team the best of luck, smooth trip and hope they bring the White Shield back with them.

Mrs. Wilmot, of the Seaford Ladies, will play at left back for the Colony.

RANDOM JOTTINGS BY "THE PILGRIM"

AT King's Park last Sunday in a practice match, the Ladies' Interport team defeated the C.B.S. girls by 7-0. The Colony forwards, well served by their halves, showed crispness in their quick, short passing, and swept down the field time and again, and led by 5-0 at the interval. Miss Greig (3), Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Dalziel were the goal-scorers. In the second half further goals were scored by Miss H. Reid, who was seen at inside left, and Miss Greig. Little comment is necessary regarding the game itself; it was very one-sided.

Too much reliance must not be placed on this runaway win owing to the unsatisfactory nature of the C.B.S. defence, the full backs being continually at fault in their "covering," which left the Colony forwards through so many times.

THOUGH the C.B.S. girls were badly trounced—this was expected—their put up an excellent show against their more experienced opponents. The school attack, with Miss M. Shand, Miss D. McCaw and Miss J. Moss, showed up to better advantage in the second half, but they could not manage to find the net and on several occasions in the first half were only prevented from scoring by the experience and good play of Mrs. Lunsford in goal. Miss A. Smith at centre-half played a good game and gave the Interport inside trip quite a strenuous time. Miss D. Watson, at left half, also worked hard and it was really unfortunate she was hit on the nose by a rising ball which necessitated her leaving the field at the interval. The school-girls were no match for the Interporters, but they are to be commended on their plucky display.

MR. D. Smith, League Secretary of the H.K.H.A., who will be in Shanghai on vacation during the ladies' Interport visit, has been approached by the H.K.H.A. to act as official umpire for the games up north. Mr. Smith, who is a well-qualified umpire, has accepted the invitation.

MISS M. Booker, the Interport reserve, is still at the Kowloon Hospital and will not make the trip to Shanghai as previously announced. However, enthusiasts will be pleased to learn that her condition is much improved.

IN a friendly game at King's Park last Sunday, India, fielding their International team, defeated Rectorio by 4-0. The International Tournament will commence in the second week of April.

THE new Scottish and English representatives for the International Tournament are Mr. R. Henderson and Mr. A.E.P. Guest respectively. Players anxious to represent their country are requested to communicate with the former, c/o Harbour View Hotel, Kowloon, and the latter, c/o The Observatory Wireless Station, Kowloon, immediately.

THE "Perfect"

The "Perfect", the latest product of the British Ford organisation, embodies Centre-Pole Riding, a Single-Lift Hinged Bonnet, Comfortably Spacious Interior, and Abnormally Roomy Luggage-Space. On power, silence, lightness of control, brakes, steering, suspension, it is outstanding in its class. Its performance, elegance, completeness of equipment, and economy of purchase, running and maintenance, make it the soundest buyer-proposition of the day, and it carries profit for the Dealer which makes its handling gladdened business.

All reputable Motor Traders can handle the "Perfect". Consult the nearest Ford Main Dealer, or communicate direct with us.

SPRING CLEAN

and LIKE it

It isn't all wearisome routine. It isn't even wearisome if planned properly. There's adventure in it somewhere—this spring-cleaning.

HINT No. 1

Abolish for ever the cry of those who say there's never a good meal in spring cleaning time. Have plenty of food ready in advance.

Boil a piece of bacon with one teaspoonful of vinegar, two cloves and some nutmeg in the water. Peel and slice potatoes, cooking them in a casserole with milk and grated cheese. Make a large mixed fruit pie—pears, early rhubarb and a few South African plums. Sweeten with brown sugar and add some lemon and orange peel.

First day is outside day. Make the acquaintance of your roof. A loose slate or tile, defective lead-work or choked gutter may ruin all the cleaning you are about to do.

Look to outside pipes and gutters, flushing them all with strong disinfectant. Replace cracked and broken glass panes.

HINT No. 2

You can cut out defective glass panes yourself, without a glazier's knife, by rubbing the putty well with soft soap first.

Next day the rooms must be got ready. All hangings, etc., that cannot be dealt with at home, sent to the cleaners.

When taking up carpets look out for dry rot in the floor beneath. It is a disease and must be cut out.

Cover with a dust sheet all furniture that can't be moved.

Now begin on the cleaning. Ceilings first. Powdered whiting applied on a damp white cloth attached to a long brush freshens them.

Treat walls according to how they are painted. For washable paint, use a lather of curd soap and water on a clean flannel.

Wash painted woodwork, but

polish afterwards with a few drops of paraffin. A handful of dough stiff.

A soaped loofah will bring out finger prints from paint. Where moth is suspected in a room, scrub round the skirting with water to which a little chloride of lime has been added.

HINT No. 3

If "peeling" walls cannot be redistemped, dissolve ½ oz. of alum in 1 pint of water and apply with a soft brush.

Day after is "contents" day. All carpets, etc., should be carefully examined before cleaning, as sometimes too vigorous treatment makes holes.

Carpets can be freshened with a solution of one teaspoonful of ammonia to one quart of water. Rugs with a tendency to curl are improved by a piece of corrugated rubber sewn under each corner.

Coffee stains can be entirely removed from fabric—even after months—by rubbing in pure glycerine and leaving for half an hour before washing. Kitchen tables become like new if scrubbed with finely sifted sand. Don't forget the window blinds. Tain ones of linen or cotton can be renovated by smearing white of egg round the rent and pressing the edges in position.

Smear some more egg white over a piece of material similar to the blind, lay over the torn part and press with a hot iron.

HINT No. 4

A kneeling pad for scrubbing is necessary for your health and efficient work. See it is well padded and DRY.

Last day is that for reassembling your home again. DON'T put back things just as they were.

Try one new splash of colour in each room, be it new cushion cover, vase or lampshade.

Dark cupboards are brightened by lining with shiny pale coloured paper.

Give your brushes and brooms the care they deserve. Dip bristles in and out of hot soapy water till clean. Rinse in fresh water and then plunge into a bucket of cold water in which a handful of salt is dissolved.

HINT No. 5

Now it's YOU who need a real rest and beauty treatment. There's a new shampoo, the very thing for post-spring cleaning use. Its superfine foam removes every trace of dust.

Ever put a drop of peppermint essence in your bath water? It is refreshing and cleansing.

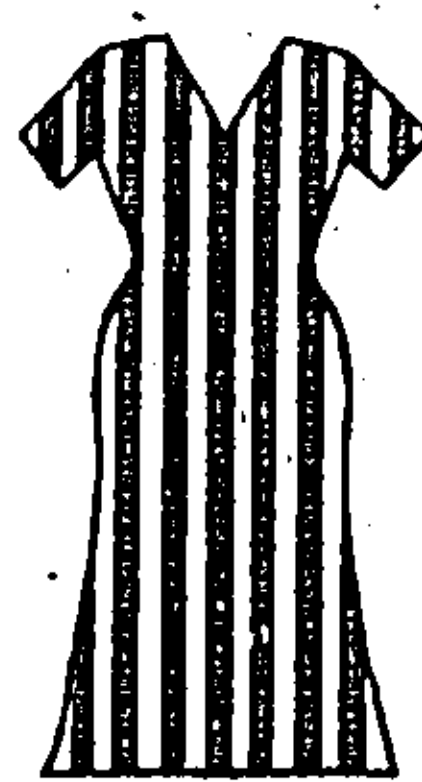

This demure swim suit of black fine whale plaque, coyly trimmed with bands of bow-knots of stocking pink linen, illustrates the mid-Victorian influence which dominates beaches according to styles introduced at the annual Miami Biltmore fashion show recently in New York.

Get The Right Angle On

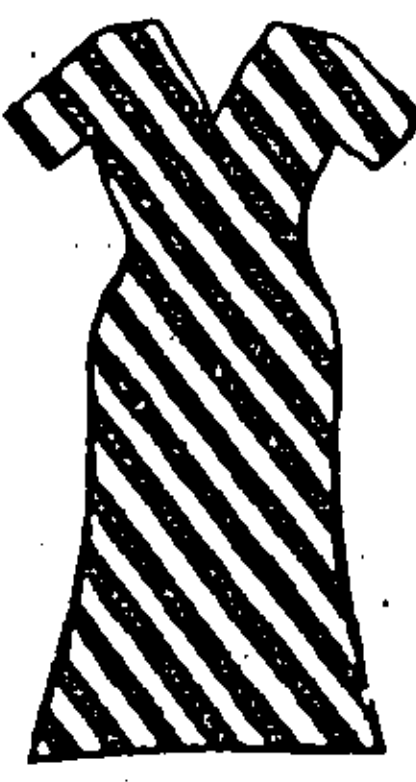

STRIPE

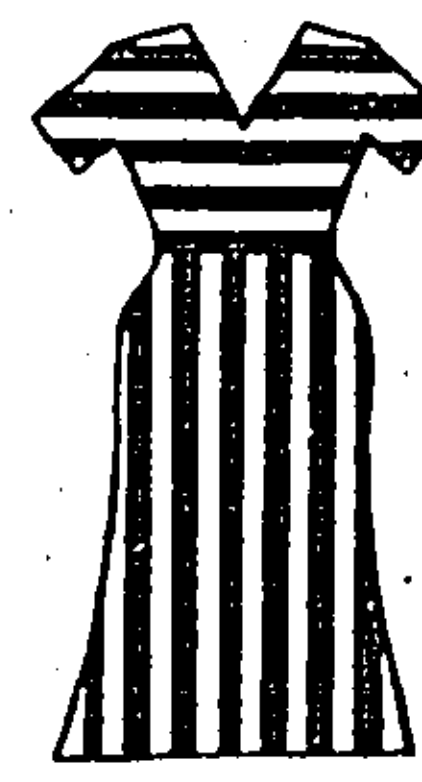

Horizontal stripes are smart, give breadth to a lanky figure. But don't think of them unless you're tall and thin.

Look what a difference vertical stripes make to the look of the same frock: nothing better for creating height and slenderness.

Diagonal stripes "cut" your height; wear them if you want to give roundness and curves to a bony figure.

Tee-stripes—horizontal on the bodice, vertical on the skirt—make shoulders look wider, hips slimmer.

Circular stripes—that's to say stripes which slant slightly upwards from the centre of a dress—are another means of rounding a too-slim figure.

Chevron stripes, running from a plain vertical panel down the centre, give grace and uplift to short, droopy figures.

IF you have any beauty problems, why not try Mrs. Beten's Beauty Salon which has a reputation of being the most reliable in the Colony.

BRITISH SHIPPING IN ORIENT NEEDS HELP
Far-reaching proposals to help British shipping in the Orient to meet the growing threat of foreign competition, particularly by Japan, are made in a report of the Imperial Shipping Committee. The inquiry was undertaken at the request of the Government, and the Committee began its survey two years ago.
Among the suggestions as to the form Government action might take are: Subsidies, reservation of carrying trades and the apportionment of carryings.
It is also proposed that there should be new ships, better co-operation of rival British shipping concerns, more devolution of management, more cargo consigned by British merchants in British ships and more even division of traffic between British and foreign ship-owners.
The importance of trade in the Orient is indicated by the fact that, in 1936, the gross earnings of the mercantile marine of the United Kingdom from carrying within the Orient and between the Orient and countries outside were approximately £33,000,000, or about a quarter of the total gross receipts from carriage of cargo and passengers all over the world.
SUBSIDISED LINES
In the trades with the Orient, both through Suez and round the Cape, British shipping maintains its long lead with between two-fifths and one-half of the tonnage of shipping and of the cargo and passengers carried. The remainder of the trade is mainly shared between half a dozen European countries.
Concerning the promotion of trade by the provision of shipping facilities, the Committee notes the increased competition of subsidised German and Italian lines in the Far East, and especially the China trade. By luxurious accommodation and superior speeds they attract much of the better-paying cargo and passenger traffic.
Reviewing the factors affecting competition, the report declares that Japanese shipping and most of the other principal competitors of British liner shipping in the Orient receive subsidies, whether for operating or building, or both, on a fairly substantial scale and the German and Italian, and particularly the Japanese, subsidies have enabled their mercantile marines to be modernised with fast and efficient vessels. The German and Italian lines are State controlled. The tendency is for subsidies to grow.
Apart from subsidies, the cumulative effect of currency depreciation and of the different standard of living makes it possible for Japanese vessels to be operated at a cost which in 1936 was perhaps of the order of 10 to 15 per cent. below the cost of operating comparable British vessels.
HOW JAPANESE COMPETE
The major part of Japanese ocean-going shipping and also of Japanese overseas trade is under the financial control of a few great houses which have interests in banking, merchanting and manufacturing, and in ship-building yards and other firms and industries ancillary to shipping. As a result it is possible to bring powerful financial and commercial support to the aid of the Japanese ship-owners in competition with the foreigners.
It is this which gives to her merchants the power of routing cargo, bought in foreign markets for import into Japan, by Japanese ships. It is this also, in its financial aspect, which places such strength behind the Japanese shipping companies that competitors have rarely ventured to challenge a rate war in defence either of freight rates or apportionment of sailings.
In contrast to such concentration of strength, there is on the British side an absence of concentration, evident not merely in the number of the Governments which rule the

The importance of trade in the Orient is indicated by the fact that, in 1936, the gross earnings of the mercantile marine of the United Kingdom from carrying within the Orient and between the Orient and countries outside were approximately £33,000,000, or about a quarter of the total gross receipts from carriage of cargo and passengers all over the world.

SUBSIDISED LINES
In the trades with the Orient, both through Suez and round the Cape, British shipping maintains its long lead with between two-fifths and one-half of the tonnage of shipping and of the cargo and passengers carried. The remainder of the trade is mainly shared between half a dozen European countries.

Concerning the promotion of trade by the provision of shipping facilities, the Committee notes the increased competition of subsidised German and Italian lines in the Far East, and especially the China trade. By luxurious accommodation and superior speeds they attract much of the better-paying cargo and passenger traffic.

Reviewing the factors affecting competition, the report declares that Japanese shipping and most of the other principal competitors of British liner shipping in the Orient receive subsidies, whether for operating or building, or both, on a fairly substantial scale and the German and Italian, and particularly the Japanese, subsidies have enabled their mercantile marines to be modernised with fast and efficient vessels. The German and Italian lines are State controlled. The tendency is for subsidies to grow.

Apart from subsidies, the cumulative effect of currency depreciation and of the different standard of living makes it possible for Japanese vessels to be operated at a cost which in 1936 was perhaps of the order of 10 to 15 per cent. below the cost of operating comparable British vessels.

HOW JAPANESE COMPETE
The major part of Japanese ocean-going shipping and also of Japanese overseas trade is under the financial control of a few great houses which have interests in banking, merchanting and manufacturing, and in ship-building yards and other firms and industries ancillary to shipping. As a result it is possible to bring powerful financial and commercial support to the aid of the Japanese ship-owners in competition with the foreigners.

It is this which gives to her merchants the power of routing cargo, bought in foreign markets for import into Japan, by Japanese ships. It is this also, in its financial aspect, which places such strength behind the Japanese shipping companies that competitors have rarely ventured to challenge a rate war in defence either of freight rates or apportionment of sailings.

In contrast to such concentration of strength, there is on the British side an absence of concentration, evident not merely in the number of the Governments which rule the speed of their schedule, the rates charged and sometimes in the service forthcoming.

On devolution of management, it is stated, "Japanese shipping is managed in and from Japan and competing British shipping is managed directly or indirectly from the distant British Isles; and it would appear necessary for United Kingdom shipowners to establish a greater devolution than is at present the case."

"If the facts presented in this report lead the Governments to the conclusion that an effort should be made to support British shipping in the Orient," it says, "we believe that consideration should be given to the practicability of financial assistance to the shipping companies for the modernisation of their fleets as a part of the solution of their difficulties."

"But this might prove unavailing unless steps could simultaneously be taken, with the co-operation of the merchant and banking interests concerned, to ensure that a fair and reasonable share of the carrying trade between the various parts of the Empire and Japan is allotted to the mercantile marine of the Empire. "If the shipping of the British Commonwealth is to hold its own in competition with the Japanese it may be necessary to develop some new form of organisation appointed by the Governments concerned and specially charged to watch over British shipping in Middle and Far Eastern waters."

The Chairman of the Committee was Sir Halford J. Mackinder and other members signing the report are: Sir Frederick Leith-Ross (Chief Economic Adviser to the Government), Mr. W. L. Hitchens (ship-builder), Sir Kenneth Lee (Manufacturer), Dr. D. T. Lewis (merchant), Mr. Robertson F. Gibb (ship-owner), Mr. T. Harrison Hughes (shipowner) and Lt.-Col. Sir Francis C. Sheldermine (civil aviation).

Britain's New Measures For Preparedness

THE TERRITORIAL ARMY STRENGTH TO BE DOUBLED

Rebuff For Eden, Co.

LONDON, Mar. 29.
IN REPLY to the motion of the Eden-Churchill-Duff Cooper group in the House of Commons that the British Cabinet be expanded, 150 Conservative Members have backed a counter motion to-day, pledging the Prime Minister complete confidence, and opposing any attempt to undermine this confidence at the present critical period. — Trans-Ocean.

Czech Soldiers Discharged

Prague, Mar. 29.
The 1937 class will be discharged from the Czech army on Friday. Soldiers who have not yet found a job in civil life, will, however, be allowed to remain voluntarily with the colours. — Trans-Ocean.

China Loan Bill Passed By Lords

London, Mar. 29.
The House of Lords to-day gave the third reading to the Chinese Currency Stabilisation Bill, which has now passed through all its stages, and requires only the Royal assent. — Reuter.

Aggressors Condemned

LONDON, Mar. 29.
THE FOLLOWING resolution was adopted in the House of Commons to-day:
"This House is of the opinion that the successive acts of aggression in Europe and the increasing pressure on small States can only be successfully met by the vigorous prosecution of the foreign policy recently outlined by the Foreign Secretary."

"It is further of the opinion that for this task the National Government should be entrusted with full powers over the nation's industry, wealth, and power to enable this country to put forward its maximum military effort in the shortest possible time." — United Press.

No More Trust In League

LONDON, Mar. 29.
THE BRITISH Government does not favour the calling of a meeting of the League Council to consider the International situation, and it prefers at the present time to conduct consultations upon issues arising from recent events, through the ordinary diplomatic channels, rather than to see a conference of certain States for the discussion of possibilities of common action as proposed by the Soviet Government.

These points emerged in a number of House of Commons answers to-day by the Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, and the Prime Minister, when asked by Mr. Boothby to give favourable consideration to the proposal for summoning immediately a conference of Powers, whose interests lie in the preservation of peace in Eastern Europe, and for an assurance that the object of the diplomatic negotiations the Government was now conducting, was not

VISIT OF COL. BECK THE NEXT IMPORTANT STEP

LONDON, Mar. 29.
THE TWO OUTSTANDING events to-day, writes a diplomatic observer, are Mr. Neville Chamberlain's announcement of the increasing of the territorial army to 340,000 men, and M. Daladier's broadcast, refusing to surrender an inch of territory, or a single French right, but expressing willingness to examine any proposal made by Italy.

By increasing the territorial army, Britain will have 26 territorial divisions, besides six regular divisions for service overseas, thus having a powerful force for intervention in Europe if necessary.

Recruiting authorities are confident that sufficient men will volunteer. It is understood that there are numerous regular officers available for command posts, besides many thousands of time-expired soldiers as non-commissioned officers.

M. Daladier's speech is welcomed in British political circles as conciliatory, but uncompromising, essentials. His speech, coupled with that of Signor Mussolini's last Sunday is interpreted as justifying hopes for a settlement of Italian wishes, provided they are not excessive.

The next important move in European politics is the arrival of Colonel Beck, the Polish Foreign Minister next week in Britain. The Germans have already fired heavy propaganda from his visit. It is remarkable that many articles in this campaign have been presented only to foreign correspondents in Berlin, but not circulated in the German press.

Poland is apparently prepared to answer the German campaign in kind. Extracts from to-day's Polish press show that both the Government and Opposition papers present a solid front to the German attack, stressing that while Poland's policy is unchanged, Germany has abandoned pan-Germanism, and adopted a policy of European imperialism, which inevitably had an unfavourable reaction in Poland. — Reuter.

Yugo-Slav, Reich Trade Talks

Berlin, Mar. 29.
It is understood that economic talks between Germany and Yugo-Slavia have been provisionally fixed for the end of the April.

From Yugo-Slav sources it is learned that a permanent joint trade commission which deals with commerce between the two countries is meeting in Berlin in about a month's time at the request of Yugo-Slavia. — Reuter Special.

GERMANY AND YUGO-SLAVIA

Berlin, Mar. 29.
It is reliably reported that a Yugo-Slav trade delegation will leave for Berlin this week to discuss methods of stimulating trade between Germany and Yugo-Slavia. It is reported that Prince Paul, 1st Regent of Yugo-Slavia, intends going to Munich next week on a private visit. — United Press.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 29.—President Roosevelt has left the White House for a ten days' visit to Warm Springs. — Reuter Special.

merely a joint declaration on the part of Powers interested in the maintenance of peace, but the conclusion of a definite pact of mutual defence against aggression, confined himself to referring the House to a statement he made at question time yesterday. He added, in a supplementary reply, that the Government was in touch with the Government of the Soviet Union. — British Wireless.

No Woman ever liked a man to be BALD!

SCIENCE DEFEATS FALLING HAIR — READ AMAZING DISCOVERY!

Dr. Weidner, brilliant scientific worker, has isolated the fourteen elements which feed the hair and combined them in a stable solution called Silvikrin, the natural Hair Food. Above all, he has discovered a new way of preparing Tryptophane, that precious vital substance indispensable for life and growth of the hair.

The Amazing Result

— SILVIKRIN! Natural, because it supplies the roots of the hair with all the life-giving elements they formerly obtained from the blood stream itself. Nine times out of ten, those roots are not dead but merely "stuffed" by dry scalp and dandruff. Silvikrin brings them the food they need.

Why Hair Falls Out

Hair needs feeding. If the scalp is healthy and the hair roots function normally, the food is obtained from the blood stream. But when the system conceals or decreases the supply of this nourishment to the hair-forming tissue, then the hair is starved and falls out. Dandruff is the first sign of this approaching disaster.

No 'ifs' or 'buts' — a certainty!

The scourge of dandruff is banished and dull brittle hair is replaced by a fresh growth of rich, healthy hair! Your bald patches WILL be covered, your appearance WILL be transformed into one of youthful fitness and energy. Doctors prove it—thousands write to say they have done it — why shouldn't YOU?

The black "Silvikrin" roots can come right out—the real test of a growth undergrowth. It is safe as a Silvikrin food.

WHAT YOU NEED!

For dandruff—hair beginning to fall. To keep the scalp healthy, strengthen the hair and bring out its natural beauty. Ask for Silvikrin Lotion.

For severe dandruff, serious falling hair, bald patches. To restore new hair-growth use the concentrated natural organic Hair Food. Ask for Pure Silvikrin.

Made in England

Obtainable from all Chemists and Hairdressers.

PLANES FOR CHINA

HARTFORD, CONNT., Mar. 29.
IT HAS been learned that negotiations have been completed with the Chinese National Government for a U.S.$15,000,000 credit in the United States for the purchase of engines from the Pratt-Whitney division of United Aircraft Corporation.

It cannot be verified whether this entire amount would be spent with one manufacturer.

It has also been learned from reliable sources that France has ordered 1,000 engines from Pratt-Whitney during the past six weeks at a cost of approximately $14,000,000, and that France holds the option to purchase 200 more at a cost of $3,000,000.

Private Deal
The Counselor to the Chinese Embassy, Mr. Chin Lok-chen, said he had no knowledge of the reported $15,000,000 credit to China. United States business sources said if such arrangement has been completed it will be an entirely private contract and that no Government contracts will be involved. Two very reliable sources expressed the belief that the report is true, but that it most probably has been arranged in China.—United Press.

PROCLAMATION ENDS CIVIL WAR PEACE IN SPAIN FOLLOWS 996 DAYS OF WAR

SPAIN'S THOUSAND-DAY CIVIL WAR HAS ENDED.

A "United Press" message states that an official announcement was broadcast from Burgos at 2.20 p.m. (10.20 p.m. H.K.T.) yesterday, proclaiming the surrender of the Republican areas and the termination of the Civil War.

General Franco is expected to stage a triumphant entry into Valencia to-day.

996 DAYS OF FIGHTING

Thus the war ends 996 days after its commencement, the longest and most bitter conflict the world has known in a quarter of a century.

At many stages, the struggle threatened to embroil the whole of Europe.

Republican Spain crumbled as the Nationalists took over every large city and the war was officially proclaimed as having ended.

996th DAY

The Spanish Civil War started on July 18, 1936—996 days ago.

The revolt broke out in military garrisons in Spanish Morocco and spread rapidly throughout Spain, with serious fighting between Government and rebel troops.

The revolt was of an openly monarchist nature, the insurgent leader being General Franco, formerly Governor of the Canary Islands, from which the Canary Islands.

Valencia fell 24 hours after Madrid. In rapid succession, the Nationalist Phalangists took over the key towns of Cuidadreal, Cuenca, Murcia, Almeria, Guadalajara, Jaen, Alicante, the Albeceite naval base and Cartagena.

MADRID NOW CAPITAL

The Burgos official radio stated that the Spanish capital will now be moved to Madrid.

It is believed that thousands of popular front leaders, including General Miaja may be trapped in Gandia.

Valencia and the other cities were taken without resistance.

General Besteiro and several other Republican leaders are at present confined in the Ministry of Finance but are not "arrested."

Peaceful Surrender

Madrid, Mar. 29.
The town and province of Albacete surrendered to General Franco's forces to-day according to reports received this afternoon. The administration was provisionally taken over by local Falangists.

The surrender of the Republican southern army to General Franco, says a Burgos message, which means the termination of the civil war, was announced by radio to-day.

Nationalist troops are now systematically occupying towns in the southern Spanish provinces without encountering resistance. The majority of the Republican soldiers have gone over to General Franco's side, while the rest are in flight.

Another Madrid report says that following the surrender of Valencia, Colonel Casado until recently a member of the Madrid Defence Council, deposed the Mayor of Valencia, Senor Molino Conjero, and the military commander, General Aranguren.

They were replaced by the former Under-Secretary of State in the Madrid Defence Council, Senor Sanchez Erazuena, and Senor Carrero.

FRANCO CHEERED

Large crowds with red-coloured and Falangist flags are parading through the streets cheering General Franco. Ships in Valencia harbour have hoisted Nationalist flags.

Alicante has surrendered to the Nationalists, according to a broadcast from the harbour town received in Burgos.

Advance guards of General Franco's army reached the outskirts of Valencia this afternoon and were joyously received, meeting with no resistance. The first columns entered Valencia with bands playing, and they were enthusiastically acclaimed. The strong air force garrisoned in the city has placed itself at the disposal of General Franco.

SAGUNTO OCCUPIED

A Madrid message says that the city of Sagunto was occupied by Nationalists this afternoon. Reports were received in Madrid that the famous monastery Escorial had been plundered by the Republicans.

THE SEA DRAGON

Fears For Sea Dragon

Trans-Pacific Junk Radio Silent

Fears are entertained for the safety of the crew of twelve in the Hongkong trans-Pacific junk Sea Dragon.

A "United Press" message from San Francisco states that all radio communication with the junk has ceased since 3 p.m. last Friday.

Previously, the junk communicated three daily with the San Francisco radio station of the Mackay Radio Corporation. On Friday last Captain John Welch reported that the vessel was midway between Hongkong and San Francisco.

Aboard the vessel are Mr. Richard Halliburton, the famous travel author, Captain John Welch, skipper, Henry von Fehren, R. Davis, Gordon Patrick, radio operator, Paul Mooney, George Bastow, Robert Chase, Patrick Kelly, James Sligh and A. D. Flagg.

Famous paintings, including those by Zurbaran and Velasquez had been removed from the main hall and partially destroyed, while several of the royal sepulchres were said to have been broken open.

The Republican Ambassador in Washington, says a Burgos message, has evacuated the Spanish Embassy and turned the keys over to the Department of State. Political circles regard this act as an indication that the Nationalist Government will be recognised in the near future by the United States Government.—Trans-Ocean.

JUNTA DETAINED

London, Mar. 29.
The Spanish civil war ended to-day for all practical purposes, with the surrender to General Franco's supporters of all important towns remaining in Republican hands.

General Franco's forces entered Valencia this evening, several hours after General Casado, War Commissioner in the Republican Junta had himself announced the city's submission over the radio.

All members of the Junta, except General Miaja and General Casado were detained in Valencia, according to "Reuters" Burgos correspondent.

General Miaja was among the passengers in 23 Republican planes which arrived at Oran, but there was no news of General Casado.

The news of the submission of other Republican cities, came in (Continued on Page 10.)

STOCKS: The Columbia Carbon Company's first-quarter earnings are estimated at 15 per cent. over the corresponding period of 1938. The Carrier Corporation's 1938 earnings show a loss of $1,000,000. The Electric Bond and Share Company's 1938 earnings amounted to 18 cents per share.

Air conditioning business for 1939 is estimated at 25 per cent. over 1938.

The week's electric output was 11.3 per cent. above the corresponding period of last year.

The National Gypsum Company's January and February profit was $50,000, against $5,800 during the same months last year. The Norfolk & Western Railway Company's March gross income was up by 22 per cent. The gain in carloadings is above seasonal.

The Chilean Senate has approved a 10 per cent. tax on mining profits.

COTTON: President Roosevelt's statement supporting the United States cotton exports subsidy proposals has depressed Liverpool and Alexandria and has caused a decline in near options in New York. Distants are firm.

RUBBER: American March rubber consumption is estimated to be the largest since June, 1927.

FORGED CABLES FROM JAPANESE OFFICE ALLEGED

Dramatic Turn In Insurance Claim

WITNESS WARNED BY CHIEF JUSTICE

ALLEGATIONS THAT FORGED cables were sent from the Japanese office of Mackinnon Mackenzie and Company were made at the Supreme Court to-day when the insurance test case between the China Underwriters, Ltd. and the Cheong Shing Hong was resumed before the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor.

The witness was Wong Yun Tong, proprietor of the Cheong Shing Hong and a director of the Bank of East Asia. The case concerns a claim brought by the firm against the insurance company for $30,906.23.

Plaintiffs are claiming this sum as the rateable proportion to be borne by defendants in the loss of marine products and seafoods, lost in a fire in plaintiff's godowns in January, 1938.

The defence is that 127 of the 137 items claimed are fraudulent, and benefit under the policy are therefore forfeited. It is further alleged that the prices of some of the goods had been charged higher than the market price, and that weight and price book had been altered.

Mr. Eldon Potter, K.C., and Mr. H. C. Machinara appear for the plaintiff firm on the instructions of Mr. E. Davidson, of Hastings, and Co. Defendants are represented by the Hon. Mr. Leo D'Almada, Jnr., and Mr. D. J. N. Anderson, instructed by Mr. O. E. C. Marton, of Deacons.

The case opened on January 30, and there have been 17 hearings of about four hours each, four Counsel, two solicitors, and experts and clerks, being engaged.

WITNESS WARNED

At to-day's hearing the Chief Justice three times warned Wong Yun Tong when he was giving evidence.

"I am not going to give you much more rope, you are treating the whole thing as a joke," warned the Judge.

The allegations of the forged cables were made by Mr. D'Almada when questioning the bank director regarding the advice notices on the sailing of the Tlawa from Japan in September, 1937.

Witness admitted that a letter sent from his office by a clerk Au Tai Chai in Hongkong asked for the date of the Tlawa's sailing.

After close questioning, he admitted the letter contained further information in connection with other goods. Later he had received a reply from Mackinnon Mackenzie in Japan with regard to the sailing date.

At this point Mr. D'Almada closed the line of questioning and announced ed to the court that this morning, he had received a cable from the Japanese office of Mackinnon Mackenzie which stated that the cable had not been authorised by them.

"All cables from Japan are censored," said the witness.

"I suggest to you that this cable was sent under a 'borrowed name' and was a mis-statement of fact."

"I think the cable was sent by a Chinese member of the staff."

"Would a Chinese member of the staff be able to send such a cable without the permission of the manager?"

"We always dealt with the Chinese department."

"MY PATIENCE EXHAUSTED"

At this stage the Chief Justice interrupted and said: "My patience is exhausted. I insist upon the witness giving an answer to the questions."

Mr. D'Almada then pressed the question of the alleged forgery of the cable, and after lengthy re-statement of the question, the witness said, "I will never say this cable was a forgery. This cable came from Japan."

Counsel then asked witness if he was suggesting that a clerk in the current accounts department of the Bank of East Asia could send a cable without the manager's authority.

"No."

"If he did do that, would not the clerk be committing forgery by borrowing the name of the bank?—Yes."

"Similarly would not a clerk in Mackinnon Mackenzie in Kobe who sends a cable without his manager's authority commit forgery?"

"COULD SEE NO PARALLEL"

Witness said he could not see any parallel in the two cases.

After Mr. D'Almada had finished his examination, Mr. Eldon Potter, K.C., said he wished to apply for an adjournment so that he could get urgent inquiries made regarding the new evidence.

"While I agree urgent enquiries are called for," said the Chief Justice, "owing to the holidays I would prefer not to make an adjournment."

It was decided not to proceed with further questioning on the cable allegations until Monday, during which time Mr. Potter could complete his enquiries.

Captured Thief During Tiffin Time

European's 500 Yards Chase

Mr. L. F. Leon of Austin Avenue, Kowloon, spent the greater part of his tiffin hour yesterday in bringing a thief to justice. Mr. Leon was having his lunch at home when he heard a commotion in the garden.

On looking out of a window, he saw a man walking away with a set of motorcar tools. Leaving the house immediately, Mr. Leon chased the man, and after following him for 500 yards finally detected him hiding in some bushes close to St. Mary's School.

The man, Wong Fu, 37, was arrested, and was this morning taken before Mr. E. Himsforth at the Kowloon Magistracy charged with larceny of tools from Mr. Leon's car, and an alternative charge of receiving stolen property.

Wong was sentenced to three months' hard labour. Sub-inspector Johnson said that Wong had a previous conviction for a similar offence.

TWO CONSULS RETURN Japan's Representatives In South China

Both the Japanese Consul-General in Hongkong, Mr. A. Tajiri, and the Japanese Consul in Canton, Mr. T. Matsudaira, returned from Japan by the Kamakura Maru yesterday. Mr. E. Iwai, Vice-Consul in Hongkong, was also a passenger. Mr. Matsudaira will go to Macao to-day. He is accompanied by his wife and daughter.

Mr. Tajiri, who was in Japan on official business for two months, did not make any statement yesterday, beyond saying that he was pleased to resume his duties in Hongkong.

SEQUEL TO FATAL ACCIDENT

European In Court: Question Of Compensation

SEQUEL TO A FATAL motor accident in King's Road, North Point, on March 25, was the appearance of R. M. Keown, of the Taikoo Dockyard, before Mr. R. A. D. Forrest at the Central Magistracy this morning; summoned for driving a car without due care and caution, and driving in a position as not to have full control over the vehicle.

The defendant, who said he was leaving the Colony for England on Saturday, was given permission by his Worship to do so, providing that he deputed a friend to appear in Court in his place, and to pay whatever compensation his Worship thought was reasonable. The defendant undertook to do this.

The case was accordingly adjourned until Saturday for enquiries to be made regarding the deceased's family.

In wiping the rain away, Keown momentarily lost his vision of the road, and the car veered slightly to the left. His speed at the time was reasonable, but the veer caused the car to run into a cooie who was walking by the side of the road.

When Keown took his hand away from the wind-screen, he found the cooie close to his left front mud-guard. He threw the car to the right violently in an attempt to avoid him, at the same time applying his brakes.

The cooie, however, was swung around the side of the car and hit his head against a door handle, which pierced his skull and killed him.

The police continued Sub-inspector Clarke said that the view that for Clarke did not hold the view that defendant had been reckless in his driving, and were not taking a serious view of the case, as it was one of those unfortunate accidents which could have happened to anyone.

COMPENSATION QUESTION

Mr. Forrest enquired as to whether any claim had been made by the deceased's relatives for compensation.

Sub-inspector Clarke replied that an uncle of the dead man had asked for $100, and Keown was very willing to pay the money, but the police did not think that he should pay the money to the uncle. The police thought it would be better if defendant paid the sum into Court to be handed to the deceased's wife when she came back from the country.

Sub-inspector Clarke further explained that the cooie was walking about three feet from the side of the road at the time of the accident, as he could not walk on the pavement, which was being repaired. He knew the deceased had a wife, and he thought, one or two children, but he was not certain.

European Prosecutes Houseboy

Thefts Are Alleged

Before Mr. T. J. Houston at the Central Magistracy this morning, Li Chuen, 24, a house-boy employed by Mr. D. W. Hume, of "Woodside," Mount Parker Road, Quarry Bay, was charged on two counts of theft.

He was accused of stealing $10 from his master on March 28, and $1 from his master on March 29. He pleaded guilty to both charges.

Lance-Sergeant T. Pilkington said that the defendant was employed at wages of $15 per month, and on March 28, Mr. Hume left ten $1 notes on a dressing table. The next morning, he discovered the money gone, as well as another $1 note. He reported the matter to the police.

The defendant was suspected, and when searched, seven of the notes, the numbers of which were known to Mr. Hume, were found in his possession.

The defendant was remanded until to-morrow to ascertain if he could find $4 as compensation to his employer.

POLE FINALLY GETS FLAG

Police have found finally an expert flagpole-climber to place a flag at the top of their 2-year-old, 92-foot "flagless flagpole."

Edgar Ellis, who repairs the school board's flagpoles, agreed to equip the police pole with pulley and rope, paint it, and attach a flag to its top.

Two Chinese Eat Meal Then Die

THE DEATH of two Chinese after eating a meal, which included a fish known by the Chinese name of kai po yu occurred in Kowloon yesterday.

The fish, it was learned, was given to a 51-year-old married woman, Leung Sam, who resides in Canton Road, by a friend. She cooked it, and ate a meal with another woman, Kwok Mui, 22, a girl, Kwok Sai-mui, 12, and a man, Kwok Shiu-fook, 20.

Afterwards, Leung Sam and Kwok Mui became violently ill, as did the other two, though not to the same degree. All were removed to the Kowloon Wah Hospital, but Leung Sam died before admission. Kwok Mui died in hospital, and the other two are under treatment.

Prison For Chinese Gunner

A Chinese gunner of the 8th Heavy Battery, Royal Artillery, was sentenced to two months' hard labour when found guilty of breaking into the Boy Scouts Headquarters in Lower Albert Road on Friday and stealing a table electric fan.

The case was heard before Mr. R. Edwards at the Central Magistracy this morning.

Defendant, Tam Fuk, was arrested by a watchman when leaving the premises, and when questioned, claimed that he was a boy scout.

At a previous hearing Tam said that he had no intention of stealing the fan, but had taken it to get a person named Wong Tung-hoi into trouble, as he had been passing remarks about him joining the service.

He also told a story about a fountain pen being stolen from a scoutmaster of the 13th Troop, Hongkong, by Wong.

Evidence was given this morning by Wong Yat-hung, scoutmaster of the 13th Troop, who said he had mentioned the loss of his pen to Tam, but he did not believe that it had been taken by Wong Tung-hoi.

He had also heard that defendant had previously been employed as a messenger at the Boy Scouts Association.

European's Car Stolen

A car, owned by Mr. B. O'M. Deane, of Watson's Apartments, North Point, which was parked in Connaught Road Central, was reported stolen by the owner yesterday.

PRISON SUPERINTENDENT CRITICISES SYSTEM

dearly confined in a separate Re-mand Block and not associating with others, had to be confined at times three to the cell.

It is disclosed that Government has decided to re-open a small part of the old Victoria Gaol.

RECIDIVISM

Recidivism—prisoners who are incarcerated more than once—is on the increase, and is presenting a serious problem.

"While there can be little doubt that the economic situation due to the large influx of refugees from South China is partly responsible it cannot be denied that the classification of prisoners which has been practised and which fails to segregate first offenders from previous offenders must have the effect of increasing recidivism through contamination in prison."

COST $276 EACH

The Report discloses that the total cost of each prisoner per annum averaged $276.10.

The cost of feeding each prisoner was $95.60 per annum.

The Medical Officer's report disclosed that there were 73 deaths in prison. On admission to Hospital, 1,538 were placed untasked in cell and 2,497 were placed on half-labour.

"These figures are an indication of the condition in which many of these men arrive in prison, and show the need for some form of place of intermediate other than prison," the Report adds.

Ten prisoners were released on medical grounds, suffering from leprosy. One of these cases proved to be an inveterate house-breaker and was kept in prison under isolation.

"It should be noted that there is no real leprosiarium in Hongkong," the Report adds.

1,500 EXCESS

"The number of prisoners in the Gaol being nearly 1,500 in excess of what it was built for means the breaking of all Public Health measures, inasmuch as many cells have three men to one cell."

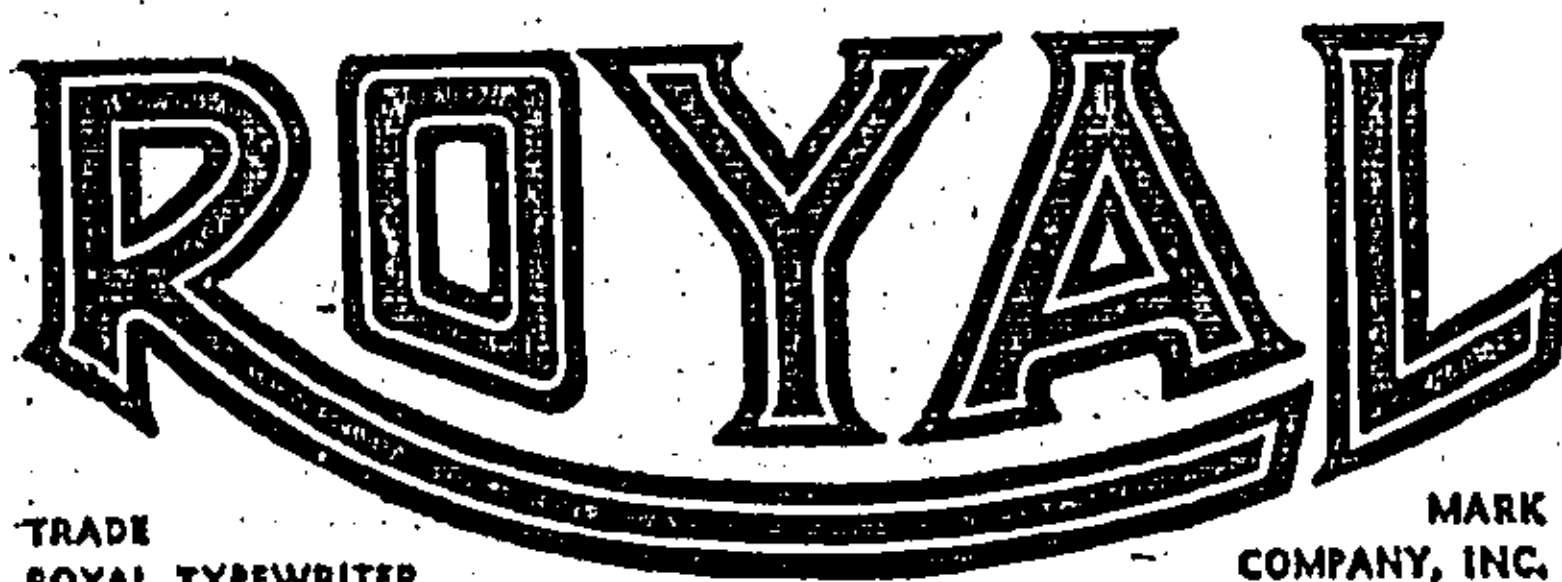

The Superintendent's report concludes: "From a financial point of view alone, failure to check a steady increase in recidivism must, in the long run, become more expensive than the methods employed to combat it, provided of course that these methods prove successful."

"Only in a very few cases and with a wide stretch of the imagination can the Hongkong Prison at Stanley be considered at present to fulfil its proper function."

Magistrate Is Robbed

Mr. R. Edwards, the Kowloon police magistrate, was the victim of petty thieving yesterday.

He has reported to the police that clothing valued at $25 was stolen from his car which was parked at the time in Barker Road.

How Long?

A DISTRACTED Chinese
mother found guilty of killing her eighteen-months-old daughter, has been pardoned
after being sentenced to imprisonment for the term of her
natural life with all the horrid
paraphernalia of the law.

The Chief Justice was as kind
as he could be. But, as was pointed out by the Crown
Counsel, it was mandatory under the law to sentence the
mother to life imprisonment if
not to death.

"There is only one sentence
which I can pass upon you
according to the law which I
have to administer, and that is
that you be confined to prison
with such labour as you are fit
to perform (the girl-mother is about to give birth to another
child) for the term of your natural life.

"I think you may rest assured
that the sentence which you will eventually have to undergo will
be considerably less than the one which I have formally passed upon you."

But though he expressed himself in the terms of the greatest sympathy, and the Jury added
to its verdict a strong recommendation for mercy, the Chief Justice had to go through with a sentence which no one expected to be carried out.

Why should this cruel procedure continue? In such cases
the judge could, and should, be empowered to suspend sentence
until after consultation with His Excellency the Governor or
the Colonial Secretary. Meanwhile, give thanks for a merciful and humane Governor.

Tolerance

WE need tolerance to-day. Tolerance means understanding the point of view of your neighbour.

If you can do this, you will not persecute Jews. You will not attack the Church of England or criticise Methodists. You will learn to respect another man's opinion
while still believing in your own.

And be sure that in training
yourself to be tolerant you do not sacrifice your own beliefs. Don't be so open-minded that you never
make up your mind about anything.
That kind of mind is so broad that
it is only shallow.

HE STANDS among his geraniums, gazing
steadily through the rain-
obscured panes of the old
bay-window of the cottage
parlour.

Elderly, grizzled and stoutly built. Already he has donned oilskins and sou'wester; his great knee-
boots wait upon the hearth.

"There she goes, Mother!"
A blazing rocket rears its
fiery appeal across the darkness of the raging bay.

"Mother"
helps him on
with his boots,
nor does she misunderstand the hasty, perfunctory kiss of
his leave-taking.

Again a gleaming rocket
snakes aloft as Bunton clumps
along the cobbled garden path
and hurries down the cliff walk
to the beach below.

The remainder of the lifeboat's
crew is already assembled, including Bunton's married son
and, in raging storm and smash-
ing waves, the little band cheerfully and almost silently, risk
life to save life.

George Bunton had no love for
the sea, despite his forebears,
and he could not remember his grandfather.

But the sea, with the calm
aloofness of disinterested nature
safely bore him some thousands
of miles in comfort.

One dark, foreboding, tem-
pestuous September afternoon
the typhoon struck the island.
In a lofty, palm-besprinkled,
above the city stood a little band
of watchers.

Two naval men fix keen, grey,
understanding eyes upon the
wicked seascape.

Not one word do they speak
as, hands in pockets, they stand
immobile. George, too, is there.
His eye is cheerful and his tongue is sly as he looks upon the torment of four sweating, all-but-naked men who,
upon a madly drifting junk
exert every ounce of waning
strength in furious but vain
endeavour to best the smashing
force of elemental malignity.

MIRIAM SAT, silent, wonder-
ing and patient, eyes fixed
upon the beauties of the island
which she is approaching, and in which she will be accorded but a cold and grudging welcome, even
for the few hours she will be permitted to remain.

A lovely Jewish girl of about fifteen years. The perfect oval
of the olive-complexioned face,
the slightly curling dusky hair,
the air of shy enquiry, the slim
youth of her lithe and graceful
form, present a picture too
seldom seen in such latitudes.

She is surprisingly—and perhaps ominously—dressed in something suspiciously akin to
the Teutonic student's uniform;
blue reefer and peaked cap; only
the knee-length skirt seems to
be her own.

The cap, jauntily and askew
sitting atop her head, might
have a distinctly ludicrous air
but for the fact that the whole
ensemble presents so lovely a picture.

The stout, untidy parents—
they too, silent and anxious—
give no hint of the beauty which they have somehow contrived to create.

BUS-CONDUCTORS, as engine-drivers, have their services taken for granted.

How many of his passengers
could recognise the face of the man who "conducts" them regularly every morning?

We blindly shove at him our
ten-cent piece, grab our ticket.
Only when the poor harassed
individual overshoots the mark
do we look into his face, and
then in furious expostulation,
unmindful of the fact that it is
humanly impossible to see
through the opaque bodies
which through the vehicle and obstruct his view.

He must watch the stops,
collect the money (carefully
avoiding "duds," or he will be molested, give change, punch
and deliver tickets, pull the bell-
strap, fill in returns, assist the
heavily-laden, and mentally note
the destination of each passenger—all simultaneously, so it seems.

How will he face the double-
decker?

My New Year resolution was
to treat him as a human being.
He cannot possibly have any
such conception of us.

ALTHOUGH another New Year has long since passed away, a salvo of crackers rudily splits the morning air, such being, among other ceremonies,
a herald of the inauguration of
a new rice-shop.

Streaming scarlet banners
bearing, it is presumed, suitable encomiums of the wares to be supplied, gaily dress the premises.

MIXED GRILL

Folk, in their best clean behind her, sleepy little eyes cottons, are eager to see the new adventure well upon its feet, and the master, retound and self-contained, sits at the seat of the whippers caused by a passing dog. They await the pleasure of the feasting guests incognisant of the very smallest incident affecting his new venture.

In the dusky
background
tower great stacks of bags
of rice, and in
the forefront great baskets are piled high with every variety of the nation's stand-by.

Paddy, the so-called and ignorantly despised "red," innumerable qualities of the inlustrous polished grain.

Night falls and the master
gives a dinner in honour of the new departure.

Folds, clankfolk, valued customers cheerily and noisily fall
to. Nor is there false shame
or undue modesty about the feast, which is visible to all who wish.

But in the bitter wind outside
another party waits. Perhaps
a dozen, mostly youngish
mothers, clad in thin black cotton, Canton-capped, figures
bent to the weight of baby.

Tiny children cling to mother's skirts or shelter from the cold

shining eyes they take their doles—rice, scraps of chicken
and of duck, vegetable.

The sleepy children rouse and
sniff and push towards the front,
sharing in the joy for the simple
blessings of the night.

Nobody eats, but they hurry
off, now happily chattering, to share the feast with other members of the brood.

HE MUST have been extremely
hungry.

The prey upon which he pounced was far bulkier than
he, always excepting his powerful spread of wing. And his exploit was in full view of several passers-
by and on a
much frequented pathway.

No sign of his existence until
the frantic squawk of the terrified hon drew attention to the fray, she hugging the ground
which she was naturally loth to leave, he beating his wings in an endeavour to compel her to do so.

The hen's astonished owner
scared the hawk away, and the
intended victim, apparently uninjured, though partly bald and
entirely bereft of dignity, crept
fearfully away.

Upon what does the local
hawk exist?

Countless times have I watched his easy graceful soar—only
this once have I known him
swoop.

Strangely perhaps, small wild birds seem unconcerned, but
cage-birds cower at his shadow.

"A MILLION DOLLARS REWARD, DEAD OR ALIVE"

WE WERE standing near the entrance to the Post Office.
I mopped my brow and Waffles
loosened his collar.

"I'm afraid we've lost it," I said.
The words were hardly out of my
mouth when Waffles excitedly clutched
my arm and pointed across the
road.

"There it is again," he shouted.
"Come on!"

I was close at his heels as we leapt across the bows of a passing
tram. Speeding up Pedder Street,
opened-mouthed pedestrians automatically cleared a path for us. Someone blew a police whistle.

Other people joined us, but Waffles
and I were always a few yards ahead.
I am not so nimble on my feet as he used to be, but the excitement of the chase spurred me on.

"I'll bet . . . it's making for . . .
Ice House Street," shouted Waffles
as we ran. "I'm sure that's where
it sleeps at night . . . in some kind
of a lair."

"I believe you're right," I panted
as we saw our quarry turning sharply to the left in Queen's Road
Central.

Conversation under the circumstances was rather difficult.
If only we had a gun!

"The traffic cop . . . at the corner
may get him," shouted Waffles.

PERSPIRATION trickling down my
face rather blurred my vision,
and I'm not quite certain what did happen at the corner of Ice House
Street.

I did, however, catch a glimpse of
the constabulary and horror on the Chinese constable's face as he saw
what was approaching him and the crowd that followed in its wake.

He made a wild swipe at it as it passed,
but, whether in self defence or whether he seriously thought he could stop it with his baton, I don't know.

The "thing" turned down Ice
House Street, as Waffles had predicted, and the crowd surged after
it.

One of the brokers threw his bowler hat at it, but missed. It hesitated for a few seconds, and we all thought
it was going to attack the Stock Exchange Building. Then it must have changed its mind, for, like an express train, it rounded the corner into Des Voeux Road Central and made
straight for the Hongkong Bank.

"It's taking cover," screamed
Waffles, as it dived through the
swing doors of the bank.

I held my hand up to the crowd.
It was time to call a halt. We needed a few minutes respite in which to recover our breath.

Half of Hongkong seemed to be
at our heels.

I spotted Ah Lum, and signalled
him to join us in the front line.

"Ah Lum," I said, "double pay
and six months' holiday if you capture it!"

"Very warm to-day," he replied.
"Bye and bye I think we have some rain."

THE BANK OFFICIALS were evacuating. I was not a bit surprised. The "thing" had taken possession of the Overdraft Department,
and was barricading itself in with ledgers.

We threw a cordon around the
building.

You know how the most inconequential things often occur to you
at the most dramatic moments of
your life?

Well, looking at Waffles crouching
at the entrance to the bank, I could not help thinking how much he resembled one of the bronze lions on either side. His hair, loosened by the wind and the strenuous running,
was not unlike a lion's mane.

by GEOFFREY
SUCKLING

It did not surprise me, therefore,
when a man in the crowd, carrying a
back.

I read it.
"Whereas, under the Powers
granted me, etc. etc. a State
of Emergency . . . $1,000,000 will be paid . . . Dead or Alive!"

Things were certainly looking
serious.

I found Mrs. FitzPillsbury at my
elbow.

"Oh, I do 'ope they catch it!" she said to me. "It's been 'unting us
for years!"

And she echoed the feelings of everyone. Married or single, male or female, Patricians or Plebeians, we were all after the blood of Hongkong's Public Enemy No. 1.

MRS. FITZPILLSBURY gave a scream.

"Lor-luv-a-duck! They're a'calling out the soldiers!"

It was true enough. I could see
in the distance a regiment of men,
led by Colonel Pimpton Boomer,
making its way with rhythmic tread
towards us.

Police, with drawn revolvers, and
soldiers, with fixed bayonets, soon
formed a phalanx around the bank building, somewhere inside of which lurked the foulest of fiends.

"It's on an occasion like this," said Waffles, "that I feel at my best. I can picture my overdraft being devoured by this monster incarnation . . . piece by piece . . . cent by cent . . . and I can picture myself
receiving a cheque for 1,000,000."

I can see my photograph in the
"Hongkong Telegraph" . . . I can see . . . I cut him short.

"I can see you being blown to atoms," I said, "if you don't come
away from that door."

"What do you mean?" he asked.
"I mean," I replied, pointing to the
harbour, "that, unless I am very much mistaken, one of His Majesty's cruisers is going to open fire."

Waffles gasped.

"Surely they are not going to shell
the bank!"

"That's precisely what they are going to do," I answered. "Can't you see them clearing the deck for action. What does it matter if they damage the bank, so long as 'it' is destroyed?"

We beat a hasty retreat across the
road.

WITH THE BARK of the first
gun, Waffles turned a somersault and Ah Lum turned green. I heard the tinkle of breaking glass
as Mrs. FitzPillsbury's forlornettes crashed to the ground.

As salvo after salvo screamed
over our heads, I metaphorically
took my hat off twice. Once to the navy for their accurate shooting,
and once to the police for such perfect liaison work.

A traffic policeman was stationed
at the bank entrance, and each time he saw a gun flash he opened the swing doors. The shell passed through with a whistle and burst with a dull roar in the overdraft department.

"Attaboy!" shouted Waffles with glee. "That ought to liquidate my jolly old overdraft!"

The crowd caught up the cry.
"ATTABOY!" it roared.

THE FIRING ceased.

Within the bank all was quiet.
Was it dead or merely shamming?
And then the incredible happened.
With a mighty roar, it charged out on us.

With literally mowing its way through the solid ranks of soldiers, police and civilians who tried to bar its way.

A few drops of blood from a bayonet wound showed us that it had taken a westerly direction. But, despite the assistance from a squadron of aeroplanes, the trail was soon lost.
However, a passion for hot dogs led to its subsequent downfall and capture.

Waffles came to me, aglow with excitement.

"I have it from well-informed quarters," he told me, "that it is at present devouring a hot dog in an alleyway near Lane, Crawford's."

He led the way, a handkerchief, dipped in chloroform, clutched in his right hand.

His information was correct.
We spotted it sitting on its haunches eating hot dogs.

We approached, and Waffles applied the handkerchief.

It swooned and collapsed.
The whole of Hongkong gave a mighty sigh of relief.

"WHAT IS your name?" asked the Chief Justice.

"I am the SPIRIT OF DEPRES-SION," the monster replied.

"Address?"

"No fixed abode."

"You are charged," said the Chief Justice, "with being a suspected person, with undermining Public Confidence, with torturing with intent to commit a felony, with hawking without a licence, and with the larceny of two dozen hot dogs."

"Do you plead guilty or not guilty?"

"Guilty," said the prisoner, hanging his head.

"You are sentenced to banishment for life, and a fine of fifty cents," said the Judge. "I will also make an order for the confiscation of any hot dogs not already consumed."

DEPRESSION was banished.
Waffles got his million dollars.
Ah Lum took another concubine.
I bought a box of for de cabbage
cigars.

And once again, "the voice of the turtle was heard in the land."

ABSENCE OF UMPIRE PUTS TSUI YUN-PUI OFF HIS GAME

T.J. Gould Plays Well In Tennis Tournament

(By "Abe")

Far from being as one-sided as most people had expected, the second round match in the Colony Tennis Singles Championships played yesterday between Tsui Yun-pui and T. J. Gould provided much that was interesting. Considering that he was up against a man who is generally regarded as almost a certainty to enter the final, Gould put up a surprisingly good fight, and with a bit of luck might have even taken the first set.

Revealing an unexpectedly strong drive on both hands, Gould held his own for the first nine games, often beating Tsui with cross-drives which were taken early in the bounce. He was also placing his shots well and time and again forced the Chinese into errors.

It is true to say that in the first nine games Tsui played about the worst game he has been seen to do in the Championships in the last two or three years; but credit must be given to Gould for forcing the pace and taking full advantage of his opponent's lapses.

The absence of an umpire seemed to unsettle Tsui, who was making frequent mistakes, over-hitting being his greatest fault. When Gould was leading 5-4, Tsui asked for an umpire and a change came over his game as soon as Mr. P. E. Baskett had taken the chair.

At once he jumped into his stride and took eight games in a row, which not only gave him the first set but also a lead of 5-0 in the second. He eventually went out in the seventh game.

Gould was at his best at the baseline, and though he scored with few splendid volleys he was not so impressive at the net. In the only other match played yesterday, Lee Wai-long defeated a club-mate, Leong Ping-chiu, in two love sets. The Chinese soccer idol seemed to be in a great hurry and won his match inside 25 minutes.

TO-DAY'S PROGRAMME

One of the best matches in the early rounds of the singles is promised for this afternoon when Lim Thiam-tet, the former Perak champion, will be given his first big test. He will be up against E. C. Fincher who, even if he is not as good as he used to be, is still steady enough to be a proposition for any local player. Certainly if he can produce the form he showed in beating Paul Kong, Fincher will have a good chance of winning.

The programme to-day is as follows: Open Singles—Lim Thiam-tet v. E. C. Fincher (stand court); T. M. A. Razack v. Luk Chun-chung; Tsui Wai-pui v. Wong Shu-wing.

Open Doubles—Major F. C. Nottingham and Capt. R. B. Lecky v. Lt. Col. L. A. Newham and Major F. T. Baines.

Handicap Singles—N. L. Evans v. L. M. S. Lloyd; T. J. Price v. R. K. Valentine.

Handicap Doubles—J. L. C. Pearce and T. E. Pearce v. E. Laidlaw and A. C. Beck.

Handicap Mixed Doubles—E. J. R.

Results Of Matches Played Yesterday

The following were the results of matches played in the Colony Tennis Championships yesterday:

OPEN SINGLES

Tsui Yun-pui beat T. J. Gould 7-5, 6-1.
Lee Wai-long beat Leong Ping-chiu 6-0, 6-0.

EVERTON FORGING AHEAD

Wolves Beaten By Stoke

London, Mar. 29. Wolves lost valuable ground today in the English Football League when, visiting Stoke City, they were defeated by five goals to three. On the other hand, Everton, the League leaders, went further ahead by winning their away match against Manchester United by two goals to nil.

To-day's results have given Everton a lead of five points.

Portsmouth, the Wolves' opponents in the Cup Final, were soundly thrashed by Middlesbrough and lost by eight goals to two.

Birmingham, at the bottom of the League Table, could take only one point from their home match against Huddersfield.

HONGKONG XI CAPABLE OF HOLDING THEIR OWN

The stage is now all set for the Interport with Shanghai, to be played on April 8. Hongkong has selected as strong a team as has been possible with the material at its disposal and will shortly sail for the north.

Miss Iris Woolley, the C.B.A. pivot, will captain the Hongkong Ladies' Interport team.

Cotton And Denny Lead Golf Tourney

London, Mar. 29. At Bournemouth to-day Henry Cotton and Cecil Denny, each with 69, led the first round of the Daily Mail Professional Golf Tournament.

A. J. Lacey and H. R. Manton, each with 70, follow closely behind.

Last year's winner, Wilfred Perry, and the Open Champion, Reginald Whitcombe, each had 81 after adventures among trees and going other poor rounds despite the perfect conditions.

After the second round, which will be played on Thursday, the leading 50 will enter Friday's 36-holes final.

RANDOM JOTTINGS BY "THE PILGRIM"

AT King's Park last Sunday in a practice match, the Ladies' Interport team defeated the C.B.S. girls by 7-0. The Colony forwards, well served by their halves, showed crispness in their quick, short passing, and swept down the field time and again, and led by 5-0 at the interval. Miss Greig (3), Mrs. Read and Mrs. Dalziel were the goal-scorers. In the second half further goals were scored by Miss H. Reid, who was seen at inside left, and Miss Greig. Little comment is necessary regarding the game itself; it was very one-sided.

THOUGH the C.B.S. girls were badly trounced—this was expected—they put up an excellent show against their more experienced opponents. The school attack, with Miss M. Shand, Miss D. McCaw and Miss J. Moss, showed up to better advantage in the second half, but they could not manage to find the net on several occasions in the first half were only prevented from scoring by the experience and good play of Mrs. Lunson in goal. Miss A. Smith at centre-half played a good game and gave the Interport inside trio quite a strenuous time. Miss E. Watson at left half, also worked hard and it was really unfortunate she was hit on the nose by a rising ball which necessitated her leaving the field at the interval. The school-girls were no match for the Interports, but they are to be commended in their plucky display.

MR. D. Smith, League Secretary of the H.K.H.A., who will be in Shanghai on vacation during the Ladies' Interport visit, has been approached by the H.K.L.H.A. to act as official umpire for the games up north. Mr. Smith, who is a well-qualified umpire, has accepted the invitation.

MISS M. Booker, the Interport reserve, is still at the Kowloon Hospital and will not make the trip to Shanghai as previously announced. However, enthusiasts will be pleased to learn that her condition is much improved.

IN a friendly game at King's Park last Sunday, India, fielding their International team, defeated Rectorio by 4-0. The International Tournament will commence in the second week of April.

THE new Scottish and English representatives for the International Tournament are Mr. R. Henderson and Mr. A.E.P. Guest respectively. Players anxious to represent their country are requested to communicate with the former, c/o Harbour View Hotel, Kowloon, and the latter, c/o The Observatory Wireless Station, Kowloon, immediately.

Mrs. Wilmot, of the Seaford Ladies, will play at left back for the Colony.

Budge Will Earn £50,000 In Three Years

Plans Retirement From Professional Tennis After Wembley Tourney

London, March 10.

In all probability Donald Budge will be appearing for the last time as a professional tennis player when he competes in the Wembley tournament next May. Such is his power as a money-maker that, at 22, he is already talking of retiring!

Budge, brilliant craftsman of the courts, has had only six months of professionalism. In that time he has passed the £15,000 guarantee given by F. T. Hunter's syndicate when they secured his signature.

On that basis Budge reckons to clear £50,000 in three years, and with £50,000 put away to earn interest, there will be little cause for him to continue playing tennis, except for pleasure.

No-Budge fancies that he will quit professional tennis and go to work.

Of course, this money has been earned in the United States, where professional tennis has become such an attraction that the amateur people are getting nervous. Whether it can pull as strongly here is another matter.

HINTS BY EXPERTS

There are good opportunities for prize money in tennis. The Budge-Perry-Vines series, which opened in Madison Square Garden in January, has so far grossed £40,000.

Americans have developed the habit of watching tennis after dinner. In fact, the demand in sport is for competition on knockout lines. Anything savouring of exhibition or display must be very good indeed to draw.

However, we shall see. The same players will be in opposition at Wembley, though not for guaranteed fees, but for prize money to be distributed on victories and defeats.

Then, at Olympia, starting March 22 and running until April 4 a professional show will feature Tilden, Cochet, Muskell, Nusslein, and others. A novel idea here will be afternoon lectures and demonstrations by the players.

At night it will be all competitive play, but in the afternoon one will be able to drop in at Olympia and receive tennis hints from experts.

MASS TUITION

During the show's run it is planned to entertain (in batches) 2,000 boys and girls at afternoon sessions. The youngsters will see shots demonstrated, and be given, it is hoped, advice on which they will act when summer comes.

It will be the first attempt by professional showmen to do something for the coaching side of tennis, and if another Fred Perry or Dorothy Round springs up as a result everybody will be delighted.

But while it is not intended to minimise the value of good coaching (for it can help a lot), the hard fact remains that some of the greatest exponents of cricket, football, boxing, lawn tennis, etc., never had a lesson in their lives.

The giants of sport, whose names live on, more often than not taught themselves. Or perhaps it would be more accurate to say that they were an instinct for a particular game and developed it. They just "happened."

SHOT CONSCIOUS

A good sports coach strives to develop a youngster's game on the lines best suited to his personality, physique, natural style, and instincts.

The man who says, "Hopeless, my lad. You will have to change your entire game," is a bad coach.

John Archer, a good young tennis player, was once Surrey champion. He was once when he remarked, "I believe it is impossible to play a good game if you are over-analysing every stroke you make. It's the surest way of developing nerves."

Americans speak of being "shot conscious" from this. Sufferers from this mindy are people who have been so thoroughly coached that they are playing worse than when they started to be coached.

OUR GUIDE TO THE CINEMAS

"Three Blind Mice" (King's, to-day).—Three pretty girls desert their Kansas chicken ranch and invade California with a $5,000 legacy to catch a rich husband. One plays heiress, another, maid, and the third, secretary. This being a romantic comedy, they all get what they want. The film may be described as "cute." Joel McCrea, Loretta Young, Marjorie Weaver, Pauline Moore, David Niven and Stuart Erwin have the leading roles.

"Spring Madness" (Queen's, to-day).—Young love out for a fling. Entertaining show with Maureen O'Sullivan, Lew Ayres, Ruth Hussey, Burgess Meredith and Joyce Compton taking the chief roles. On the stage is "Argus," who mystifies with his knowledge of your inner thoughts.

"The Crime of Dr. Halket" (Alhambra, to-day).—Though it never rises above its station in the alphabet, this is a serious story sincerely acted about doctors who risk their lives in tropic places fighting disease. The plot is melodramatic and the atmosphere is of course strongly medical.

Ralph Bellamy, William Gargan, Josephine Hutchinson and Barbara Read are the principals.

"The Lone Wolf in Paris" (Oriental, to-day).—When one has accepted the story, one can settle down to enjoy the film, which is quite entertaining in its way. Francis Lederer and Frances Drake try to make the show convincing.

"Battle of Broadway" (Majestic, to-day).—With some of the subtlety of a charging bull, this will appeal to those who once revelled in the Flag-Knight rivalry. Legionnaires Victor McLaglen and Brian Donlevy battle for the hand of Louise Rainer, only to lose her to Raymond Walburn.

"The Good Earth" (Cathay, to-day).—Those who have not yet seen this classic should not miss this opportunity of doing so. Magnificent portrayals are given by Paul Muni and Luise Rainer.

Hongkong on April 8, and to present the trophy to the winning team.

Shanghai has selected a good team. The nucleus of the forward line has been drawn from the Greens, the local champions.

The Rest of Shanghai will play Hongkong on April 9, and the Greens meet the Colony side on April 10. Several tiffin and tea parties have been arranged, but the main event will be the Interport dance at the Shanghai Race Club on April 11.

It's just as easy to fall in love with a millionaire, Loretta Young finds in "Three Blind Mice," showing to-day at the King's Theatre. Joel McCrea is her millionaire.

SOME COMMON FAULTS OF MANY PLAYERS

(By "The Pilgrim")

SELFISHNESS

NO one can play hockey by himself, but only as a member of a team; therefore play with your team and not by yourself. Hanging on to the ball no matter how expert a dribbler you may be—upsets the balance of your side and weakens its effectiveness. Hockey is a game of fleeting opportunities, which can only be turned to profit by frequent and quick passing.

ONE HANDED PLAY

A COMMON mistake with beginners, and one which it is difficult to cure, once it has been allowed to become a habit. There can be neither accuracy of hitting nor control of the ball in dribbling, unless both hands are kept on the stick.

PERHAPS the commonest mistake of all. The stick is so made that in its normal position it is held on the right-hand side of the body, consequently, the easiest direction for hitting the ball is to the left, by swinging the stick slightly across the front of the body. Backs and halves are especially offenders in this respect, frequently clearing to the left even when there is ample time by a little manoeuvre to hit to the right. Unless this tendency is constantly corrected, it results in an unbalanced attack and in overworking the left wing and starving the right. It is all the more important to correct this fault, for the attack is more easily made from the right wing than from the left.

THIS is due to a failure to see how the field is placed. It is not always possible to take one's eyes right off the ball, but a player will find it possible to cultivate the habit of forming a mental picture of the field, so that he may know more or less accurately where and when to direct his pass. The art of visualising the field can be easily acquired if a more upright position is adopted. No one who plays with his body crouching over his stick can see beyond the radius of a few yards.

NEGLECT OF PROPER MARKING

MANY a side is beaten because the defence fails to mark the opposing forwards properly, and this fault can generally be traced to a lack of understanding between halves and backs. Of course, there are exceptions to every rule, but the main principle in this—Wing halves should mark wing forwards, the centre-forwards, and opposing inside forwards should be left to run into the arms of the backs. A mistake frequently seen is when wing halves leave their opposing wing forwards to go in and tackle an inside forward. The moment a wing half does this, the opposing inside at once passes to his outside who promptly goes away down the wing.

GERMANY SCRATCH TO IRELAND

The Ireland v. Germany international which was to have been played at Dublin last month, was cancelled by the German Hockey Bund owing to an epidemic of influenza and the difficulty of getting to considerable expense in printing and selling tickets and making arrangements for the dinner. It has created a very unfavourable opinion in Ireland as some sort of German team ought to have been sent to honour the fixture.

Even if the whole eleven had gone down with influenza, we should have seen an Irish team over rather than a German team. The Irish Union, the International Hockey Board, and the German Hockey Bund are all agreed to postpone the match to October, as, if so, influenza might again break out and prevent a German side travelling.

A Look Through The "Telegraph"

50 YEARS AGO

March 30, 1889.
We are desired to mention for the benefit of an illustrious subscriber that last July the Police petitioned for more pay, and that their petition has not even been acknowledged yet. A misapprehension is threatened, and well we should not like to be the offending party.

The most amusing thing I ever saw at a dance? Well, I'll tell you two, and you can take your choice. No. 1 was at a small dance party given at a private house. It was late in the evening, and when the music died away a couple and the dancers had snatched themselves round the room, there, lying in open sight in the centre of the room, lay a beautiful blue silk garter. My first impulse was to step forward and pick it up and look for the owner, but I was afraid she would not thank me for my trouble, so the trickster lay where it was until a servant was actually sent with a dustpan and brush, and the offending article was swept from the floor while the guests tried vainly not to see what was going on. At another part the overskirt of one of the ladies who was dancing collapsed and hung limp and useless, where it had previously swelled in triumphant pride. The cause of this sudden metamorphosis was the loss of a newspaper, which was found on the floor, and when it was picked up a hasty glance showed that the particular journal that had been dedicated to this purpose was the Christian at Work.

25 YEARS AGO

March 30, 1914.
Reuter's correspondent at St. Petersburg (now Leningrad) says the programme of the new Air Fleet which is at present being worked out, provides for the construction of 256 ordinary aeroplanes, ten air-dreadnoughts, and three alarhops.

After a run of five successive victories for Oxford, the Cambridge crew has succeeded in once more winning the "Varsity Boat Race. Since 1908, when Cambridge covered the distance in 19 minutes 19 seconds, Oxford has had no difficulty in pulling off the event, and in four out of the five victories their time has been better than that recorded for this year's winners.

10 YEARS AGO

March 30, 1929.
Preparations for the transfer of the present telephone undertaking to the automatic system have already been commenced and at the present rate of progress it is hoped to have the new phones operating at the beginning of next year.

5 YEARS AGO

March 30, 1934.
Professor Einstein figures on a list of thirty-five names gazetted of people who are declared to have forfeited their German citizenship for "harming Germany" interests by disloyal behaviour.
All their property in Germany is declared to be confiscated by the Government, under this ruling.

Church bells were rung and awastika flags displayed from hundreds of Nazi houses in the Saar to-day in connection with an appeal for the unification of all the German political parties of the Saar in a common Nazi-inspired "German Front." For the purposes of that persuasive propaganda of which the Nazis are masters the desired unification is taken as an accomplished fact in the appeal published in the Saarlanaestler Press.

Even the sophisticated newspaper readers of Berlin are asked to believe that from to-day on there is not a Socialist or a Communist left among the 820,000 Saarlanders.

I ASKED MUSSOLINI

'Vagueness is a stranger to all my policies'

Last article of a series in which questions are put to the Duce by an interpreter — and answered from Mussolini's "My Autobiography."

Q. Is the reputation you have for bluffing and gambling justified?

A. "I have controlled my impatience. I have avoided leaps into the darkness."

"I do not sleep my way to conclusions." (p. 245.)

Q. What has been the key to your success in foreign policy till now?

A. "I believe that there can be counted among my qualities one of being able to act in good season, and to strike at the right moment without false sentimentality where the shadow of a weakness or a trap is hidden." (p. 245.)

Q. HOW would you describe that policy, much criticised by others?

A. "Loyal policy is the one which scores the greatest success. Ambiguities and vagueness are not of my temperament, and consequently they are strangers to any policy of mine."

"I feel that I can speak with firmness and dignity because I have behind me a people who having fulfilled the duties, now have sacred rights to defend and for which to demand respect." (p. 210.)

Q. Have you a world mission, as Hitler believes he has?

A. "I am desperately Italian. I believe in the function of Italy." (p. 32.)

Q. Hitler says he is an idealist. Do you?

A. "I founded my labour on facts and the real conditions of the Italian people; from such realistic activity I drew valuable lessons. I have been able to give useful, immediate results, looking towards a new future of our country." (p. 230.)

Q. What are your immediate aims, then?

A. "I am tireless in my wish to see newly born and newly reborn Italians. With all my strength, with all my energies, without pause, without interruptions, I want to bring to them their fullest opportunities."

"I have made a profound study of the interests, the aspirations and the tendencies of our masses. I push on towards better forces of life and progress. I value them, I launch them, I guide them."

"I desire our nation to conquer again, with Fascist vigour, some decades or perhaps a decade of lost history." (p. 251.)

Q. Are you personally ambitious for power or money?

A. "In politics I have never gained a penny. I detect those who live like parasites sucking away at the edges of social struggles. I hate men who grow rich in politics." (p. 24.)

"I ask nothing for myself or mine; no material goods, no honours, no testimonials, no resolutions of approval which presume to consecrate me to history." (p. 250.)

"I want to be a simple servant of the State; chief of a party, but, first, worthy head of a strong Government." (p. 70.)

Q. Are dictators like yourself personally responsible for all their actions?

A. "My life identifies itself almost exclusively with thousands of acts of government. Individually, disappears. Instead, the person expresses. I sometimes feel only measures and acts of concrete character; these do not concern a single person; they concern the multitudes, they concern and permeate an entire people."

"So one's whole life is lost in the whole." (p. 167.)

Q. You have the reputation of soft-peddling possible rivals, when they become too popular. Is this true?

A. "I am strict with my most faithful followers. I always intervene where excesses and intemperances are revealed." (p. 251.)

Q. You and Hitler are always saying you represent the Italian and German peoples. How do you know this?

A. "I am near to the heart of the masses and listen to its beats. I read its aspirations and interest. I probe at its purity and soundness." (p. 251.)

Q. Hitler says a leader must be master of the masses, not their suppliant. Do you agree?

A. "I have never flattered the crowd nor wheedled any one. I spoke always of the costs of victories—sacrifice and sweat and blood." (p. 28.)

"I didn't want to ingratiate myself with the masses. I have always spoken with naked candour and even with brutality to the multitudes. That is a distinct contrast to the contemptible courtship made for their favour by the political parties of every time and every land." (p. 143.)

Q. Most people say that dictators must always be on the go, never letting their followers pause. Is this true?

A. "I was then a restless being, I am still. I could not understand why it is necessary to take time in order to act. Rest for restfulness meant nothing to me, then any more than now."

"I believe in those youthful years, just as now, my day began and ended with an act of will—by will put into action." (p. 18.)

Q. Do you take the advice of others ever?

A. "I do not reject advice, even from opponents, whenever they are honest." (p. 251.)

"During my life, I believe, neither my school friends, my war friends, nor my political friends have ever had the slightest influence on me. I have listened always with intense interest to their words, their suggestions and sometimes to their advice, but I am sure that whenever I took an extreme decision I have obeyed only the firm commandment of will and conscience which came from within."

"I do not believe in the supposed influence of books. I do not believe in the influence which comes from perusing the books about the lives and characters of men. For myself, I have used only one big book. For myself, I have had only one great teacher. The book is life lived. The teacher is day-by-day experience." (p. 30.)

Q. You and Hitler are fond of theatrical orations. What is your real opinion of political speeches?

A. "I have seen the futility of those who speak endlessly streams of words. These words are like armies enlisted for ever to go away into the night, never to return from a campaign where the enemies are compromise with principle, cowardice, inaction, and idealism without realism." (p. 201.)

Q. Do dictators have any private life? Hitler is an ascetic whose hobbies are walking and architecture.

A. "I abandoned without regret all the superfluous comforts of life. I made only an exception for sports which, while making my body alert and ready, succeeded in creating in my complex life of work healthy and happy intervals. I have almost entirely abandoned all the theatre, which once took away from me useful hours of evening work."

"I love all sports; I drive with confidence a motor-car, I have done tours at great speed, amazing not only to my friends, but also to old and experienced drivers.

"I love the airplane; I have flown numberless times."

"Motors give me a new and great sensation of strength. A horseback ride on a magnificent sorrel is also for me a joyous interruption, and tending to which I devote myself, often with remarkable physical advantages, gives me the greatest satisfaction. I ask of my violin nothing more than serene hours of music."

"To the great poets, as Dante, to the supreme philosophers, as Plato, I ask of them often hours of poetry, hours of meditation."

"No other amusement interests me. I do not drink; I do not smoke and I am not interested in cards or games."

"As for the love of the table I don't appreciate it. I do not feel it. My meals are as sober as those of a pauper." (p. 170.)

Q. Don't you ever wonder if you are not on the wrong track?

A. "I never had any parenthesis of uncertainty; fortunately, I never knew those discouragements or those exaltations which often are harmful to the effectiveness of a statesman."

"From hateful and useless debates and snarling talk we finally climbed up to a solidified nation, to a powerful harmony—dominated, inspired and spiritualised by Fascism."

"I am not the judge of that. The world is." (pp. 171-172.)

Q. What made you decide to be a dictator? Do you believe in Hitler's Fuehrer-principle?

A. "I wanted with all my desire to strip from our party the personal character which the Fascist movement had assumed because of the stamp of my will. But the more I wished to give the party an autonomous organisation, and the more I tried, the more I received the conviction from the evidence of the facts—that the party could not have existed and lived, and could not be triumphant, except under my command, my guidance, my support, and my spur." (p. 122.)

LATE NEWS

Notes Published

Paris, Mar. 30.—Texts of Italian Note to France on December 17 and French reply on December 25 have been published.

The Italian Note declares that ratification of the Italo-French Agreement on January 7, 1935 did not take place. The French attitude to the Abyssinian affair entirely opposed the intention of the agreement which was no, so far as Italy was concerned, null and void. The Constitution of the Italian empire more-over created new rights and interests hence that agreement as a basis.

The French reply stated that the application of the 1935 Agreement had been started and in various negotiations until April 22, 1938, the agreement had been taken as valid. The Note concludes by referring to France's moderating influence at Geneva regarding Italy's action in Abyssinia.—Reuter.

Poland Stands Firm

WARSAW, Mar. 30.—While political quarters deny the existence of concrete proposals by Germany to modify the status of Danzig and to permit transit across the Polish corridor, it is believed that proposals of this nature were recently submitted by Herr von Ribbentrop, Reich Foreign Minister, to the Polish Ambassador.

It is understood that Poland declined to entertain such proposals under the implied threat of military pressure.

Partial mobilisation has given Poland confidence in her ability to resist undue pressure and it is felt that the Government will now only discuss the Danzig and Polish Corridor problems on a footing of equality.—Reuter.

Film Stars Wed

KINGMAN, Ariz., Mar. 30.—Clark Gable and Carole Lombard were married here to-day. Clark's wife recently divorced him. Carole was formerly wife of William Powell.—Reuter.

Leaves Fortune To Exchequer

LONDON.

No one suspected when Albert John Grave died in dingy lodgings in Bristol that he was a wealthy man, but his will, which was recently probated, reveals that he had a fortune of £150,773.

All of it, with the exception of a few hundred dollars which were bequeathed to charities, will go to the Chancellor of the Exchequer for the reduction of the national debt.

During the years he resided in Bristol, he never spent more than 30/- a week. Friendless and reluctant, Grave sought no company. He never read, but spent hours looking out of the window on his drab surroundings puffing away at an old clay pipe.

PRINTERS FINED

Summoned for printing a magazine called "Warlike Japan" without the publication being passed by the authorities, and for printing a magazine without showing the name of the publisher or printer, the China Printing Company, of King's Road, were fined $25 on each charge by Mr. R. A. D. Forrest at the Central Magistracy yesterday.

The case was adjourned from last week for the Secretary for Chinese Affairs to decide whether the publication was offensive, and yesterday a representative from the S. C. A. said that they did not object to the magazine being printed, but certain parts would have to be censored. It was also stated that the Police were not pressing the case.
